Introduction

What does the book contain?

This book is updated for the new Cambridge English: Advanced examination introduced in 2015 and contains two sections: Grammar (Units 1–25) and Vocabulary (Units 26–45).

What does the book aim to do?

This book aims to provide complete coverage of the grammar and vocabulary needed for success in the Cambridge English: Advanced, also known as the Certificate in Advanced English (CAE). Regular exam practice is provided throughout the book.

Units 1–25 present grammar in context followed by a detailed analysis of the language for advanced learners of English. Units 26–45 extend vocabulary knowledge – including of collocations and idioms – and introduce ways of studying vocabulary which will help you pass the exam.

Who is the book aimed at?

This book is for anyone preparing for success in the Cambridge English: Advanced. It is designed primarily for students working alone who want to revise, extend and practise their knowledge and understanding of grammar and vocabulary, but it can also be used on a Cambridge English: Advanced preparation course in the classroom, or can be set as homework by a teacher.

How do I use the book?

You can work through the units in any order, but we advise you to study every unit if you want to prepare thoroughly for the exam. It is best to work through a unit from beginning to end, as exercises may revise grammar or vocabulary from an earlier part of the same unit.

Each of the 25 units in the Grammar section is divided into three sections. Context listening introduces the grammar of the unit in context to help you understand it more easily. Grammar provides detailed explanations of specific grammar points and includes Start points which act as a brief reminder of grammar you may already know. Grammar exercises provide practice of the grammar of each unit.

Each of the 20 units in the Vocabulary section is based on a general topic (e.g. Cities) and presents general exercises on vocabulary for two areas within the main unit topic (e.g. Urban growth and Urban living).

Each unit of the book includes an Exam practice section which provides practice of the types of tasks you will face in the Reading and Use of English, Writing and Listening sections of the Cambridge English: Advanced examination. Note: Some of the Exam practice tasks test mainly the grammar or vocabulary taught in the same unit, to give extra practice. However, in the real exam each question tests a different grammar/vocabulary point or a different aspect of language.

The Answer key contains answers to all the exercises in the book, including alternative answers where more than one correct answer is possible.

What does this symbol mean?

This symbol appears in the Error warning! boxes of the Vocabulary section and indicates that the errors were found in the Cambridge Learner Corpus, a database made up of many thousands of exam scripts written by students taking Cambridge English exams around the world. The exam practice tasks have been informed by the English Vocabulary Profile. The English Vocabulary Profile is an online resource with detailed and up-to-date information about the words, phrases, phrasal verbs and idioms that learners of English know at each of the six levels of the Common European Framework (A1 to C2), which guarantees suitable treatment of words, phrases and phrasal verbs at C1 level.

When should I use a dictionary?

To get the most out of the Vocabulary section, you will need a good dictionary. Use the Cambridge Advanced Learner's Dictionary or another suitable monolingual dictionary. You should try to do each vocabulary exercise without a dictionary first, then use your dictionary to help you with answers you didn't know. Use the Answer key as a final check. When you see the dictionary symbol, you are advised to use a dictionary to complete the exercise.

What material can I find online?

The following material for use with this book can be found online at www.cambridge.org/grammarvocabadvanced:

- Audio recordings for all listening exercises and for exam practice Listening tasks
- Complete Recording scripts for each audio file
- Reference notes which give further information and support on the grammar and vocabulary in this book
- Wordlists for key items in the Vocabulary section
- Model answers to the Exam practice: Writing tasks Parts 1 and 2

Exam summary

Reading and Use of English (1 hour 30 minutes)

Part	What are the tasks?	What do I have to do?	How many questions?
1	Multiple-choice cloze	You read a text with eight gaps. For each gap you choose the correct word from one of four possible answers (A, B, C or D).	8
2	Open cloze	You read a text with eight gaps. You must write one word in each gap.	8
3	Word formation	You read a text with eight gaps. For each gap you write the correct form of the word at the end of each line.	8
4	Key word transformation	You are given a complete sentence and a second gapped sentence. You complete the second sentence so that it has the same meaning using a given 'key word'.	6
5	Multiple choice	You read a text and answer six multiple-choice questions. You choose from four possible answers (A, B, C or D).	6
6	Cross-text multiple matching	You read four short texts on the same topic. You have to match each question to the correct text.	4
7	Gapped text	You read a text from which paragraphs have been removed and put in a jumbled order. You have to choose which paragraph fits into which space. There is a paragraph which does not fit into any space.	6
8	Multiple matching	You scan a text or several short texts and decide which part of a text or text each question refers to. Some questions may refer to more than one part of a text or text.	10

Writing (1 hour 30 minutes)

Part	What are the tasks?	What do I have to do?	How many questions?
1	Write an essay	You plan and write an essay on the topic given in the question paper. Your essay must be 220–260 words.	1
2	Write a text of a particular type	You choose, plan and write only one of the following possible text types: a letter, a proposal, a report or a review. Your text must be relevant to the situation described in the question. Your text must be 220–260 words.	1 from a choice of 3

Listening (40 minutes)

Part	What are the tasks?	What do I have to do?	How many questions?
1	Multiple choice	You hear three short extracts and have to answer two multiple-choice questions on each extract. For each question you choose one of three possible answers (A, B or C).	6
2	Sentence completion	You use information you hear to complete sentences with gaps.	8
3	Multiple choice	You hear a recording with six multiple-choice questions. For each question you choose one of four possible answers (A, B, C or D).	6
4	Multiple matching	You hear five short themed monologues with multiple-matching questions. You match a statement or opinion from a list of six options for each speaker.	10

Speaking (15 minutes)

Part	What are the tasks?	What do I have to do?	How long is each part?
1	General conversation	You answer questions about general topics such as your daily life, your interests or your experiences.	2 minutes
2	Individual 'long turn'	You talk about a set of three pictures on your own for around a minute. Then you listen to your partner talk about a different set of pictures before commenting on what they have said.	4 minutes
3	Discussion	You and your partner are given some written instructions for a discussion task.	4 minutes
4	Discussion	You and your partner discuss topics related to the task in Part 3.	5 minutes

Tenses

Simple and continuous tenses; perfect tenses; present perfect continuous and past perfect continuous

Context listening

1.1 You are going to hear part of a radio phone-in programme. Before you listen, look at the photos. What do you think the topic of the phone-in is?

1.2 02 Listen and check whether you were right. As you listen, answer the questions.

Which of the callers, Karen, Liam, Sahar or Luka ...

- 1 ... lost something on the train one day? Sahar
- 2 ... travels to work by bus? _____
- 3 ... works at home permanently? _____
- 4 ... may buy a motorbike? _____
- 5 ... has always liked travelling by train? _____
- 6 ... used to catch the train at a quarter past seven in the morning? _____
- 7 ... is working at home temporarily? _____
- 8 ... has never owned a car? _____

1.3 02 Listen again and fill in the gaps.

- 1 I commuted to London for over ten years.
- 2 I _____ over an hour when they announced that the train was cancelled.
- 3 I _____ of buying a motorbike.
- 4 I _____ at home while our office block is being renovated.
- 5 I _____ to her only a couple of times before then.
- 6 I _____ travelling by train ever since I was young.
- 7 I _____ to phone in to your programme for the last half hour.
- 8 Yesterday, I _____ all my work by 2.30 pm.

1.4 Identify the tenses you used in 1.3.

- 1 - past simple

Grammar2.1 Simple and continuous tenses*START POINT

Present continuous

I'm working at home while our office block is being renovated. (= temporary state)

I'm phoning from the train. (= action in progress)

Present simple

Public transport has a number of advantages over driving. (= permanent state)

I catch the train at 7.05 at the station near my home every morning. (= habit or regular event)

Past continuous

I was travelling home when the train broke down. (= action in progress at past point)

Past simple

I sold my car last week. (= completed past action)

I drove to work for a couple of years. (= past situation that doesn't exist now)

I caught the train every morning at 7.15. (= repeated past action)

We usually use simple tenses with verbs that describe an unchanging state rather than an action:

I love trains.

We can use continuous tenses with state verbs to suggest that a situation is temporary or untypical:

I'm appreciating being able to get up later than usual. (= suggests a temporary arrangement)

Now that I work at home I appreciate being able to get up late. (= suggests a more permanent arrangement)

With some verbs that describe mental states (e.g. consider, understand) and attitudes (e.g. hope, regret), continuous tenses suggest a process going on at the time of speaking, or emphasise that the process continues to develop:

I'm regretting selling my car already. (= suggests that I have started to regret it and that this regret may grow)

I regret selling my car. (= describes an attitude that is unlikely to change)

Some verbs have different meanings when talking about states and describing actions:

I'm now thinking of buying a motorbike. (think of (action) = consider)

Do you think that's a good idea? (think (state) = asking about an opinion)

We usually use the present simple with verbs that describe what we are doing as we speak:

I admit that it can be frustrating at times. (= I agree that it is true when I say 'I admit')

I predict that increasing numbers of people will start working at home.

We often use the past simple in a narrative (e.g. a report or a story) to talk about a single completed past action, and the past continuous to describe the situation that existed at the time:

I dropped my purse while I was getting off the train.

When we talk about two or more past completed actions that followed one another, we use the past simple for both:

She woke me up and offered me a lift.

When we talk about two actions that went on over the same period of past time, we can often use the past continuous or the past simple for both:

I was listening to music while I was driving here. or I listened to music while I drove here.

We can use continuous tenses with the adverbs always, constantly, continually and forever to emphasise that something is typical of a person, group or thing because they do it so often:

I was forever arriving late for work.

1 Tenses

We can use either the present continuous or present simple to describe something we regularly do at a certain time:

At 8 o'clock I'm usually having a leisurely breakfast. or At 8 o'clock I usually have ...

We often use the present continuous or past continuous:

- to make an enquiry or a statement less certain because we don't know if we're right:
I'm hoping we've got Dave Jones on the line. (= suggests that the speaker is not sure whether Dave Jones is there)
- to make a request or an offer more polite:
Karen, were you wanting to say something?

2.2 Perfect tenses

START POINT

Present perfect

I've lived in Spain, and the trains are so much more reliable there. (past situation relevant to the present)

I've just sold my car and so now I go to work by bus. (recent action with consequences for the present)

I've enjoyed travelling by train ever since I was young. (situation continuing until the present)

Past perfect

This morning I'd read a couple of reports before I got off the train. (past event before another past event)

We use the present perfect to talk about a situation that existed in the past and still exists now, and the past simple when the situation no longer exists:

I've commuted to London every weekday for over ten years, and I actually enjoy it.

I commuted to London every weekday for over ten years before I started working at home.

We use the present perfect to talk about a repeated action that might happen again:

I've arrived late for work twice this week so far.

and the past simple for a repeated action that won't happen again:

I arrived late for work twice this week. (= the working week is over; I won't arrive late again this week)

When we give news or information, we often introduce a topic with the present perfect and then give details with other past tenses:

The new high speed rail link between the north of England and the Channel Tunnel has opened.

It took 15 years to build and cost nearly ten billion pounds.

When we use a time expression (e.g. after, as soon as, before, when) to say that one event happened after another, we can use either the past simple or past perfect for the first event:

I'd read a couple of reports before I even got to work. or I read a couple of reports before I even got to work.

2.3 Present perfect continuous and past perfect continuous

We use the present perfect continuous (have been + -ing) to talk about an action in progress in the past for a period until now, and which is either still in progress or recently finished:

I've been working at home for the last five years. (= action still in progress)

Sorry I'm late. I've been trying to find a parking place. (= action recently finished)

We often prefer the present perfect continuous to say how long an action has been in progress:

I've been trying to phone in to your programme for the last half hour.

We use the present perfect to talk about a completed action or series of actions when we are interested in the result:

I've called the bus company a number of times to complain.

They've bought new trains and have really improved the service.

We use the past perfect continuous (had been + -ing) to talk about an action in progress over a period up to a particular past point in time:

I'd been waiting over an hour when they announced that the train had been cancelled.

If we are not interested in how long the action went on, we often use the past continuous rather than the past perfect continuous:

I was waiting on the platform when they announced that the train had been cancelled. rather than I'd been waiting on the platform when ... (= there is no mention of how long the person was waiting.)

We use the past perfect when we say how many times something happened in a period up to a particular past time:

I'd spoken to her only a couple of times before then.

We don't usually use the present perfect continuous or the past perfect continuous to describe states:

I'd owned a car ever since I left college. (not ~~I'd been owning ...~~)

3.1 Choose the correct or more natural answer in this radio news report.

Emergency services were bombarded with phone calls from all over the north of the country last night by people who (1) are reporting / reported seeing blue objects shoot across the sky. Mrs Sophia Olsen (2) drove / was driving along the main road at the time.

'I (3) 'm usually coming / usually came along that bit of road at about ten. As I (4) was going / go past the old barn, I (5) was seeing / saw a single bright blue light going across the road in front of my car. I (6) stopped / stop the car and (7) was watching / am watching it for about fifteen minutes. It (8) was travelling / travels quite slowly from east to west and then it (9) 's suddenly disappearing / suddenly disappeared. Until now I (10) wasn't believing / didn't believe in UFOs, although my son (11) is forever trying / forever tries to persuade me that they (12) are existing / exist. But now I (13) thought / 'm thinking that maybe he (14) was being / was right.'

Dr Maria Walker, a lecturer in astronomy at Trumpton University, (15) offers / is offering a simple explanation. 'The reports that (16) were coming / come in last night (17) are suggesting / suggest that it (18) was / is a meteor shower. This (19) is / was not unusual on a small scale, but last night's shower (20) is seeming / seems to have been very large. In fact, we (21) were getting / are getting an increasing number of meteor showers, and my department (22) is currently researching / currently researches possible reasons for this.'

But many witnesses to the events (23) believe / are believing that they (24) are observing / were observing more than a meteor shower, and that last night the Earth was actually visited by beings from outer space.

1.1 Which of these activities would you like to do on a visit to the USA?

1.2 03 Jessica is doing a course in American Studies at a British university. As part of this programme she will spend her third year studying at a university in Los Angeles in California. Her friend, Kelly, wants to visit her while she is there. Listen to them talking about their plans. Which of the activities shown in 1.1 do they mention?

1.3 03 Listen again and fill in the gaps.

- I'm spending a few days sightseeing in New York.
- I _____ in Los Angeles on the 20th.
- I _____ for my own place.
- It _____ a long time to catch up.
- I _____ up there if it's not too expensive.
- _____ you stop over anywhere on the way out?
- When I come to see you, you _____ in California for nearly six months.
- You _____ longer, won't you?

1.4 How many different ways of referring to the future did you use in 1.3? _____

Grammar

2.1 Will, be going to + infinitive and shall

START POINT

Will

I think I'll fly directly to Los Angeles. (= a decision made without planning)

I'm sure you'll have a fantastic time. (= a prediction based on opinion or experience)

I'll be 21 on 2nd January. (= a fact about the future)

I'll meet you at the airport. (= willingness)

Be going to + infinitive

First I'm going to stay with Daniel and Susanna. (= a decision already made)

The cloud's building up. It's going to rain this afternoon. (= a prediction based on outside evidence)

We can sometimes use will instead of be going to to make a prediction based on evidence, but when we do, we usually include an adverb:

The cloud's building up. It'll definitely rain / It's definitely going to rain this afternoon.

We can use will or be going to in the main clause of an if-sentence with little difference in meaning when we say that something is conditional on something else:

If I don't go now, I'll be / I'm going to be late for my next lecture.

We use will, not be going to, when the main clause refers to offers, requests, promises and ability:

If my plans change, I'll let you know, of course. (= promise)

If you bring your tent, we'll camp on the coast for a few days. (= ability; 'we will be able to camp')

In formal contexts, we can use shall instead of will with I or we:

- in questions that ask about intentions:

Shall I/we see you before you leave? (= Will I/we have the opportunity to see you?)

- in statements about the future, although will is more usual:

When I finish my course I shall/will have some time to travel around America.

2.2 Present continuous and present simple for the future

START POINT

Present continuous

I'm spending a few days sightseeing. (= event intended or arranged)

Present simple

Lectures start on 27th July. (= event as part of an official schedule)

Compare the use of the present continuous for the future and be going to:

I'm flying on 15th July at ten in the evening. (= already arranged)

I'm going to fly up there if it's not too expensive. (= the speaker intends to fly but has not made the arrangements yet)

We tend to avoid be going to go and use the present continuous (be going to) instead:

Then I'm going to San Francisco. rather than Then I'm going to go to San Francisco.

We can't use the present continuous for future events which are not controlled by people:

It's going to rain this afternoon. (not ~~It's raining this afternoon.~~)

We can use either the present simple or will to talk about formal arrangements made by, for example, a university or company:

The semester begins on 7th December. or The semester will begin on 7th December.

The present continuous is used in informal arrangements:

You're not staying with them the whole time, then? (= informal arrangement) (not ~~You don't stay with them the whole time, then?~~)

We use the present simple, or sometimes other present tenses, to refer to the future in time clauses with a conjunction (e.g. after, as soon as, before, by the time, when, while, until); in conditional clauses with if, in case, provided and unless; and in clauses beginning with suppose, supposing and what if:

As soon as I book my tickets, I'll let you know. (not ~~As soon as I will book ...~~)

It'll be good to know I can contact them in case I have any problems. (not ... ~~in case I will have ...~~)

What if I don't like it? (not ~~What if I won't like it?~~)

2.3 Future continuous, future perfect and future perfect continuous

We use the future continuous (will + be + present participle) to talk about something predicted to happen at a particular time or over a particular period in the future:

I'll be studying really hard during the semesters.

We use the future perfect (will + have + past participle) to make a prediction about an action we expect to be completed by a particular time in the future:

By the time you come I'm sure I'll have got to know the city really well.

We use the future perfect continuous (will + have been + present participle) to emphasise the duration of an activity in progress at a particular point in the future:

When I come to see you, you'll have been living in California for nearly six months.

We can also use the future continuous, future perfect and future perfect continuous to say what we believe or imagine to be true:

Dad won't be using his car, so I'm sure it's okay to borrow it. (= an activity happening now or at a particular point in the future)

They'll have forgotten what I look like. (= an event that took place before now or before a particular point in the future)

My plane's been delayed. Daniel and Susanna will have been waiting for me at the airport for hours. (= an activity continuing to now)

2.4 Be to + infinitive

Be to + infinitive is commonly used:

- in news reports:

Extra lifeguards are to be posted at the beach after a shark was seen close to the shore.

- to talk about formal plans, and rules or instructions:

Students are to hand in project reports at the end of semester two. (active)

Project reports are to be handed in at the end of semester two. (passive)

We only use am/is/are to + infinitive to talk about future events that people can control:

The weather will still be warm even in winter. (not ~~The weather is still to be warm.~~)

We often use be to + infinitive in if-clauses when we mean 'in order to':

If she is to get a good grade in her project report, she needs to work on her statistics. (= in order to get a good grade, she needs to work on her statistics)

2 The future

2.5 Future in the past

A number of forms can be used to talk about a past activity or event that was still in the future from the point of view of the speaker:

I was going to see an aunt in Seattle a couple of years ago, but I cancelled the trip because she got ill. (= a plan that didn't happen)

I knew I would be feeling awful by the end of the flight. (= a prediction made in the past)

Reading and Use of English Part 8

You are going to read a magazine article in which five career consultants give advice on interview technique. For questions 1 – 10, choose from the consultants (A – E). The consultants may be chosen more than once.

Which consultant makes the following statements?

Interviewers look for applicants with specific skills.

Try to make a good impression early in the interview.

Insufficient preparation by applicants is a common weakness.

Doing prior research helps distinguish you from other applicants.

Give yourself a moment to think about your answers to interviewers' questions.

You should be able to support your application with additional information at an interview.

Find out the opinion of other people who deal with the organisation.

Consider the match between the job requirements and your experience.

Getting an interview indicates that the employer believes you can do the job.

Use a number of sources to discover more about the organisation.

Job interviews: expert advice for graduates

Are you a graduate about to apply for jobs? We asked five career consultants to give some tips on performing well in interviews.

Consultant A

Ask recruiters what disappoints them most about the people they interview and the answer is often the same – lack of knowledge of their organisation. And lack of knowledge suggests lack of interest. You will have learned research skills in your university degree, so apply them to job hunting and don't forget that social networks can also provide a lot of inside information. Find out how the organisation you are applying for has developed in recent years, how its products or services and markets have changed, who its competitors are, what its ethos is. Then use that information intelligently – simply regurgitating facts won't impress the interviewers. Instead, you need to demonstrate an understanding of what it all means for you as a prospective employee, what the challenges would be and the skills and attributes you'll need to make a positive contribution.

Consultant B

Three-quarters of interviews are failed within three minutes of entering the room. Interviewers are put off by weak handshakes, a lack of eye contact, poor body language and poor posture (slumped shoulders suggest a lack of confidence). Many recruiters make early judgements about your trustworthiness, likeability and professionalism and spend the rest of the interview confirming these opinions. You should shake hands firmly and warmly, but wait to be invited to sit down. Strong handshakes communicate sociability and friendliness – normally desirable qualities in candidates – whereas weak handshakes may communicate introversion and shyness. At the start of the interview you should smile at and maintain good eye contact with the interviewer. Take a little time to consider your response to what the interviewers ask before speaking. Then, when you have decided what to say, speak clearly and not too fast.

Consultant C

Inevitably, you will be asked at some stage during the interview why you want to work for the organisation you are applying to. This is a great chance to show your business awareness, but you'll need to prepare. Before the interview, contact one of the organisation's customers – you should be able to identify some through an internet search – and ask them questions such as: 'What's it like to do business with company X?', 'What makes them stand out?', 'What makes them successful (or not)?' And then at interview explain the research that you've done and include their customer's responses in your answers. That way you'll stand out from the crowd; not only will you give evidence of your personal enterprise and your genuine interest in the organisation, but also your understanding of the business world.

Consultant D

Most employers will want you to demonstrate a particular set of abilities which they believe are essential to the job role, for example team work, communication, problem solving and time management. At interview, you are likely to be asked to give specific examples of times when you have demonstrated those abilities. Employers recognise that you might not have lots of directly relevant work experience, so when they ask these questions they will usually be happy for you to provide examples from any aspect of your life, such as your studies, part-time work, volunteering, interests or extra-curricular activities. So before you go to an interview, check the job description for the skills and competencies required, then reflect on your experiences and think about examples that you could use as evidence.

Consultant E

It's natural to be nervous, but if an employer thought you weren't good enough, they simply wouldn't waste their time on getting to know you in an interview. What interviewers aim to do is find out whether what's written in your application is genuine and how well you'll fit in. So the best advice I can give is: just be yourself in the interview. Of course, they'll also be testing your understanding, motivation and ability, most often by asking you to talk them through examples of your practical knowledge that show you have the expertise the job requires. You'll need to expand on what you've written and it's a good idea to have some new examples ready, too.

|---------------|----------|----------------|-------|
| 1 ability? | 4 | 4 possibility? | _____ |
| 2 necessity? | _____ | 5 prediction? | _____ |
| 3 obligation? | _____ | | |

Grammar

START POINT

Can/could

We'll get wealthy people from the mainland who can afford second homes. (= general ability)

Before the bridge was built we could only get to the island by ferry. (= general ability in the past)

May/could/might

Up to 100,000 people may experience delays. (= it's possible this will happen)

Air passengers could be hit badly today. (= it's possible)

It might be a number of months before the sports centre is back in operation. (= it's possible this is true; less certain than may or could)

Will/would

That will push up house prices. (= prediction about the future)

If schools highlighted the importance of physical exercise, this would have a major positive impact on children's attitudes to sport. (= prediction about an imaginary situation)

Must

The cabin staff must accept the new working conditions. (= a rule or order)

This negative attitude to sport mustn't be allowed to continue. (= it's not allowed or not a good idea)

Don't need to / needn't / don't have to Parents don't need to / needn't be very interested in sport themselves. (= it's not necessarily true)

I'm sure I don't have to spell out the chaos being caused in the airline industry. (= it's not necessary)

Ought to / should

Parents ought to / should give their children whatever encouragement they can. (= obligation and recommendation)

2.1 Can, could, be able to: ability

We can use be able to instead of can or could, particularly in more formal contexts:

The hotels on the island are able to accommodate hundreds of visitors. (more formal) or The hotels on the island can accommodate ... (less formal)

We use be able to to talk about ability on a specific occasion in the past:

Firefighters were able to bring the fire under control fairly quickly. (not Firefighters could bring ...)

We can use either could or be able to in negatives in the past:

They couldn't / weren't able to prevent the fire damaging the school's sports centre.

We usually prefer can or could with verbs of sense (e.g. feel, hear, see, smell, taste) and verbs of thinking (e.g. believe, remember, understand):

I can't believe Mr Wade is being so confrontational.

We use be able to in perfect tenses, -ing forms, infinitives and after modal verbs:

We've now been able to contact him.

The film star hates not being able to leave her house.

They've got to be able to adapt to change.

Parents might be able to help.

We prefer can and could in passives:

The news can be read on our website.

To talk about a future ability, we use will be able to:

Islanders won't be able to buy properties.

We use can or be able to to talk about possible future arrangements and can (or more politely could) to ask for permission:

The President can't / is not able to visit the country until next month.

Can/Could I ask you what you think of the new bridge?

2.2 May, might, can, could: possibility

To talk about a more general possibility of something happening we can use can or may:

The temperature in the mountains can/may fall below freezing even at this time of year.

We use could to say that something was possible in the past:

It could be a very rough journey, too.

We don't use may to ask questions about the possibility of something happening. Instead we use could or the phrase be likely to:

Could the negotiations finish today, do you think?

What time is the meeting likely to finish?

Might is sometimes used in questions, but is rather formal.

We can use these modals in negative sentences, including those with words like only or hardly, to say that things are not possible or that it is possible that things are not the case:

The company can hardly be described as a success. (= it is not possible to describe it as a success)

I think we should call off the strike, but other people may/might not agree with me. (= it's possible that people don't agree with me)

2.3 Will, would, used to: conclusions, willingness, habitual events

We can use will to draw conclusions or state assumptions about things we think are true:

No doubt you will have heard the news by now.

We use will (not) to talk about (un)willingness or refusal to do something:

The minister says he will resign if no solution is found.

We will not be bullied by management.

The computer won't let me print documents. (We can say that inanimate objects, such as machines, can be unwilling or refuse to do something.)

We use would to talk about willingness in the future, in conditionals, and when we say that we are willing but unable to do something:

Many people would be happy to pay higher taxes for better public services.

The minister would be pleased to accept the invitation if it were not for other commitments.

We don't use would to talk about willingness on a specific occasion in the past:

David Wade agreed to meet the union representatives. (not ~~David Wade would agree~~ ...)

We can use will (present) and would (past) to talk about characteristic behaviour or habits, or about things that are true now or were true in the past:

Some parents will actually discourage their children from taking up a sport.

Many passengers would get seasick during the crossing.

We can use either would or used to to talk about things that happened repeatedly in the past:

The crossing would/used to take over an hour at least.

We don't use would to talk about past states:

We used to be terribly isolated here because the ferry service was so bad. (not ~~We would be terribly isolated~~ ...)

2.4 Must, have (got) to: necessity, deduction

We can use either must or have to to say that it is necessary to do something, although have to is less formal and is also preferred in questions:

The cabin staff must / have to accept the new working conditions if the airline is to compete.

When we say that something was necessary in the past we use had to, not must:

Up to 200 teachers and pupils had to be evacuated from a school in South Wales today.

To say something is necessary in the future we use will have to:

To stay in business we will have to cut our costs.

We use must when we decide that, in our opinion, something is necessary or important:

I must give you my email address.

Have to suggests that the necessity comes from outside; for example, from a rule or official order:

The council has to close two city centre car parks following a health and safety report.

We usually use must, rather than have to, when we conclude that something (has) happened or that something is true.

The bridge must have cost a fortune.

When we conclude that something is impossible, we use can't or couldn't:

That can't be right, surely? (not ~~That mustn't be right, surely?~~)

Sometimes we can use either have to or have got to, although have got to is more informal. We use have to with frequency adverbs and with other modal verbs:

Islanders normally have to queue for half an hour to get on the ferry.

The airlines will have to return to the negotiating table.

If have is contracted (e.g. I've), then we must include got:

They've got to be changed. (not ~~They've to be changed.~~)

When we use the past simple we prefer had to rather than had got to:

The manager seemed to be doing a good job. Why did he have to go? (not ~~Why had he got to go?~~)

2.5 Didn't need to, didn't have to, needn't have: 'not necessary'

To say it was not necessary to do something in the past, we use didn't need to or didn't have to:

He didn't have to wait long for a response. (= he didn't actually wait long)

When we think something that was done in the past was not necessary, we use need not (needn't) have:

The event organisers expected the bad weather to affect ticket sales. However, they need not have worried, as every ticket was sold. (= they worried but it was not necessary)

2.6 Should, ought to: obligation

We can often use either should or ought to to talk about obligation (in giving advice and recommendations, saying what we think is a good idea and talking about responsibility):

I think we ought to / should keep Borland for the islanders! (= it's a good idea)

The authorities ought to / should prosecute companies that cause pollution. (= talking about responsibility)

We can use either should or ought to to say that something is likely because we have planned it or expect it to happen:

They say the road will be ready in five years, but they should / ought to be able to build it faster.

We use shouldn't rather than oughtn't to if something is unlikely:

If you're in the south of the country, you shouldn't be troubled by any rain today.

3.2 Amir is talking to Martha just before and after a job interview. Choose the correct verb.

Before the interview

A: What time (1) have you to / have you got to / must you be there by?

M: 10.30.

A: You (2) must / have to / have got to be really nervous.

M: Terrified! But it doesn't matter, I know I won't get the job.

A: You (3) haven't got to / mustn't / can't be sure of that. You've got just the right experience and qualifications.

M: But I feel tense. I'm worried I (4) can't / couldn't / mightn't make a good impression in the interview.

A: I'm sure you'll be okay.

After the interview

M: I got it!

A: Congratulations! What (5) had you got to / must you / did you have to do?

M: Well, mainly I (6) had got to / had to / must tell them why I wanted to work there.

A: And does the job sound good?

M: Fantastic. I'll (7) have to / must / have got to do a lot of travelling.

A: Well that (8) oughtn't to / shouldn't / mustn't be a problem for you.

M: No, and I may (9) must / have to / have got to spend some time in Barcelona.

A: Well, I think we should certainly go out for a meal to celebrate.

M: Great idea.

3.3 Choose the correct sentence ending. Sometimes both are possible.

- I have to get up early tomorrow, so I ...
 - mustn't be too late going to bed tonight.*
 - don't need to be too late going to bed tonight.*
- When we got to the station, we found that the train was half an hour late, so we ...
 - didn't need to rush after all.*
 - needn't have rushed after all.*

3 Modals (1)

- 3 The meeting will be quite informal, so you ...
a don't need to wear a suit.
b don't have to wear a suit.

Listening Part 1

▶ 05 You will hear three different extracts. For questions 1 – 6, choose the answer (A, B or C) which fits best according to what you hear. There are two questions for each extract.

Extract One

You hear two people on a radio programme discussing music education for children.

- 1 They agree that young children should
 - A learn an instrument that requires a lot of concentration.
 - B be started on instruction at an early age.
 - C focus largely on music theory.
- 2 What does the woman say about the piano?
 - A It is not possible to play simple tunes on it.
 - B Playing it can discourage children from learning another instrument.
 - C Most young children are not mature enough to learn it.

Extract Two

You hear part of an interview with a rock climber called Ben.

- 3 In Ben's view, what is the best way to improve as a climber?
 - A take the advice of other climbers
 - B learn from the mistakes you make
 - C watch more experienced climbers
- 4 Why does Ben prefer not to climb alone in icy conditions?
 - A He can learn new techniques from other people.
 - B He gets nervous when rocks have ice on them.
 - C He lacks experience of climbing on ice.

Extract Three

You hear part of an interview with a restaurant critic called Amanda Downing.

- 5 How do most waiters react when they realise who Amanda is?
 - A They give her special attention.
 - B They are overcome with nerves.
 - C They provide her with free food.
- 6 In what way, according to Amanda, are most restaurant owners completely wrong?
 - A They think customers choose a restaurant only for its quality of service.
 - B They don't understand customers' motivation for eating in restaurants.
 - C They think their priorities are different to those of their customers.

| 1 Anybody trying to do that would | a have opened the door from the inside. |
| 2 After that they might | b be hiding some information from us. |
| 3 So someone else must | c have been seen from the street below. |
| 4 Do you think he might | d have finished examining the building by now. |
| 5 But of course, he might | e have been expecting them and that he was part of the gang? |
| 6 I suppose he could | f have been lowered by rope from the roof. |
| 7 The driver must | g have been waiting nearby. |
| 8 The forensic team should | h be lying. |

1.3 Which of the sentences in 1.2 include these grammatical patterns?

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1 modal verb + have been + past participle | 1c , _____ (would have been seen) |
| 2 modal verb + have + past participle | _____, _____ |
| 3 modal verb + have been + present participle | _____, _____ |
| 4 modal verb + be + present participle | _____, _____ |

Grammar

2.1 May / might / could + be + present participle; may / might / could + have + past participle

START POINT

But of course, he might be lying. (not But of course, he can be lying.) (= in the present: it's possible he's lying)
They could have got in through a window up on the fourth floor. (= in the past: it's possible they got in)

With a future time reference we can use may / might / could + be + present participle and may / might / could + have + past participle to say it is possible that something will happen in the future:

Nik's flight was cancelled, so he may/might/could be arriving much later than expected.

The thieves may/might/could have left the country by the time we get to the airport.

2.2 May / might / could + have been + present participle

We can use may/might/could + have been + present participle to talk about situations or activities that were possibly happening at a particular past time:

Do you think he might have been expecting them?

2.3 Would / will + have + past participle

We use would have + past participle to talk about an imaginary past situation:

People would have seen them from the street below.

To show that we think a past situation actually happened, we use will have + past participle:

If they smashed a window to get in, people living nearby will certainly have heard something.

2.4 Should / ought to + have + past participle

We use should / ought to + have + past participle to talk about something that didn't happen in the past, particularly when we want to imply some regret or criticism:

He must know that he ought to have called the police as soon as he found the door open.

We should have been contacted earlier. (passive)

We can also use should / ought to + have + past participle to talk about an expectation that something happened, has happened, or will happen:

The forensic team should have finished examining the building by now.

2.5 Must / can't / couldn't + have + past participle

START POINT

So someone else must have opened the door from the inside. (active)

It must have been opened from the inside. (passive)

We can use must have + past participle to draw a conclusion about something in the past.

To draw a conclusion about a past event, saying that it was not possible, we use can't have + past participle or couldn't have + past participle:

One man alone couldn't have carried all those paintings. (not ... mustn't have carried ...)

4 Modals (2)

To draw a conclusion about something happening at a particular past time, saying that it was likely or certain, we use must have been + present participle:

The driver must have been waiting nearby.

2.6 Must be + present participle

We can use must be + present participle to draw a conclusion about something happening around the time of speaking. We can use must be + present participle or must be going to to draw a conclusion about something likely to happen in the future:

I'll speak to the curator of the museum later. She must be feeling devastated.

They're taking the head cleaner to the police car. They must be going to arrest him. or They must be arresting him.

2.7 Dare and need

START POINT

He gets annoyed easily, so I daren't criticise him. / A good car needn't cost a lot.

She dared me to jump across. / We need to talk to them.

Dare and need can be used either as modal verbs (+ bare infinitive) or ordinary verbs (+ to-infinitive).

As modals, dare and need are mostly used in negative contexts. We can use either dare to or dare (without to) when it is not followed by not:

But no one would have dared (to) climb up the outside of the building.

I daren't tell him I've got another job. (not ~~I daren't to tell~~ ...)

We can't include to after needn't:

We needn't interview everyone in the block. (not ~~We needn't to interview~~ ...)

2.8 Had better

We can use had better instead of should / ought to, especially in spoken English, to say that we think it is a good idea (or not) to do something:

We'd better find out all we can about that guard as soon as possible.

We'd better not go in until the forensic team has finished.

We use should or ought to when we talk about the past or make general comments:

I should / ought to have phoned her earlier.

People should / ought to support the police more. (not ~~People had better~~ ...)

2.9 Be allowed to

We can use could or was/were allowed to to say that in the past someone had general permission to do something:

Only the security guard could / was allowed to stay in the museum after it closed.

To talk about permission on a particular occasion, we use was/were allowed to (not could):

Although he had no ID, the man was allowed to enter the building.

In negative sentences we can use either could or was/were allowed to when talking about permission in general or on particular occasions:

They let reporters into the crime scene, but they couldn't / weren't allowed to take photos.

2.10 Be supposed to

We can use be supposed to to express a less strong obligation than with should or ought to. Using be supposed to often suggests that events do not happen as expected:

The entry code is supposed to be known only by the security guard. (= suggests that it was in fact known by others)

We can use be supposed to to report what people think is true:

The building is supposed to be one of the most secure in the country. (= people say it is.) (not ~~The building should / ought to be ...~~)

2.11 Other verbs with modal meanings

A number of other verbs are used with similar meanings to modal verbs:

No one is to enter the building until the police give permission. (= obligation – formal)

Everyone present was required to give a statement to the police. (= obligation)

How did they manage to get in? (= ability)

We have succeeded in narrowing down the list of suspects. (= ability)

He might be prepared to tell us more. (= willingness)

The suspects have refused to co-operate. (= unwillingness)

From the evidence found, it follows that it was carefully planned. (= conclusion – formal)

We can conclude that the paintings were stolen by professionals. (= conclusion)

b Have you got any questions about the course here at _____ college?

1.6 Can you explain the difference in meaning of the shaded parts of the sentences?

Grammar

2.1 Compound nouns and noun phrases

START POINT

Common compound noun patterns:

noun + noun	-ing form + noun	noun + -ing form
climate change	recycling scheme	energy-saving

Some compound nouns are usually written as one word (e.g. rainforest), some as separate words (e.g. river levels), and others with a hyphen (-) (e.g. decision-making).

The first noun in a compound usually has a singular form, even if it has a plural meaning:

decision-making (not decisions-making)

Instead of a compound noun we can use:

- noun + 's + noun when the first noun is the user of the second noun:
a women's clinic, a boys' school
- noun + preposition + noun:
a book about energy conservation, a book about grammar (a grammar book is also common)

We can sometimes use noun + 's + noun or noun + of + noun with a similar meaning:

the charity's aim or the aim of the charity

We are more likely to use noun + 's + noun:

- when the first noun refers to a particular person or group of people or to talk about time:
Mike's job, next year's field trip

We more often use noun + of + noun:

- when the second noun is a non-living thing:
the title of the CD
- when we talk about a process or change over time:
the destruction of the rainforest
- with a long noun phrase:
Mike is the brother of someone I went to school with.

Compounds often combine with other nouns or compounds to form longer combinations:

decision-making process, energy conservation scheme

2.2 Subject-verb agreement

Some nouns with a singular form, referring to a group (e.g. government, class, department, team), can be used with either a singular or plural form of the verb, although in formal contexts a singular verb is often preferred:

The government has (or have) introduced some really interesting projects.

We usually use a singular verb:

- when names and titles (e.g. of countries, newspapers, books, films) ending in -s refer to a single unit:
The Netherlands has begun to tackle the problem.
- with a phrase referring to a measurement, amount or quantity:
Only a few miles separates the villages.
- after percent (also per cent or %) referring to a singular or uncountable noun:
... 10% of the country's energy comes from wind power.

But if percent refers to a plural noun we use a plural verb:

... 60% of people there are malnourished.

We usually use a plural verb:

- with nouns that normally have a plural form: congratulations, outskirts, clothes. But note that the following nouns ending in -s take a singular verb – news, linguistics, mathematics, physics, politics, statistics and economics when they refer to the academic subject:

Statistics is included in the course. (not Statistics are ...)

- after a/the majority of, a/the minority of, a number of, a lot of, plenty of, all (of), some of + a plural noun / pronoun:

The majority of people there are farmers.

But note that we use a singular verb with the number of:

The number of people suffering from malnutrition is increasing.

The following verb must agree with the main noun in a sentence with a complex subject:

Levels of income from the sale of handicrafts have increased.

When the subject follows the verb, the verb agrees with the subject:

Among the projects invested in by the government is the use of low-energy light bulbs.

2.3 Countable and uncountable nouns

START POINT

Many nouns in English are uncountable: they are not used with a/an or in the plural. For example: advice, equipment, information.

Some nouns are used uncountably when we are talking about the general idea, but countably when we are talking about particular examples:

You'd be able to get by with a basic knowledge of some statistical techniques. but The desire for knowledge is a fundamental human instinct.

The charity's project has been a success. (= a particular example of success)

Financial success isn't everything. (= success in general)

Other nouns like this include: business, education, sound. Some of these (e.g. education) are only used countably in the singular.

Some nouns (e.g. accommodation, speech, work) have a different meaning when they are used countably and uncountably. Compare:

She gave a speech about global warming.

Children usually develop speech in their second year.

We can use a good / great deal of and amount of before uncountable nouns:

There's a great deal of interest in recycling in the country.

It's saving an enormous amount of waste.

Using these before a plural countable noun is incorrect and you should avoid it in exams. However, they are sometimes used in this way in informal contexts.

We use a number of before plural countable nouns:

There's been a drought there for a number of months.

and plenty of and a quantity of before either uncountable or plural countable nouns:

There was plenty of opportunity for me to travel around the country.

I saw a huge quantity of trees being cut down.

2.4 Articles

We use the:

- with singular, plural or uncountable nouns when we expect the listener or reader to be able to identify the thing or person referred to:
It's a project run by a European charity. The charity's aim ...
- when a following phrase or clause identifies what particular thing we are talking about:
the climate in this region, the impact of climate change, the ecology of mountain environments*
- when we talk about things that are unique:
in one part of the world, the sky, the future; the first/next time; the only/main problem; the smallest improvement; the arms trade, the environment
Some 'unique' nouns can be used with a/an when we describe a type or aspect of the thing. Compare:
What are your plans for the future? and It's hard to imagine a future without farming in an area like that.

We use a/an:

- when a singular countable noun is introduced for the first time into a spoken or written text:
He's the head of a project run by a European charity.
- to talk about an unspecified person, thing or event:
I didn't have a shower for days.
- to describe someone/something or say what type of thing someone/something is:
It's a beautiful country. It's an international organisation.
- to say what a person's job is:
You think that as a politician, you'd be able to do this?
But note that we use the or no article to give a person's title or their unique position:
He's the head of a project there. or He's head of a project there.
- in number and quantity expressions:
a month or so, a couple of weeks, half an hour, three times a year, 50 cents a litre, a huge number of, a bit

We use no article:

- with uncountable and plural nouns when we talk generally about people or things rather than about specific people or things:
I've always been fascinated by plants and animals. They haven't had rain for months.
- with some singular nouns referring to institutions (e.g. school, college, hospital, prison, university, work) when we talk about them generally. Compare: after you've left college and the course here at the college
- with most countries: Brazil, Switzerland, Norway but the Netherlands, the USA, the UK, the Philippines, the Gambia*
- with the names of months and days of the week: in June, on Monday; special times of the year: during Ramadan, at Easter; (or the) with seasons: I like to go skiing in winter or ... in the winter. However, we generally use the to talk about a particular month, day, etc.: I'm going to Nepal in the summer (= next summer)
- with meals when we talk about the next one: What's for dinner?; a recent one: What did you have for breakfast?; or a meal in general: I usually have toast for breakfast. However, we generally use articles to talk about a particular meal or particular meals: We had an early dinner, The breakfast in the hotel is great.
- with by to talk about means of communication and transport: by post/email/phone; by car/taxi/bus/plane/air/sea*

Grammar exercises3.1 Choose the correct phrase.

3.2 Nazim has been accepted on the Environmental Science course (see 1.1). Read this email he sent to a friend during a field trip. Fill in the gaps with a present tense form of the verbs in brackets.

Hi Cathy,

Greetings from Nepal! I'm sending this from an internet café in a small town north of Kathmandu.

The town itself isn't very interesting, but the surroundings (1) are (be) beautiful – I can see the Himalayas through the café window!

The lectures here are brilliant. The Politics and Ecology courses are great, but Economics (2) _____ (be) really difficult – although maths (3) _____ (be) certainly not my strong point! I'm really learning a lot about the country and its environmental problems.

A lot of Nepal's population (4) _____ (live) in the mountainous parts of the country south of the Himalayas, and the majority of these people (5) _____ (depend) on growing crops and keeping animals. The standard of living in Kathmandu and the other cities (6) _____ (have) risen a lot recently, and the number of people likely to move into the cities (7) _____ (be) expected to increase. It's a real problem here. The Himalayan Times, the local English-language newspaper, (8) _____ (have) just published a survey showing that most young people would stay in their home villages if jobs were available.

I was planning on coming home at the end of June, but the college (9) _____ (have) arranged for a few of us to stay during the summer on a WWF conservation project in a region in the north called Helambu – there (10) _____ (be) just a few kilometres between the village where I'll be working and the border with China. Among the various projects that have been set up (11) _____ (be) a scheme for producing biogas locally – that's gas produced from plant and animal waste. All my living expenses (12) _____ (be) being paid for by the WWF.

Hope all is well with you. I'll send more news when I can.

Nazim

- b But surprisingly I seem to have _____ injuries now than when I was younger. (Speaker 3)

1.4 In which pair of sentences is each word or phrase possible in both gaps?

Grammar

2.1 No, none, not a, not any

START POINT

No two pairs of running shoes are the same. (= not any)

None of them like the thought of running long distances. (= not any of)

We use neither of instead of none of when we talk about two people or things:

Neither of us did any exercise.

We don't usually use not a / not any at the beginning of a clause. Instead we use no and none of:

None of the runners is under 60. (not Not any of the runners ...)

If it is clear from the context what is meant, we can use none without a following noun:

I've had none so far. (= e.g. no injuries)

2.2 Much, many, a lot of, lots of

START POINT

Did you do much running last winter?

There could be many reasons for the current interest in running.

I get a lot of satisfaction out of it.

You get to meet lots of interesting people.

We use much (of) (+ uncountable noun) and many (of) (+ plural noun) particularly in negative sentences and in questions. In positive sentences we usually use a lot (of) or lots (of). However, in more formal contexts we usually prefer much (of) and many (of).

If the meaning is clear from the context, we can use much and many without a following noun:

I didn't do much outside school at all.

We can use much of and many of to mean 'a large part of' or 'a large number of':

I used to spend much of my free time sitting around.

I was in first place for much of the race.

We use many rather than a lot of or lots of with time expressions (e.g. days, minutes, months, weeks, years) and 'number' + of (e.g. thousands of dollars):

I spend many hours training.

Running clubs often have many hundreds of members.

2.3 All, both, whole

START POINT

*All (of) my friends like watching sport on TV.
I suppose all exercise carries some risks.
By the time we got to the bus stop both of us were completely exhausted.
I thought the whole event was brilliant.
Sometimes I go whole weeks without running.*

We usually put all after the verb be or after the first auxiliary verb:

Next spring we're all going to Madrid.

They could all have been Olympic athletes.

If there is no auxiliary, we usually put all before the verb:

We all went running together.

We sometimes use all after the noun it refers to:

My friends all think I'm crazy. or All my friends think I'm crazy.

To talk about two things or people we use both (of) in positive sentences or neither (of) in negative sentences:

We certainly both got a lot fitter. Both of us were completely exhausted.

Neither of us did any exercise. (not ~~Both of us didn't do any exercise.~~)*

Before singular countable nouns we usually use the whole rather than all (of) the:

I thought the whole event was brilliant.

Before day / week / night / month / summer, etc. we prefer all rather than the whole:

After I've been sitting at my computer all day I can't wait to go out for a run.

I might go all week without a run.

We can use all the or the whole before way and time:

I was really surprised when I managed to run all the way. or ... the whole way.

2.4 Every, each

START POINT

I go running on Wednesday and on Friday, and I try to run ten miles each day. or ... every day.

Every one of us will have a really good time. or Each one of us ...*

Before a singular countable noun, we use each (of) to talk about two or more things or people, and every to talk about three or more. Sometimes we can use either every or each with little difference in meaning.

We use every:

- with almost, nearly, practically, virtually to emphasise we are talking about a group as a whole:
Now I run nearly every day.
- to talk about events at regular intervals: every other kilometre, every single day, every few weeks, every six months:
I go out running every couple of days.

We use each:

- when we talk about both people or things in a pair:
I had to wear a bandage on each knee. or ... on both knees.
- as a pronoun:
We were each given a medal for completing the 5-kilometre fun run.

2.5 (A/the) few, little; less, fewer (than)

START POINT

A few of my friends are quite good at team sports.

I seem to have fewer injuries now than when I was younger.

There is little evidence that running causes major problems.

You should eat less protein as you prepare for a race.

There's not much you can do about it. (See 2.6 for more on much (and many))

Few (of) and little (of) are often rather formal. Less formally, we use phrases such as not many and not much.

We often use a few and a little to suggest that a small quantity or amount is enough, or more than we would expect:

He's won a few medals. I've been starting to get a little pain in my knees.

In formal contexts, we often use few and little to suggest that a quantity or amount is not enough, or is surprisingly low:

Before I joined the club I had very few friends who lived nearby.

In comparisons, we use less with an uncountable noun, and fewer with a plural noun:

I should eat less chocolate. You should eat fewer biscuits.

The opposite of both less and fewer is more:

I should eat more chocolate. You should eat more biscuits.

In conversation, some people also use less (than) before a plural noun referring to a group of things or people:

There were less than 20 competitors.

This is grammatically incorrect and would be marked wrong in a formal written exam. Fewer (than) should be used instead:

There were fewer than 20 competitors.

When we talk about a period of time, a distance or a sum of money, we use less than:

My aim is to complete the course and do it in less than six hours. (not ... ~~fewer than six hours~~.)

2.6 Much, many, both, all, each, none, few, little + (of)

We usually need to put of after these words when they are followed by:

- a pronoun: We know that not all of us will finish the course.
- a determiner: Few of the runners were under 65.*
- a possessive form: Many of Alice's friends are runners.*

Informally after both and all we can leave out of before the, these, those; this, that (with all); possessive pronouns (e.g. my, mine) but not before them, you, us; it (with all):

I've been running regularly all of my life or ... all my life.

Both of us decided to do more exercise. (not ~~Both us decided~~ ...)*

'5 PORTIONS A DAY' FALLS ON DEAF EARS

Despite the government's '5 portions a day' recommendation to eat more fruit and vegetables, a recent study has found that (1) few British teenagers are taking its advice. A thousand teenagers were questioned in the survey, (2) all of them between the ages of 14 and 17. While (3) _____ said they knew about the campaign, (4) _____ the young people questioned, just 5%, said it had influenced their eating habits. In answer to the question 'How many pieces of fruit have you eaten in the last week?', an incredible 50% responded '(5) _____'.

Sam Brown, 15, and Sarah Goodall, 16, were among the young people who took part in the survey.

(6) _____ them conceded that fruit and vegetables didn't figure greatly in their diets. Sam admitted: 'I don't eat (7) _____ fruit at all, maybe just an apple sometimes. I don't think (8) _____ my friends are different.' Sarah felt that the busy lifestyle of today's teenagers was partly to blame: 'I'm not into vegetables, and (9) _____ the time I'm too busy to eat fruit after dinner. I've got homework to do or friends to see.' (10) _____ agreed that the government's campaign wouldn't affect what they ate. Sam said: '(11) _____ the posters and adverts are hard-hitting enough. Their message is just 'Eat fruit or veg with (12) _____ meal.' If they want teenagers to eat more fruit and vegetables, they've got to convince us that it's really important.'

(13) _____ scientists have warned that failure to eat fruit and vegetables, particularly by young people, can lead to obesity, cancer and a host of other diseases. Professor Jess Adams from Queen's Hospital said: '(14) _____ the research points to a close relationship between levels of fruit and vegetable consumption and health, but surprisingly (15) _____ this research is reported in the press or on television. This means that the message is not getting across. The government tries to highlight the problem with its campaigns, but unfortunately there is (16) _____ sign that they have any long-term impact. Ultimately, however, it's up to (17) _____ us to think about what we eat and make healthy choices.'

Grammar

2.1 Position of adverbs

START POINT

There are three main positions in a clause for adverbs:

- front position (before the subject):
Normally, I write for about six hours a day.
- mid position (between the subject and verb, immediately after be as a main verb, or after the first or second auxiliary verb):
I usually start work by about 8.00. I'm generally up at about 7.00. I had never been to Norway before. If my books hadn't been successful, I would happily have stayed in teaching. or I would have happily stayed ...
- end position (after the verb; either immediately after it or later in the clause):
He writes simply.

Many adverbs can go in any of these positions, depending on the context or style of writing:

Gradually, they grow into real people. or They gradually grow or They grow gradually

Some adverbs tend to appear in particular positions:

- Always, never; adverbs of indefinite frequency (hardly ever, often, rarely, regularly, seldom); and degree adverbs (almost, hardly, nearly, quite, rather, scarcely) are usually put in mid position:
I rarely have a clear idea. I always know how a book is going to end.
- Constantly, continually, regularly; absolutely, completely, entirely, greatly, perfectly are usually put either in mid or end position, but not in front position:
I greatly admire William Boyd. or I admire William Boyd greatly. (not ~~Greatly I admire~~ ...)
- Adverbs of place are usually put in end position:
I work upstairs. (not ~~Upstairs I work. / ~~Upstairs-work.~~~~)
- Adverbs of definite time and frequency are usually put in end position:
I finished my previous book last January. (not ~~Last January finished~~ ...)
- Adverbs of time or frequency consisting of more than one word (e.g. as a rule, from time to time, every so often) are usually put either in front or end position, but not mid position:
As a rule, I prefer finding information from books. (not ~~I-as-a-rule-prefer~~ ...)

We avoid putting an adverb between a main verb and a direct object, or following an -ing form or to-infinitive:

I still speak Swedish quite well. (not ~~I-still-speak-quite-well-Swedish.~~)

I started writing professionally. (not ~~I-started-professionally-writing.~~)

I'd like to go back again. (not ~~I'd-like-to-go-again-back.~~)

In end position we usually put adverbs of place before adverbs of time:

I hadn't been to Norway before. (not ~~I hadn't been before to Norway.~~)

2.2 Quite, rather; already, yet, still; even, only; really

- Quite, rather

The usual position for quite is before a/an and an adjective, where it means 'moderately':

Elsa is quite a dominant figure.

Less often, quite is used between a/an and an adjective, where it means 'completely':

It's a quite remarkable story.

7 Adverbs and adjectives

The usual position for rather is between a/an and an adjective. Less often, but with a similar meaning, rather is used before a/an and an adjective:

My mother was a rather gentle woman. or My mother was rather a gentle woman.

- Already, yet, still

Already can go in either mid or end position:

I'd already decided that I wanted to write ... or I'd decided already ...

Yet is usually put in end position in negatives, questions and expressions of uncertainty:

I don't know if I can tell you yet.

Still usually goes in mid position:

I'm still sketching out the plot.

- Even, only

Even and only usually go in mid position:

He can even speak Swedish.

but if they refer to the subject they usually come before it:

Sometimes even I'm surprised. Only my close family had read anything I'd written.

- Really

The meaning of really can change according to its position in a sentence. Immediately before an adjective it means 'very'. In other positions it can mean 'actually' or 'in fact':

I'd been feeling really tired.

My friends thought I was joking, but I really had decided to leave teaching.

2.3 Position of adjectives

START POINT

His excellent novel. His novel is excellent.

Many adjectives can be used either before the noun they describe, or following the noun and a linking verb such as be, become, feel and seem that connects a subject with a word or phrase that describes the subject.

The following adjectives can be used immediately after a noun:

- many participle adjectives (i.e. adjectives that end with -ing or -ed. See Unit 12, 2.1 for more on participle clauses):

There'll be a lot of people waiting eagerly to get hold of it. (= a lot of people who will be waiting)

Some of the geographical settings used in A Woman Alone are based on places I visited. (= settings which are used in A Woman Alone)

- adjectives used after indefinite pronouns (e.g. something, nothing):

I really don't think it was anything special.

There was nothing extraordinary about my first novel.

2.4 Gradable adjectives

If an adjective is gradable, we can say that a person or thing can have more or less of the quality referred to (e.g. ambitious, busy). Gradable adjectives can be used with adverbs such as extremely, slightly or very:

somewhat ambitious, extremely busy, slightly different, very rich, pretty strong

If an adjective is non-gradable, we don't usually imagine degrees of the quality referred to (e.g. huge, impossible).

To emphasise the extreme or absolute nature of non-gradable adjectives we can use adverbs such as absolutely, completely or totally:

absolutely huge, completely impossible, practically unknown, almost unique, totally useless

Some adjectives have both gradable and non-gradable uses:

- some (e.g. common) have gradable and non-gradable uses with different meanings:
Bardreth isn't a very common surname. (gradable: common = frequent)
Elsa and my mother have certain common characteristics. (non-gradable: common = similar)
- some (e.g. diplomatic) have gradable and non-gradable uses with related meanings:
You're being very diplomatic. (gradable because it refers to the quality the person has)
He worked as the diplomatic correspondent of a national newspaper. (non-gradable because it refers to the type of correspondent he is)

2.5 Patterns after adjectives

When an adjective comes after a linking verb, we can use a number of patterns after the adjective, including a to-infinitive or an -ing form:

I was unwilling to leave teaching.

It felt fantastic having my first book published.

Some of my close friends thought I was mad to give up my job. or ... was mad giving up my job.

Many adjectives can be followed by a that-clause, including some that can also be followed by a to-infinitive or an -ing form:

I was aware that I needed rest.

I was greatly relieved that my subsequent books sold quite well. or ... was greatly relieved to find ...

I felt bad that I was leaving the children or I felt bad leaving ...

Grammar exercises

3.1 Complete the sentences by writing the words in brackets in the correct order. Give alternatives where possible.

- 1 Not wanting to wake the children, I climbed the stairs quietly. (quietly – stairs – the)
- 2 She _____ her parents. (ever – hardly – visits)
- 3 When I bumped into his car, he began _____ at me. (angrily – shout – to)
- 4 Juan thinks we should sell our car and buy bikes instead, and _____ with him. (absolutely – agree – I)
- 5 Natalie is on a working holiday in New Zealand. She _____ and should be home at the end of June. (last – left – week)
- 6 _____ for a meal after work to catch up on news. (go – occasionally – we)
- 7 We _____ to see a film. (go – out – seldom)
- 8 As I walked out of the room, she _____. (loudly – singing – started)

7 Adverbs and adjectives

3.2 Complete the sentences using the adjectives in the box. Use the same adjective in each pair of sentences. If possible, include the adverb given in brackets.

(severely) critical	(very) genuine	(rather) odd
(highly) original	(extremely) particular	(thoroughly) professional
(somewhat) technical	(pretty) wild

- a She's extremely particular about what she eats, and never touches processed food at all.

b There are so many hotels in the city to choose from. Why did you go for that particular one?
- a The launch of the space shuttle has been delayed due to a _____ fault.

b The operating instructions were _____ and difficult to understand.
- a The vase is a _____ antique, not a recent copy.

b I'm sure Anya wouldn't lie to you – she's a _____ person.
- a After protests on the streets, the government had to reconsider its _____ decision to double the tax on petrol.

b He's admired around the world for his _____ style of guitar playing.
- a She is a dedicated teacher, _____ and hard-working.

b I couldn't fix my computer myself, so I had to get some _____ help.
- a As soon as I'd eaten the oysters, I had a _____ feeling in my stomach.

b All the houses on this side of the street have _____ numbers.
- a The strike comes at a _____ time for the company, which has just invested in a major new factory.

b The report was _____ of the Principal's management of the college, and she was forced to resign.
- a The disease was passed on to chickens by _____ birds.

b It's a _____ area of moorland, a long way from roads and settlements.

3.3 Complete the sentences with a to-infinitive or -ing form of the verb in brackets.

- When the phone rang she was busy doing her homework. (do)
- When I see pictures on TV of the flooding near the coast, I'm thankful _____ inland. (live)
- My teacher's rather old and he's inclined _____ asleep during lessons. (fall)
- I never felt comfortable _____ in the same office as Theresa. (work)
- As soon as you're ready _____, I'll call for a taxi. (leave)
- Maria's already lent me a lot of money and I feel awkward _____ her for more. (ask)
- Certain newspapers are always quick _____ the government if anything goes wrong in the country. (blame)
- I felt bad _____ her to do all the clearing up after the party. (leave)

Reading and Use of English Part 3

For questions 1 – 8, read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Sleep patterns

It is estimated that around one in five people have a sleep

(0) disorder of some kind, affecting their ability to get enough sleep. In particular, people who are (1) _____

– an increasing problem around the world – often suffer from sleeping difficulties. Most of the results of this lack of sleep are relatively minor, such as tiredness, irritability and (2) _____, and the effects are not long-lasting. However, longer-term sleep deprivation can have more serious consequences and can be (3) _____ to physical and mental health. For example, it can result in high blood pressure and can affect a person's (4) _____, reducing their ability to think and respond quickly.

Recent (5) _____ research has shown that people need seven to eight hours of sleep on average, although this figure is

(6) _____ on such factors as age and health. For example, for infants the (7) _____ is much higher, about 16 hours a day, while older people tend to sleep less deeply and for a shorter time, often needing about the same amount of sleep as they do in late (8) _____.

Context listening

1.1 You are going to hear four friends discussing where to go on holiday. They have already decided to go to Greece, either to Athens or the island of Corfu. What do you think the advantages of going to each place are?

1.2 ▶ 11 Listen to the discussion. How many of the advantages you identified do they mention?

1.3 ▶ 11 Listen again and complete these extracts by writing three words in each sentence.

- If we don't decide soon, it'll be too late to get anywhere to stay.
- They all look pretty good, and they're right next to _____ beach _____ the island.
- It says in my guidebook that there are reasonable hotel rooms for _____ 40 euros a night.
- It was _____ holiday I've ever had.
- And it would be _____ being in a city.
- It's still supposed to be a really beautiful place, so we'll want to see _____ we can.

1.4 How are the comparative and superlative statements formed? For example:

- | | |
|--|---------|
| 1 too + adjective + to-infinitive | 4 _____ |
| 2 _____ | 5 _____ |
| 3 _____ | 6 _____ |

Grammar2.1 Adjectives and adverbs: comparative and superlative forms*START POINT

Accommodation would be cheaper in Athens.

It's probably the cheapest hotel in Athens.

I want to come home more relaxed and healthier / more healthy.

The walking tour in France was the healthiest / most healthy holiday I've had.

It will be more expensive to get to Corfu than Athens.

It's the most expensive flight that day.

There are exceptions to the comparative and superlative forms above.

We usually add -er/-est to one-syllable adjectives.	However, we use more/most: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> before past participle adjectives (-ed or -ing adjectives): I want to come home more relaxed. before fun, real, right, wrong: It'd be more fun to go to Corfu.
We can usually add -er/-est or put more/most before two-syllable adjectives.	However, we always use more/most with: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> participle adjectives: It was the most boring holiday I've ever had. adjectives ending -ful or -less: It would be more peaceful than being in a city. afraid, alert, alike, alone, ashamed, cautious, complex, direct, exact, famous, frequent, modern, special, recent: I'm more afraid of flying than travelling by boat. The Parthenon is one of the most famous buildings in the world.
We usually put more/most before three- or more syllable adjectives.	However, we can add -er/-est to unhappy, unhealthy, unlikely, unlucky, unsteady, untidy: I came back feeling unhealthier than when I went away. or I came back feeling more unhealthy ...

We can use a sentence with two comparatives to say that as one thing changes, another thing also changes:
The longer we leave it, the more expensive it's going to be.

We can use less/least as the opposite of more/most with all adjectives:

Hotels in Corfu are quite cheap – although less cheap than they used to be. It was the least expensive flight I could find.

In informal contexts we usually prefer not as ... as rather than less than:

It's probably not as unspoilt as some of the other Greek islands.

The forms of comparative and superlative adverbs are similar to those of adjectives, although most adverb comparatives and superlatives take more and most rather than -er/-est:

We could live more cheaply in Athens. Most importantly, we need to book our flights soon.

Common adverbs which take -er/-est include hard and fast.

2.2 Superlatives: special cases

START POINT

That's the most convenient of the flights from London ...

It's one of the most famous buildings in the world.

They're right next to the best beach on the island.

After a superlative we usually use of before plural words and in or on before singular words for places or groups.

For emphasis we can put an of-phrase at the beginning of the sentence:

Of the flights from London, that's the most convenient ...

In informal contexts we sometimes leave out the after a linking verb (e.g. be, become, feel), particularly when the superlative is at the end: Which one's cheapest?

2.3 Comparisons with as ...

START POINT

Isn't Corfu likely to be as hot as Athens at that time of the year? (= equally hot)

Getting to Corfu is just as easy as getting to Athens. (= equally easy to get to)

Before the first as we use words and phrases such as about, almost, just, just about, nearly, and informally not anything like, nothing like, nowhere near, not nearly to indicate degree of similarity:

The heat is nowhere near as bad as people say. (=informal)

In negative forms we can use not as in informal contexts, or less commonly not so:

Corfu is certainly not as quiet as it used to be. or ... not so quiet as it used to be.

We use as much/many as or as little/few as to say that a quantity or amount is larger or smaller than expected:

There are reasonable hotel rooms for as little as 40 euros a night.

There are as many as 12 flights a day to Athens from London.

We also use as much/many as with a noun phrase, a clause or the words ever, possible and usual:

We want to see as much as possible.

We can put a singular noun between an adjective and the second as:

We want as cheap a flight as possible.

Notice that we use a/an in front of the noun.

The negative form of sentences like this can use either not as or not such:

Getting there is not as big a problem as you might think.

That's not such a bad idea.

Notice that we use not as + adjective + a/an + noun but not such a/an + adjective + noun.

- As + clause

We can use a clause after as to compare two situations:

Maybe we could hire a car, as we did last year.

- As or like

When followed by a noun, as is used to describe the job or role of someone, or the function of something:

My friend Mark used to work there as an English teacher.

Like is used to say that one person or thing is similar to another:

I stayed in a hotel like that one last year.

2.4 Comparisons with so ..., too ..., enough

Comparative clauses with so, too and enough are followed by clauses beginning that or to-infinitive.

- so + adjective + that-clause

It gets so hot (comparative clause with so) that a lot of people leave the city. (that-clause)

More formally we can use so + adjective + as + to-infinitive with a similar meaning. Compare:

The difference in price is so small as to not be worth bothering about. (formal)

The difference in price is so small that it's not worth bothering about. (informal)

- too + adjective + to-infinitive

If we don't decide soon, it'll be too late (for us) to get anywhere to stay.

- adjective + enough + to-infinitive

It's easy enough to get into the centre from there.

Grammar exercises

3.1 Complete the sentences with an appropriate comparative or superlative form of the adjective in brackets. Give alternative forms where possible.

- 1 Redbacks are among the commonest / most common spiders in this part of the country. Unfortunately, they're also the _____ . (common, venomous)
- 2 The road seemed to be getting _____ as we drove _____ into the forest. (narrow, deep)
- 3 I know coffee isn't good for me, and certainly _____ than tea, but I'm at my _____ early in the morning after a couple of cups of coffee, and I would find it difficult to give it up. (harmful, alert)
- 4 It was the _____ I had ever come to a fully grown elephant, and I was terrified. But even then I realised that I was in the presence of one of the _____ creatures on earth. (close, magnificent)
- 5 The head of Presto Stores argued that without supermarkets to provide cheap and fresh food, we would all be _____ and _____. (poor, unhealthy)
- 6 When Emily saw Liam at the party, she thought he was the _____ man she had ever seen and went over to speak to him. But she soon realised that he was _____ with looking good than talking to her. (handsome, concern)
- 7 I couldn't have been _____ when Professor Park agreed to meet me to discuss my research. He's one of the _____ scientists in his field. But I was _____ than angry when he phoned to say that he couldn't meet me after all. I realise that he's a very busy man. (thrilled, respected, sad)

3.2 Complete the sentences in this radio news report. Choose the correct or more likely option in each pair. Sometimes both are possible.

With just a few days before the general election, as (1) many / much as 100,000 people have demonstrated in the capital of Manistan as attacks on opposition candidates have continued. When voters were asked about their intentions in a recent opinion poll, as (2) little / few as 10% said they would be voting.

President Clarke has claimed that thanks to recent medical advances, malaria could be eradicated worldwide within as (3) little / few as ten years. In a speech to the World Health Organisation, she said that a cheap vaccine against malaria is just around the corner, (4) as it is / as is a cure for hepatitis B. She called on developed countries to invest (5) as much / so much as possible so that they can have the maximum impact on those most affected in poorer countries.

The former Formula One world champion Carl Nielsen left hospital today just six weeks after his horrific crash. Speaking to reporters outside his home, he said that damage to his back was not as (6) serious a problem / a serious problem as first thought, and he hoped to return to as (7) normal life / normal a life as possible. But there is (8) not such a / not a such positive outcome for the spectator who was hit by debris from Nielsen's car. He is said to be still in a critical condition.

A 64-year-old man who works (9) like / as a school crossing warden has become the country's biggest ever lottery winner. Mark Johns from London said that the win had come at the perfect time for him. He said: 'I'm not (10) so / as young as I was, and I can now look forward to a comfortable retirement.'

3.3 Ignoring the highlighted parts for now, complete the sentences with an adjective from the box. Use each adjective only once.

awful bright exhausted good loud small strong tall

- 1 The job offer was so good that I couldn't turn it down.
- 2 Adam is so _____ that he has to bend down to get through doorways.
- 3 I was so _____ that I couldn't go any further.
- 4 The comet is so _____ that it can be seen with the naked eye.
- 5 The traffic outside the theatre was so _____ that the actors couldn't make themselves heard.
- 6 The camera is so _____ that it can fit easily into your shirt pocket.
- 7 The results were so _____ that our teacher made us take the test again.
- 8 The earthquake was so _____ that it shook buildings across the whole country.

3.4 The shaded parts of two of the sentences in 3.3 can be rewritten using too + adjective + to-infinitive and two others can be rewritten using adjective + enough + to-infinitive. Find these sentences and rewrite the highlighted part. One is done for you.

- 1 The job offer was too good to turn down.

 c verb + thing(s) + to + person/people _____ and _____ 1.5 Decide whether the phrases in 1.3 could be rewritten using the other patterns.

- 1 a ✓ = bought my two-year-old daughter a cuddly elephant
 b ✓ = bought a cuddly elephant for my two-year-old daughter
 c X = ~~bought a cuddly elephant to my two-year-old daughter~~

Grammar

START POINT

Interactions between infants will often copy parental speech. (transitive)

Fetch me your hat. (transitive)

Infants are keen to interact with others. (intransitive)

A verb is transitive if it can be followed by one object (e.g. copy parental speech) or two objects (e.g. Fetch me your hat). If a verb has two objects, the first (the indirect object) is usually a person or group of people and the second (the direct object) is a thing. If a verb can't be followed by an object it is intransitive (e.g. interact) and it can't have a passive form.

2.1 Verbs with two objects

After many verbs with two objects, we can reverse the order of the objects if we put for or to before the indirect object:

I recently bought my two-year-old daughter a cuddly elephant. or I recently bought a cuddly elephant for my two-year-old daughter.

A child might offer their mother some food. or A child might offer some food to their mother.

We often use this pattern (with for or to) to focus particular attention on the indirect object or when the indirect object is much longer than the direct object:

She lent the book to one of the students who asked for some additional reading. (not She lent one of the students who asked for some additional reading the book.)

We use for + indirect object with verbs such as build, find and get:

Go to the toy box and find the car for me. or Go to the toy box and find me the car.

We use to + indirect object with verbs such as give, offer and show:

She gave a toy to me. or She gave me a toy.

We can use either for or to + indirect object with verbs such as play, read and write. Often there is a difference in meaning:

I couldn't find her email address, so I had to write a letter to her.

She was too young to write herself, so I wrote the letter for her. (= instead of her)

Sometimes the meaning is very similar:

Reading stories for/to young children is an important part of this process.

Some verbs with two objects cannot have their objects reversed with for/to, including ask, guarantee and refuse:

Most parents ask themselves the question: 'Did they copy that from us?' (not ... ask the question for/to themselves ...)

If the direct object is a pronoun, we usually use direct object + for/to + indirect object:

I bought it for my daughter. Give it to me.

While I bought my daughter it and Give me it might be heard in informal speech, this pattern is usually considered to be bad style and should be avoided in writing and in Cambridge English: Advanced.

Some verbs can only have two objects in the pattern direct object + for/to + indirect object:

- for (These verbs include collect, fix and mend.)

Mend this for me. (not Mend me this.)

- to (These verbs include describe, explain and mention.)

Dr Jackman will be describing this process to you in detail. (not Dr Jackman will be describing you this process in detail.)

2.2 Verb + object + adjective

Some verbs (e.g. believe, consider, prove) can be followed by an object + adjective:

We might consider first language learning natural ... (object = first language learning; adjective = natural)

2.3 Verb + reflexive pronoun

START POINT

Let me introduce myself. I'd like to talk about what I call 'private' conversations – children talking to themselves.

When the subject and the object of a sentence refer to the same person or thing, we use a reflexive pronoun as the object rather than a personal pronoun. The reflexive pronouns are: myself, yourself, herself, himself, itself, ourselves, yourselves, themselves.

After some verbs we can use a reflexive pronoun or leave it out with little difference in meaning. These include acclimatise to, adapt to, (un)dress, hide, move, prepare for, shave and wash:

As my three year-old daughter dresses (herself), she likes to talk.

We include the reflexive pronoun for emphasis. In this example, we might include herself to emphasise that she dresses without help.

A few verbs are very often used with a reflexive pronoun followed by a particular preposition: busy ... with, distance ... from, pride ... on:

When children appear to be busying themselves with their toys ...

Some verbs are rarely or never used with a reflexive pronoun in English, but often are in other languages. These include: complain, concentrate, get up, get hot, get tired, lie down, meet, relax, remember, sit down and wake up:

From the moment they wake up ... (not ~~From the moment they wake themselves up ...~~)

With verbs followed by direct object + preposition + indirect object we usually use a personal pronoun, not a reflexive pronoun, as indirect object:

Parents sometimes hide an object behind them. (not ~~Parents sometimes hide an object behind themselves.~~)

If we need to make it clear that the subject and indirect object refer to the same person, we use a reflexive pronoun. Compare:

Maria didn't buy the teddy bear for her. (her = could mean either Maria or someone else)

Maria didn't buy the teddy bear for herself. (herself = Maria)

2.4 Verb + each other / one another

Compare the use of verbs with reflexive pronouns and each other / one another:

Sara and Noel blamed themselves when their daughter broke her arm. (= they said it was the fault of both of them)

Sara and Noel blamed each other / one another when their daughter broke her arm. (= Sara said it was Noel's fault and Noel said it was Sara's fault)

With some verbs (e.g. agree, coincide, play) we have to use the preposition with before each other / one another.
It is wonderful to see two small children playing with each other peacefully.

After the verbs embrace, fight, hug, kiss, marry and meet we can use each other or (with) one another, but this can be omitted:

Two small children at a nursery school might hug (each other / one another) when they meet.

- In three of these sentences you could use the other form of this verb and still have a correct sentence. Which three? _____, _____, _____
- In only one of these three would the sentence have a similar meaning with either a to-infinitive or an -ing form. Which one? _____

GrammarSTART POINT

I managed to find a friendly taxi driver.
I considered staying for a few more days.
I couldn't get out of the way.

When two verbs are used together, the second verb is in either a to-infinitive, an -ing or a bare infinitive form (i.e. an infinitive without to).

2.1 Verb + to-infinitive / -ing

Some verbs can be followed by either a to-infinitive or an -ing form with little or no difference in meaning:
I started to scream. or I started screaming.

Other verbs like this include: begin, not bother, cease, continue. We normally avoid using two -ing forms together:
I was beginning to feel quite at home there. (not ~~I was beginning feeling ...~~)

After the opinion verbs hate, like, love and prefer we can use either a to-infinitive or an -ing form with little difference in meaning. However, we prefer a to-infinitive when we say we do something regularly. Compare:
When I was younger, I used to hate to swim in the sea. (= implies regular swimming)
When I was younger, I used to hate swimming in the sea. (= implies swimming in general)

After would ('d) with hate, like, love or prefer, we use a to-infinitive, not an -ing form:
I'd love to think that it could avoid a huge expansion in visitors.

Some verbs can be followed by either a to-infinitive or an -ing form but the meaning of the verb is different:
I came to realise that the Lombok people are very kind. (= talking about a gradual realisation)
It came swimming towards me. (= saying that something swam in your direction)

We use an -ing form after the preposition to:
I'd really been looking forward to staying at the Hotel Sanar in Mataram. (not ... ~~looking forward to stay ...~~) and after the preposition of a phrasal verb:

I put off going home for as long as possible. (not ~~I put off go ...~~)

In negative sentences, the position of not can influence meaning. Compare:
I regretted not speaking the local language. (= I didn't speak the language and I regretted it)
I didn't regret speaking the local language. (= I spoke it and I didn't regret it)
I was told not to exercise. (= they said I shouldn't exercise)
I wasn't told to exercise. (= they didn't say I should exercise)

2.2 Verb + (object) + bare infinitive

When let and make have an object, this is followed by a bare infinitive:
They made us wait outside the harbour for hours.

But we use a to-infinitive after a passive form of make:
We were made to wait outside the harbour for hours.

When the verbs of perception feel, hear, notice, observe, overhear, see, watch have an object, this is followed by an -ing form or a bare infinitive:

I felt it stinging me across the stomach. or I felt it sting me across the stomach.
I sat on the beach and I watched the sun setting. or I watched the sun set and then went home.

Verb patterns (2)

We usually prefer an -ing form when the action is in progress or we want to emphasise that it continued for some time, and a bare infinitive when an action is complete or we want to emphasise that it lasted for a short time.

We use a bare infinitive in certain idiomatic phrases with dare, make, let and hear:

I dare say you're tired after your journey. (= I think this must be true; see Unit 4, 2.7 for more on dare.)

I had to make do with a less luxurious hotel.

I had to let go of the rope.

He let slip that he hadn't got a driving licence.

I heard tell there were sharks around.

After help we can use either a bare infinitive or to-infinitive:

Some of the villagers helped carry me back to my taxi. or Some of the villagers helped to carry me back to my taxi.

2.3 Verb + object + to-infinitive / -ing

After some verbs we have to include an object before a to-infinitive in active sentences:

A number of people had encouraged me to go to the coral reefs off the northwest coast of the island.

Other verbs like this include: advise, persuade, tell.

Some verbs can't include an object before a to-infinitive:

I decided to go ahead.

Other verbs like this include: agree, guarantee, refuse.

With some verbs we have to include the preposition for before an object + to-infinitive:

I arranged for the taxi to collect me.

Other verbs like this include: advertise, apply, campaign, pay, wait.

(See Unit 24, 2.2 for more on prepositions after verbs.)

Some verbs are only followed by an -ing form when they have an object:

I saw the jellyfish coming towards me.

Other verbs like this include: feel, find, hear.

2.4 Verb + object/possessive + -ing

Some verbs can be followed either by an object or, more formally, a possessive form:

I really appreciated them looking after me so well. or I really appreciated their looking after me so well.

Other verbs like this include verbs of (dis)liking (e.g. appreciate, detest, (dis)approve of, (dis)like, enjoy, hate, love, object to) and verbs of thinking (e.g. forget, imagine, remember, think of).

We can only use a possessive form to talk about a person or a group of people:

I'll never forget it swimming towards me. (not ... its swimming towards me)

We don't use a possessive form if the object is complex:

I really enjoyed Arun and his sister showing me around. (not ... Arun(s) and his-sister's ...)

2.5 Other patterns after verbs

The to-infinitive can also have perfect, passive and continuous forms.

- Verb + to have + past participle

We use forms of the perfect infinitive to talk about an event that happened earlier or is complete:

The Sasaks are thought to have originally come to Lombok from India or Burma.

This is particularly used to talk about actions that did not happen or may not have happened:

I was supposed to have arrived on the 14th October.

I was supposed to have been flying from London to Singapore.

The mountain's thought by some to have been created by the god Batara.

- Verb + having + past participle

We use the perfect -ing form to emphasise that one action happens before another:

I really regret not having taken my camera with me.

This form is most often used with the verbs admit, deny, forget, recall, regret and remember.

- Verb + to be + present/past participle

Future actions can also be indicated using the continuous infinitive (verb + to be + present participle) and the passive infinitive (verb + to be + past participle):

I hope to be going back again.

More flights to the island are expected to be introduced next year.

Exam practice

Reading and Use of English Part 5

You are going to read a newspaper article about the writer's experience as a cyclist. For questions 1 – 6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

My life as a human speed bump

Giving up a car has not been quite the liberating experience that George Monbiot had hoped.

Seventeen years after giving up my car, I still feel like a second-class citizen. I am trying to do the right thing, but the United Kingdom just isn't run for people like me. Take our bus services. My home city, Oxford, has invested massively in a park-and-ride scheme: buses carry people into the centre from car parks on the outskirts. At first I thought this was a great idea. Now, having stood for what must amount to weeks at bus stops, watching the full double deckers go by every couple of minutes without stopping, I realise it's not just the roads which have been taken over by drivers, but also the public transport system.

Or take the bike lanes. Most consist of lines painted on the road where it is wide and safe, which disappear as soon as it becomes narrow and dangerous. One of them, in Oxford, has been surfaced with small stones, which shows that the people who designed them have never ridden a bicycle. When we asked for a bike lane on one of the city's busiest streets, the council chose instead to narrow the street and widen the pavements, in the hope that the bicycles would slow down the cars. The cyclists, reluctant to become human speed bumps, started travelling down the pavement.

Now there is almost nowhere reserved for people like me. Out of political cowardice, councils and the police have given up enforcing the law. Preventing people from parking on the pavement would mean cutting the number of parking places, as the streets are otherwise too narrow. In one part of Oxford they have solved the problem by painting parking places on the pavement. Since my daughter was born, and I have started pushing a pram, I have been forced to walk in the middle of the road. In one respect this makes sense: the pavements are so badly maintained that she will only sleep when she's being pushed down the smooth grey carpet laid out for the cars.

My problem is that by seeking to reduce my impact on the planet, I joined a political minority that is diminishing every year. As car ownership increases, its only remaining members are a handful of strange people like me, the very poor and those not qualified to drive. None of these groups have political power. Our demands run counter to the usual wish to be successful, and have a better home, job and car, and are therefore of little interest to either politicians or the media.

Now, to my horror, I find I am beginning to question even the environmental impact of my 17 years of moderation. It is true that my own carbon emissions have been reduced. It is also true that if everyone did the same thing the total saving would be enormous. The problem is that, in the absence of regulation, traffic expands to fill the available space. By refusing to own a car I have merely opened up road space for other people, who tend to drive more fuel-hungry models than I would have chosen. We can do little to reduce our impacts on the environment if the government won't support us.

There are some compensations, however. About three or four times a year I hire a car. When I stop at motorway service stations, I am struck by the staggering levels of obesity: it appears to be far more prevalent there than on trains or coaches. People who take public transport must at least walk to the bus stop. The cyclists among us keep fit without even noticing.

Being without a car in Oxford has forced me to become more engaged with my home town. It throws me into contact with far more people than I would otherwise encounter. There are a couple of routes which make cycling a real pleasure: the footpath along the River Thames, for example, takes me most of the way to the station. But overall, as far as self-interest is concerned, I would struggle to claim that giving up my car was a wholly positive decision.

- 1 In the first paragraph, the writer says his view of the Oxford park-and-ride scheme is that
 - A it has actually encouraged people to drive into town.
 - B it has been an unqualified success.
 - C it has had insufficient funding.
 - D its popularity has become problematic.

- 2 The writer thinks that cyclists started travelling down the pavement in one of Oxford's busiest streets because
 - A the council put in a speed restriction measure.
 - B the pavement is very wide.
 - C there is no bike lane.
 - D in the bike lane cyclists are too close to cars.

- 3 In the third paragraph, the writer says he believes that Oxford city council has shown 'political cowardice' because it
 - A is reluctant to stop cars being left in pedestrian areas.
 - B doesn't want cyclists on the city's roads.
 - C has narrowed some roads to discourage cyclists from using them.
 - D is unwilling to improve the standard of pavements.

- 4 In the fifth paragraph, the writer suggests that the effect of his actions has been to
 - A discourage the government from giving support.
 - B lower maintenance standards for pavements.
 - C create more room on the road for other cars.
 - D encourage others to drive bigger cars.

- 5 The writer's observations at motorway service stations suggest to him that
 - A car drivers are more overweight than public transport users.
 - B people who own cars are thinner than people who hire them.
 - C people who use public transport don't get enough exercise.
 - D cyclists ride bikes in order to keep fit.

- 6 According to the writer, being without a car in Oxford
 - A has been a completely positive experience.
 - B has increased the number of acquaintances he has made.
 - C has made him stay at home more.
 - D has been a complete mistake.

Grammar

2.1 Defining and non-defining relative clauses

START POINT

The old photograph that you can see ahead of you shows Marconi at Signal Hill. (defining relative clause)

The story of radio probably begins with Heinrich Hertz, who was the first to produce radio waves in a laboratory. (non-defining relative clause)

Relative clauses give more information about someone or something referred to in the main clause.

Defining relative clauses specify which (or which type of) person or thing we mean.

Non-defining relative clauses simply add extra information about a noun.

We put a relative clause as close as possible to the noun it refers to:

There are just a few of the 'wireless telegraphs' that the factory produced left in the world. rather than There are just a few of the 'wireless telegraphs' left in the world that the factory produced.

Some relative clauses refer back to the whole idea in the previous clause, not just the previous noun. Most of these begin with which:

The owner of the old radio claims that it is in excellent condition – which is obviously not the case.

2.2 Relative pronouns

Adding information about people

- defining relative clause (subject pronoun – the relative pronoun is the subject of the relative clause):

There were many people ^{subject pronoun} ← who doubted that Marconi would ever succeed.

(Or informally: There were many people that doubted Marconi would ever succeed.)

- defining relative clause (object pronoun – the relative pronoun is the object of the relative clause):

Augusto Righi was an Italian physicist ^{object pronoun} ← who ^{subject} Marconi studied with in the 1890s.

(Or informally: an Italian physicist (that) Marconi studied with.)

We can leave out the relative pronoun if it is the object of a defining relative clause.

- non-defining relative clause (subject pronoun):

The story of radio probably begins with Heinrich Hertz, ^{subject pronoun} ← who was the first to produce radio waves in a laboratory.

- non-defining relative clause (object pronoun):

Augusto Righi, ^{object pronoun} who ^{subject} Marconi respected greatly, guided his research. (Very formally: Augusto Righi, whom Marconi respected greatly, guided his research.)

Note that whom is now used only in very formal styles, mostly in writing.

Adding information about things or animals

- defining relative clause (subject pronoun):
The invention that made this possible was the vacuum tube. More formally: The invention which made this possible ...
- defining relative clause (object pronoun):
The model (that) you can see in Case 1 shows how this works. More formally: The model which you can see ...
- non-defining relative clause (subject and object pronoun):
Marconi opened a 'wireless telegraph' factory in England, which employed around 50 people.
Marconi's 'wireless telegraph' factory, which he set up in England, employed around 50 people.
Although some people use that here, it is grammatically incorrect and should be avoided in Cambridge English: Advanced.

In both defining and non-defining relative clauses we can often use who, that or which with collective nouns referring to groups of people (e.g. company, government, orchestra):

The company who/which/that made the first radios was set up by Marconi.

2.3 Other words beginning relative clauses

We often use when after a noun referring to a time, or words such as day, period, time:

The first public demonstration of the power of radio came in 1901, when Marconi announced that he had received a transmission from across the Atlantic.

More formally, we can often use a preposition + which:

It was a period during which they met very infrequently, or ... a period when ...

Less formally, we can use that or no relative pronoun in defining relative clauses:

I can still remember the time (that) I first watched television, or ... the time when ...

We often use why after reason:

You can probably guess the reason why radio began to lose some of its popularity, or informally ... the reason (that) radio began to lose ...

We often use where after a noun referring to a location, and after the words case, condition, example, experiment, instance, point, process, situation and system:

Move now to room 36, where you can find information and displays.

Marconi's goal was to find a system where telegraphic messages could be transmitted.

More formally, we can use a preposition + which:

He devised an experiment in which a spark jumped across a gap in a metal ring.

We use whose + noun to talk about something belonging to or connected with a person, town, country or organisation:

For most people, however, it is the Italian Guglielmo Marconi whose name is mainly associated with the development of radio.

In formal uses, noun + of which can sometimes replace whose + noun:

Project Geneva is a computing project, the purpose of which is to analyse very large amounts of data on environmental change, or Project Geneva is a computing project whose purpose is to analyse large amounts of data on environmental change.

2.4 Prepositions in relative clausesSTART POINT

These early radio systems could only be used for Morse code, in which each letter of the alphabet is represented by a combination of dots and dashes. (= These early radio systems could only be used for Morse code. In Morse code, each letter of the alphabet is represented by a combination of dots and dashes.)

A preposition usually comes before the relative pronoun in formal styles:

In 1901 Marconi made the announcement for which he will always be remembered.

After a preposition we usually use whom rather than who in formal styles:

Augusto Righi, with whom Marconi studied in the 1890s, was a physicist. or Augusto Righi, whom Marconi studied with in the 1890s, was a physicist.

A preposition usually comes at the end of the clause in less formal styles:

In 1901, Marconi made the announcement which he will always be remembered for.

Augusto Righi, who Marconi studied with in the 1890s, was a physicist.

We can use of which and of whom (or very informally of who) after all, both, each, many, most, neither, part, several, some; a number (e.g. one, the first, half) and superlatives:

Radio entertainers, many of whom became household names, were highly paid.

We can use a preposition, usually from, with where and when:

Marconi set up a transmission station in Cornwall, from where the first transatlantic radio message was sent.

1.2 ▶ 15 Listen and check whether you were right.

1.3 ▶ 15 Listen again and fill in the gaps at the end of each sentence with what the speakers actually said.

- When I was quite young – 10 or 11 – I started using an old camera which belonged to my father. belonging
- It was easy to find a photographer who wanted to take an assistant for no pay! _____
- She was really the first person who encouraged me to take up food photography. _____
- I was the youngest person in the competition who won any of the major categories. _____
- The biggest problem is the heat that is produced by the lights. _____
- Personally, I prefer food that is not made of cardboard! _____
- I generally have with me a spray bottle which contains glycerine mixed with water. _____
- We use cotton wool balls that have been soaked in water. _____

1.4 Look at your answers for 1.3. In which did the speakers use:

- a present participle (-ing form)? 1, _____, _____
- a past participle (-ed form)? _____, _____, _____
- a to-infinitive? _____, _____

Grammar

2.1 Participle clauses

START POINT

I started using an old camera belonging to my father.

The food in photographs used to illustrate cookbooks and magazine articles isn't always entirely authentic.

And then we put in some material to substitute for the food.

We can often reduce a defining relative clause so that it begins with a present participle (-ing), past participle (-ed), or to-infinitive.

-ing clauses correspond to defining relative clauses with an active verb, and -ed clauses correspond to defining relative clauses with a passive verb:

The editor working on the cookbook or magazine is often there, too. (= The editor who is working ...)

A challenge facing food photographers is how to keep food looking fresh. (= A challenge which faces ...)

The big problem is the heat produced by the lights. (= ... the heat that is produced ...)

Personally, I prefer food not made of cardboard! (= ... food which is not made of cardboard!)

Verbs which are not normally used in continuous forms may be used in reduced relative -ing clauses.

This spray bottle contains glycerine mixed with water. (not ... ~~is containing~~ ...)

However, we can say:

I generally have with me a spray bottle containing glycerine and water.

Other verbs like this include belong to, comprise, consist of, constitute, equal, own, possess, resemble, result from, surround.

It is not always possible to use a reduced form of a relative clause.

- We can't use a reduced form when the first verb in the relative clause is a modal verb:
A technique that might be used in photographing meat is to use a glycerine spray.
Food that can't be frozen is particularly difficult to photograph.
- We can't use an -ing reduced form when we talk about a single, completed action. Compare:
Sometimes the chef who created the dish in their restaurant comes to the studio.
(not ... ~~the chef creating the dish~~ ...)
The chef preparing the food today works in a well-known restaurant.
(= The chef who is preparing the food today ...)

Reduced relative clauses can also be used instead of non-defining relative clauses, particularly in written English:

Her photographs, taken in her studio in California ... (= ... which were taken in her studio in California ...)

My parents – not having much money – rarely took us to restaurants. (= ... who didn't have much money ...)

These are usually written between commas (,) or dashes (–).

2.2 To-infinitive clauses

We often use a to-infinitive clause instead of a relative clause after:

- a superlative + noun (phrase):
I was the youngest person in the competition to win any of the major categories.
- the first/second, etc. + noun (phrase):
She was really the first person to encourage me to take up food photography.
- the only / the next / the last / another / one + noun (phrase):
By the time we photograph the food, it's completely cold. The only thing to do in that case is to create steam from elsewhere.

Often we can use an active or passive to-infinitive clause with little difference in meaning:

The only thing to do in that case is to create steam from elsewhere. or The only thing to be done ...

2.3 Adjective phrases

Adjectives and adjective phrases can be used after nouns with a meaning similar to a relative clause. Often the adjective is followed by a to-infinitive or preposition, or used with an adverb:

It was easy to find a photographer willing to take an assistant for no pay! (= ... a photographer who was willing to take an assistant for no pay!)

It's a job difficult for even a skilled photographer. (= ... a job which is difficult for even a skilled photographer.)

Glycerine's a liquid, completely colourless, that's often used to sweeten food. (= ... a liquid which is completely colourless, ...)

A few adjectives (e.g. affected, available, present) can be used alone after a noun with a meaning similar to a relative clause:

We use cardboard or any other material available. or ... material which is available.

(See Unit 7, 2.3 for more on the position of adjectives.)

2.4 Prepositional phrases

We can give additional information about a thing or person using a prepositional phrase. Often these have a meaning similar to a relative clause:

The vegetables around that succulent piece of meat could be made from plastic. (= The vegetables which are around ...)

Monitors to cut home electricity use

Monitors which show the real-time cost of electricity use are to be provided free of charge to homes across the UK in an effort to slow down climate change. Under the new government proposals, from next year electricity suppliers will have to provide the devices – which have cut power use by up to 6.5% in Canada – to all customers who want them. Domestic appliances which are left on unnecessarily are estimated to waste £900 million of electricity a year.

Traditional electricity meters are usually kept out of sight in cupboards. However, the monitors, which use microchip technology and a digital display, are intended to be placed in full view as a constant reminder of the electricity that is being used in a house at any given moment.

The Environment Secretary said: 'People want to do their bit to help protect the environment as well as save money, and visual display units that are provided free of charge will help people do both.' A spokeswoman for the Electricity Consumer Council said it supported any plan that would give customers access to free monitors. The shadow environment secretary said: 'Although it is an interesting and welcome measure, there are still many details that should be considered, not least the reliability of these meters.'

However, the Energy Retail Council has criticised the proposal, saying that it did not go far enough. In a statement, their chief executive said: 'We had hoped the government would recommend the introduction of 'smart meters' – which communicate electricity consumption to both the customer and the energy supplier – rather than meters that are only able to do half the job.'

Reading and Use of English Part 5

You are going to read a newspaper article. For questions 1 – 6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

Should children be taken to art galleries?

The debate about taking young children to art galleries has a long history. On one side are traditionalists – conservators and keen gallery-goers – who disapprove of the noise and disruption caused by children and worry about damage to fragile paintings and sculptures. In opposition are the progressives – educationalists and parents – who contend that viewing art enriches the lives of children. This dispute has resurfaced in the media recently following a claim by the visual artist Jake Chapman that dragging children round galleries is “a total waste of time”. Parents are “arrogant”, he says, for thinking children could understand the work of such complex artists as Jackson Pollock and Mark Rothko.

Current thinking, of course, sides with the progressives. Early exposure to art widens children’s horizons, develops their curiosity about the world, and boosts their creativity. Further, it significantly increases the chances that they will have a life-long interest. With this in mind, many galleries have adopted a more child-friendly approach, encouraging parents to bring their children by arranging special events and handing out quizzes and worksheets to children as they arrive. From this perspective, expecting children to conform to adult behaviour in galleries is a form of punishment, which should be subverted at every turn.

But maybe Chapman does have a point. Developmental psychology suggests that before the age of 8 or 9 children view art only for what it represents in the real world. It is only in their early teens that children begin to go beyond representation and understand that art is created to express certain meanings and values beyond the literal. Art education is necessary before the adolescent can appreciate stylistic elements and develop a critical facility, making their own judgments about the merits of a piece. Faced with abstract expressionism such as Pollock’s drips and looping swirls or Rothko’s rectangles of colours, it’s no wonder that young children quickly lose interest. We shouldn’t be surprised if most prefer the joys of running up and down the polished gallery floors as they search the paintings for answers to worksheet questions, or even, heaven forbid, run their sticky fingers over priceless masterpieces. Should children be allowed to ruin other visitors’ experience by causing a din among the Pre-Raphaelites? Of course not.

Against this, I think back to my own experience of viewing art as a young child. I was taken to galleries regularly – but for short visits to see just a handful of paintings each time. My parents would talk about each of the paintings and always ask me what I liked most about it. I wouldn’t say that I understood everything they said, but through this exposure, over time I came to learn something about the subject matter of art, artistic techniques and, above all, the experience of viewing: what’s most important is how a piece of art makes you feel. I was lucky enough, though, to have knowledgeable and sensitive parents, and local galleries available that we could visit again and again. Access to art has undoubtedly improved my quality of life, and I only have to watch a child engaging with a painting to realize it is the same for many others.

Jake Chapman was right to reignite the debate, but his conclusion is wrong. We shouldn’t be excluding children from art galleries. Instead, we should be educating parents, helping them to improve the experience of their children’s gallery visits – good both for their children and other visitors. First, parents should know some simple ground rules of gallery behaviour and make sure they and their children stick to them: don’t touch paintings and sculptures (it can cause damage); don’t have loud phone conversations (it’s annoying for everyone else); and don’t take photos of the artworks (paintings are meant to be looked at, not posed next to – buy a guidebook afterwards if you want a record of what you’ve seen). More importantly, though, they need advice on how to encourage their children to look at and talk about artwork. The worksheets given to children could be replaced with ones for parents, including relevant information and suggested discussion topics to share with their children. Through interaction of this kind, children will grow up believing that art is for all, not just for adults or for some exclusive group of ‘art appreciators’ to which they do not belong. And by being involved, interest and enthusiasm will replace boredom.

- 1 What view does the artist Jake Chapman put forward about art galleries?
 - A Parents think they are too difficult for children to understand.
 - B Parents overestimate their value.
 - C Children learn little about art by visiting them.
 - D Children tend not to enjoy visiting them.

- 2 According to the writer, 'progressives' believe that galleries
 - A should be organized with children in mind.
 - B should prioritize children over adults.
 - C should encourage children to paint more themselves.
 - D should not restrict how children behave.

- 3 In the third paragraph, the writer says that very young children
 - A can be taught to judge the quality of a painting.
 - B are not ready to appreciate abstract art.
 - C are reluctant to criticize paintings.
 - D are attracted only to paintings showing scenes of real life.

- 4 During the writer's visits to art galleries as a young child
 - A her parents told her which paintings were noteworthy.
 - B she accumulated knowledge of a large number of paintings.
 - C she was surprised at her parents' knowledge of art.
 - D she was encouraged to evaluate art.

- 5 What point does the writer make in the fifth paragraph?
 - A Parents need to learn more about art appreciation.
 - B Gallery rules need to be enforced more strictly.
 - C Not all parents can appreciate art.
 - D Adults should be more tolerant of children's behaviour in galleries.

- 6 An idea recurring in the text is that
 - A both adults and children behave badly in galleries.
 - B children know as much about art as their parents.
 - C it takes time for children to learn to appreciate art.
 - D galleries are not doing enough to help children understand art.

1.3 Look at the word or phrase you wrote in sentence 5 in 1.2. What other word or phrase you wrote in 1.2 has a similar meaning? What other words or phrases are similar to the one in sentence 7?

Grammar

2.1 Adverbial clauses: general

START POINT

I seem to eat less healthily as I get older.

Although I'd like to eat more fresh food, I don't have time to prepare meals in the evenings.*

An adverbial clause adds extra information to a main clause about things such as time, reason or purpose. Most adverbial clauses begin with a conjunction (e.g. as, although) and can come before or after the main clause.

An adverbial clause must be connected to a main clause; we can't use it as a separate sentence:

I don't eat much for breakfast because I'm always in a rush. (not I don't eat much for breakfast. Because I'm always in a rush.)

We only use one conjunction to connect an adverbial clause and a main clause: (not Because I'm always in a rush, so I don't eat breakfast.)

2.2 Time clauses

START POINT

I generally have a sandwich and a packet of crisps as/when/while I'm sitting at my desk.

We can use as, when or while to talk about something that happens when something else takes place.

As can sometimes mean either 'because' or 'during the time that':

I opened the window as I was cooking. (= ... because I was cooking or ... while I was cooking)

We don't use will in a clause with a time conjunction (e.g. before, until, when) to talk about a future action or an action that is completed before another in the main clause:

I'd like to have something more substantial before I leave home in the morning. (not ... before I will leave home in the morning.)

When I've written up the research, I'll let you have a copy.* (not When I will have written up the research; ...)

We use when (not as or while) at the beginning of an adverbial clause which:

- refers to a point in time:
I remember once I was eating some sweets in my bedroom when my mother walked in.
- describes the circumstances in which the event in the main clause happens:
When I get home late, I take a ready meal out of the freezer.*
- refers to a past period of our lives:
When I was younger, my mother used to keep an eye on what I ate.*
- talks about 'every time' something happens:
When/Whenever I've had one of those ready meals, I feel hungry by the time I go to bed.*

We prefer as to show that one thing changes at the same time as another:

As I put on weight, it gets more and more difficult to exercise.* (rather than When/While I put on weight*)

We can use as or when to highlight the moment that something happens:

As/When I turned the corner, the bus was just pulling up ...* (not While I turned ...*)

13

Adverbial clauses

2.3 Contrast and concession clauses

We use although or, less formally, though to say that there is a contrast between what happens in the main clause and the adverbial clause:

*Sometimes I get up in the night and have a snack, although I know it's bad for me.

or to introduce a concession clause that suggests the opposite of the main clause:

Although I don't enjoy cooking, I prepare a meal for myself every evening.*

We can use though at the end of a clause:

*In some ways, it's better now, though. (not ... it's better now, although.)

We can use despite the fact that / in spite of the fact that or despite / in spite of + -ing with a similar meaning to although:

Despite the fact that I know all about the theory of a healthy diet, it's very hard to put it into practice. or In spite of the fact that I know ...*

Despite (my) knowing all about the theory of a healthy diet, it's very hard to put it into practice. or In spite of (my) knowing ...*

We can use while or whereas to say that there is a contrast with something in the main clause. The while / whereas clause may come before or after the main clause:

If I got hungry at school, I'd buy a chocolate bar, whereas nowadays I'll eat some fruit. or ... while nowadays ...

Whereas nowadays I'll eat some fruit, at school I'd buy a chocolate bar. or While nowadays ...*

We can use whilst as a more formal alternative to while.

(See also Unit 14, 2.3 Even if and even though.)

2.4 Reason clauses

START POINT

I must be eating too much because I've been getting a bit overweight recently.

Because it's so easy to buy ready meals from the supermarket, it makes me quite lazy.*

I have to get out by 7.30, so I really don't have time.

A very common way of giving a reason or explanation for something, particularly in speech, is to use an adverbial clause with because. A clause beginning so is also often used to express a similar meaning.

Most recipes in magazines are no use to me because of the time they take.

Because of can also be used before a noun or noun phrase to give a reason for something.

Formal alternatives to because are as and since:

She made a particular effort because/as/since I was often ill as a child.

Informal alternatives to because are seeing that and seeing as:

We'll usually go out to eat seeing that/as none of us likes cooking.

2.5 Purpose and result clauses

To talk about the purpose of an action we can use in order / so as + to-infinitive:

I have to get out by 7.30 in order to catch my bus. or ... so as to catch ...

Informally, it is more common to use a to-infinitive to express the same meaning:

I have to get out by 7.30 to catch my train.

In negatives we prefer in order not / so as not + to-infinitive rather than not + to-infinitive:

I like to make something myself so as not to / in order not to eat processed food all the time.

We also use in order that and so that to talk about a purpose:

She also talked to me about the food she made in order that I'd learn about diet and nutrition. or less formally ... so (that) I'd learn about ...

We often use modal verbs after in order / so that:

It'll be interesting to read the results of the research so that I can see how typical my diet is.

She also talked to me about the food she made so that I'd learn about diet and nutrition.

- 6 developed countries put money into these reserves + species will be preserved _____
- 1 If we didn't have zoos, most people would never see wild animals in real life.

Grammar

2.1 Real and unreal conditionals

START POINT

Conditional sentences may suggest that an event or situation is real – it is true, generally happens, has happened or is likely to happen; or unreal – it is imaginary or untrue, did not happen or is not likely to happen.

Real conditionals

If there is a health problem, vets deal with it quickly. (if + present simple, + present simple)

Before safari parks were opened, if people wanted to see lions and giraffes, they had to go to a zoo. (if + past simple, + past simple)

If we don't provide safe havens for animals, many will die out. (if + present simple, + will + bare infinitive)

Unreal conditionals

If they were in the wild, they would have more space to roam free. (if + past simple, + would + bare infinitive)

If we had introduced captive breeding programmes sooner, we would have prevented the extinction of a number of animals. (if + past perfect, + would have + past participle)

Real conditionals

We can use a wide variety of other patterns in the if-clause and the main clause:

If we're going to protect animals in Africa, we'll need to invest much more money ... (if + going to, + will + bare infinitive)

If we close zoos, we might deprive people of the opportunity of seeing wild animals. (if + present simple, + might + bare infinitive)

If you think closing down zoos will improve the chances of survival of endangered species, you're making a big mistake. (if + present simple, + present continuous)

We don't usually use will in the if-clause:

If they're not eaten by the larger animals first, they'll be killed by visitors' cars. (not If they won't be eaten ...)

However, we can use will in the if-clause:

- when we talk about a result of something in the main clause:
... we should have captive breeding programmes if it will help save species. or ... if it helps ...

- when we want to show that we strongly disapprove of something:

A: That zookeeper was really annoyed with me.

B: Well, if you will throw stones at the animals, it's not surprising!

Unreal conditionals

We can use modals other than would in the main clause:

If we'd introduced captive breeding earlier, animals now extinct might have survived.

We don't usually use would in the if-clause:

If we had more funding, we would be able to do even more... (not If we would have more funding ...)

Mixed conditionals

We can sometimes vary conditionals by mixing the tenses:

- if* + past tense, would have + past participle

If it wasn't so expensive, we would have opened many more safari parks around the country. (= it is very expensive, so we didn't open any more)

14 Conditionals

- if + past perfect, would + bare infinitive
If game reserves had been set up earlier, there would now be fewer animals in danger ... (= game reserves were not set up earlier, so more animals are in danger)

In formal contexts we can use were instead of was in the if-clause:

If it were not for zoos, most people would never see wild animals. or less formally If it was not for ...

We prefer to use were in the expression If I were you ... for giving advice.

We can use if ... were + to-infinitive rather than if + past simple to talk about imaginary future situations:

If the government were to ban zoos, it would put captive breeding programmes at risk. or If the government banned zoos ...

We don't usually use this pattern with state verbs (e.g. belong, doubt, know, understand):

If we understood more about animal behaviour we would be in a better position to protect them. (not If we were to understand more about ...)

2.2 If ... not and unless

START POINT

In real conditional sentences, we can often use either unless or if ... not when the meaning is 'except if':

Unless we expand captive breeding, many more animals will die out. or If we don't expand ...

We usually use if ... not instead of unless:

- when we say in the main clause that an event or action in the if-clause is unexpected:
I'll be surprised if we don't get permission to build the zoo.
- usually in questions:
How will children learn about wild animals if they don't see them in zoos?
- when the meaning is similar to 'because ... not' rather than 'except if':
If developing countries don't have the money to establish nature reserves, more developed countries must offer help.
- in unreal conditional sentences:
If we didn't have zoos, most people would never see wild animals.

We use unless instead of if ... not when we introduce an afterthought:

We must have zoos if we want children to learn more about wild animals – unless their parents are rich enough to go on holiday to Africa, of course.

2.3 Even if and even though

We can use even if to mean 'whether or not' and even though to mean 'despite the fact that':

Even if wild animals are born in a zoo, it is still cruel to keep them in a small enclosure. (= whether or not animals are born in a zoo)

Even though they say they are concerned about the welfare of animals, they are still businesses mainly out to make a profit. (= despite the fact that they say they are concerned)

2.4 If only and wish

We can use if only / wish + past simple to say that we want a present situation to be different, and if only / wish + past perfect to say that we regret a past event:

I wish the situation was/were different. or If only the situation was/were different.

If only we had acted sooner. or I wish we had acted sooner.

We can use if only / wish + would to criticise someone, to say that we want someone to change their behaviour or that we want something to change:

I wish Nadia Muller and the people in Save the Animals would read the scientific research ...

We can't say I wish I would ...:

I wish I worked in a zoo. or I wish I could work in a zoo. (not ~~I wish I would work ...~~)

2.5 Other conditional expressions

A number of other expressions are used at the beginning of conditional clauses:

I'm all in favour of safari parks provided (that) / providing (that) the animals are well looked after.

So long as / As long as developed countries put money into these reserves, species will be preserved.

I'm willing to support the proposal on condition that animals are kept in large enclosures.

In the event of the alarm sounding, visitors should leave the zoo by the nearest exit.

Supposing the proposal is rejected, what will you do then?

An alarm will sound in case of animals escaping from the safari park.

We must protect natural habitats, otherwise more animals will become extinct.

But for the existence of zoos, many people would never have seen wild animals.

Grammar exercises

3.1 Underline the correct answer(s) in (b) to make a second sentence with a meaning as close as possible to the sentence in (a).

- 1 a With a student card you can get a discount at the bookshop.
b If you will have / have a student card you can get a discount at the bookshop.
- 2 a I didn't know you were a vegetarian, otherwise I wouldn't have cooked lamb.

Participle, to-infinitive and reduced clauses

Participle clauses including present participle (-ing) clauses, past participle (-ed) clauses, participle clauses after conjunctions and prepositions, to-infinitive clauses, reduced clauses

Context listening

1.1 ▶ 19 Sam Green has taken three months off work to do a sponsored walk through Italy raising money for charity. Each week he sends an article to his company for its newsletter. Listen to two of his colleagues talking about Sam's latest article. Which of the problems does Sam talk about?

1 2 3 4 5 6

1.2 ▶ 19 Listen again and complete the sentences with the exact words Sam uses.

- 1 Having fallen over a number of times, I was feeling thoroughly miserable.
- 2 _____ by a difficult few days, I was only interested in finding a bed for the night.
- 3 _____ Naples, I bought yet more walking socks.
- 4 _____ the sprawl of the city behind me, I walked up into the hills.
- 5 _____ my sleeping bag, I discovered a scorpion.
- 6 _____ by a scratching sound, I found a large rat trying to get into my backpack.

Grammar

2.1 Participle clauses: general

START POINT

Walking into each village, I was met by a pack of unfriendly dogs.

Found mainly in the south of the country, scorpions in Italy can give a nasty bite but are rarely dangerous.

Having spent a couple of hours exploring Amalfi, I'm now ready for an excellent Italian dinner.

Participle clauses are more common in writing, and are often used to express ideas in an economical way.

A participle usually refers to the subject of the main clause:

Snarling aggressively, the dogs were pretty terrifying at first. (= the dogs were snarling and the dogs were pretty terrifying)

We avoid using a participle clause when the subjects are different: Snarling aggressively, I kept away from the dogs. In this example, the writer is trying to say that the dogs were snarling and he kept away from them. However, it sounds as if he was snarling! The more accurate alternative is: The dogs were snarling aggressively, so I kept away from them.

In formal English, a participle clause can sometimes have its own subject, which is often a pronoun or a noun phrase including a pronoun:

Scorpions in North Africa, some measuring up to 20 centimetres, can kill adults. (Scorpions in North Africa = subject of the main clause; some = subject of the participle)

When we use not in a participle clause it usually comes before the participle:

Not wanting to carry my backpack any further, I went to the first hotel I came across.

2.2 Present participle (-ing) clauses

We can use a present participle clause to talk about something that takes place at the same time as, or just before, an action in the main clause:

Opening up my sleeping bag, I discovered a scorpion.

A present participle clause can be used to give background information:

Living mainly in warm climates, scorpions have existed for over 400 million years.

and after quoted speech, to say what someone was doing while they were talking:

'Wait for me here,' said Frank, running out of the house.

Present participle clauses can also be used to talk about a reason or result:

Arriving in Amalfi early in the afternoon, I had time to look around the town. (= because I arrived in Amalfi early in the afternoon)

2.3 Past participle (-ed) clauses

We can use a past participle clause to talk about reasons and conditions:

Made from the softest leather imaginable, they are as comfortable as a pair of slippers. (reason = because they are made from the softest leather imaginable)

Sold in Britain, the boots would have cost a lot more. (condition = if they were sold in Britain)

Past participles combine with forms of be and have to create passives and perfect forms:

Having fallen over a number of times, I was feeling thoroughly miserable. (= I was feeling thoroughly miserable because I had fallen over a number of times)

We can use either having + -ed or a present participle with a similar meaning to describe events that follow one after another. However, having + -ed emphasises that the action in the participle clause is complete before the action in the main clause begins:

Having climbed to the top of the hill, I could see all the way to the Mediterranean. or Climbing to the top of the hill, ...

Being made so welcome at the hotel, I was reluctant to leave. (= because I was made so welcome)

Having been woken up by a scratching sound, I found a large rat trying to get into my backpack. (= after I had been woken up)

2.4 Participle clauses after conjunctions and prepositions

We can use a present participle clause after a number of conjunctions and prepositions, including: after, before, by, in, on, since, when, while, with, without, unless, until:

Before leaving Naples, I bought yet more walking socks. or less formally Before I left Naples, I bought yet more walking socks.

We can also use with (or informally what with) to introduce a reason for something in the main clause. Notice that a subject has to come between with and -ing:

With Naples being such a busy city, I was surprised to find a hotel room so easily.

What with sleeping badly, and some very steep hills to walk over, it was quite a relief to get to Amalfi this afternoon. (= because I had slept badly)

In formal contexts we can use a past participle after (al)though, as, if, once, when, while, unless and until:

Walking through Italy was a fantastic experience, but if asked, I'm not sure I'd do it again. or ... but if I was asked ...

2.5 To-infinitive clauses

We can use a clause beginning with a to-infinitive to talk about purpose, result or condition:

I walked up into the hills to avoid the long trek around the coast. (= purpose)

I got to the hotel early, only to find that I couldn't check in until later. (= result)

To hear him grumbling last week, you'd think he was about to get on the next flight home. (= if you had heard him grumbling)

2.6 Reduced clauses

We can sometimes use a 'reduced' clause beginning with a conjunction or adjective, but with no verb. Reduced clauses are usually fairly formal:

While in Naples, I did what all visitors do. or While I was in Naples, ...

Exhausted by my walk, I went straight to bed. or Because I was exhausted ...

Grammar exercises

3.1 Complete the participle clause at the start of each sentence using the information in brackets.

- Swimming strongly, she was able to cross the river in just a few minutes. (She swam strongly.)
- _____ in oil, Colin got out from under the car. (He was covered in oil.)
- _____ in Latin, the two letters were sent in 1406 to the French king. (They were written in Latin.)
- _____ them twice this year already, Bayern Munich are favourites to win again against Real Madrid. (They have beaten them twice this year already.)
- _____ how to use the software, I found it easy to design my own website. (I was shown how to use the software.)
- _____ eaten anything for hours, I was starting to feel a bit faint. (I hadn't eaten anything for hours.)
- _____ her glasses, she began to read her speech. (She put on her glasses.)
- _____ Portuguese, I found travelling in Brazil difficult. (I can't speak Portuguese.)

3.2 Read this extract from a blog about a visit to London. Rewrite the underlined parts using a participle clause, to-infinitive or reduced clause.

(1) While I was in London I just had to go to the British Museum. There's so much to see and I only had time to spend a few hours there. First, I went to the collection of clocks and watches. (2) When I saw the pocket watches, I was reminded of the old watch my grandfather used to wear. I don't think I ever saw him without it. Then I went to the Money Gallery. They've got an incredible collection of coins, (3) and some of them are over 2,000 years old. Next stop was the Chinese collection. (4) Because I'd lived in Hong Kong for so many years, I was very interested in this. Some of the jade objects were stunning. (5) After I looked at the Chinese collection, I had hoped to see the Mexican collection. Unfortunately, (6) when I got there I found that it was closed. (7) Because I'd spent the whole morning walking around the museum, I decided that I wanted to do something very different in the afternoon. So I went to the London Eye (8) in order that I could get a bird's-eye view of the city. (9) When they are looked at from the top of the Eye, some of the biggest buildings appear quite small – even St Paul's Cathedral, across the river. After that, (10) because I was tired from all the walking, I went back to my hotel room and slept for a couple of hours (11) before I went out to have dinner.

3.3 In these sentences, is the subject of the participle and the main clause the same (S) or different (D)? If it is different, think about how you could rewrite the sentence correctly.

- 1 Painted bright yellow, I could see the signs clearly from a distance. D
 - 2 Hearing a noise from one of the bedrooms, I quietly climbed upstairs. _____
 - 3 Laughing at her new hat, Jing looked really angry with me. _____
 - 4 Kept in the fridge, the cheese should stay fresh for weeks. _____
 - 5 Holding her umbrella tightly, she went out into the storm. _____
 - 6 Talking to each other in the library, I asked them to keep quiet. _____
 - 7 Caught in traps put on the riverbed at night, many fishermen depend on crayfish for their livelihood. _____
 - 8 Worried that Zahira hadn't arrived, I decided to phone her home. _____
- 1 Because the signs were painted bright yellow I could see them clearly from a distance.

3.4 Complete each sentence using one of the words in the box and an appropriate form of the verb in brackets. Use either an -ing, an -ed or being + -ed verb form.

Reading and Use of English Part 3

For questions 1 – 8, read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Water: a precious resource

Access to a clean, (0) reliable water supply is essential to our survival. (1) _____ over 70 percent of the earth's surface, water is apparently (2) _____. But in fact, less than 1 percent of all the water on earth is accessible for human use in lakes, rivers and reservoirs. (3) _____ by rain and snowfall, this water supply is available to us as a finite but (4) _____ resource. As the demand for access to this limited supply increases, it is thought that as many as 3.5 billion people could experience water (5) _____ by 2025. A worldwide water management plan is vital. An international campaign must be introduced both to raise public (6) _____ of the importance of conserving and (7) _____ this precious resource. Furthermore, industry and agriculture must be made to reduce their water (8) _____. Only in this way can water-related international conflicts be avoided.

- Just come along to the Marsh and we'll show you _____.
- Can I ask _____?

1.5 Look at your answers to 1.4. What words begin each clause you have written?

Grammar

START POINT

What you've told us is very interesting. (= The information is very interesting.)

You've probably also heard that the Marsh has been given to the NWT to look after. (= You've probably also heard this report.)

Nine o'clock is when we usually meet. (= Nine o'clock is our usual meeting time.)

A noun clause functions in a sentence in a similar way to a noun (e.g. information, report) or noun phrase (e.g. our usual meeting time). Noun clauses usually begin with that or a wh-word (e.g. what, when, where, which, who, why; also whether, whatever, how).

2.1 That-noun clauses

In informal contexts we often leave out that at the beginning of a that-noun clause:

It's also good to know that they're helping the environment or ... to know they're helping ...

I can guarantee that you'll make a lot of new friends or I can guarantee you'll make ...

We usually use the fact that (rather than that):

- when the noun clause is subject:
The fact that you're not a member of the trust makes no difference. (rather than That you're not a member of the trust makes no difference.)*
- after a preposition or after verbs such as change, face (up to) and overlook:
We have to face (up to) the fact that we don't have enough resources at the moment.

We can often use words like argument, assumption, belief, claim, idea, notion and view instead of fact:

The idea that it's all hard work is just wrong.*

2.2 Wh-noun clauses

When a wh-noun clause follows certain nouns (e.g. example, problem), we often have to include of before the wh-word:

We'd like to follow the example of what they've done at Broadstone Park.

Some verbs (e.g. advise, teach) must have an object before the wh-word:

I'll be happy to advise you when to come.

Noun clauses beginning how are commonly used after certain verbs (e.g. decide, know):

It's entirely up to you to decide how much time you can give.

We can use a wh-noun clause, but not a that-noun clause, after a preposition:

If you've got any questions about what I've said so far, I'd be happy to answer them. (not ... ~~about that I've said so far~~ ...)

We can also use noun clauses beginning with whatever (= anything, or it doesn't matter what), whoever (= the person/group who, or any person/group who) or whichever (= one thing or person from a limited number) to talk about things, people or times that are indefinite or unknown:

We will be very grateful for whatever time people can spare.

You can phone whoever is in charge of arranging lifts on the weekend you want to come.

Rather than a wh-noun clause, we can often use a noun or pronoun which has a meaning related to the wh-word:

Why most people volunteer is that they want fresh air and exercise. or The reason (why/that) most people volunteer ...*

Clearing the vegetation is what is urgently needed. or Clearing the vegetation is something which/that is urgently needed.*

Other words used in this way include the place (rather than where), the time (rather than when), the way (rather than how) and somebody/someone (rather than who).

2.3 Whether and if

We can use whether as the wh-word in a noun clause when we talk about possible choices. Whether has a similar meaning to if:

I can't remember whether it runs on Sundays.

Notice the difference between sentences with whether- and that-noun clauses:

I didn't know whether/if the bus service has been cancelled. (= it may or may not have been cancelled)

I didn't know that the bus service had been cancelled. (= it was cancelled; now I know)

In more formal contexts, particularly in writing, we can use as to with a meaning similar to 'about' or 'concerning' before a whether-noun clause:

There was some debate as to whether he could legally give us the land.

We use whether, not if:

- before or not:

I don't know whether or not I'd be able to come on a regular basis.

However:

I don't know whether/if I'd be able to come on a regular basis or not.

- before a to-infinitive:

I can't make up my mind whether to help on Saturdays or Sundays.

- usually after a preposition, and also after the verbs advise, choose, consider, debate, discuss, enquire, question:

You can think about whether you'd like to be involved.

You can choose whether you want to work indoors or outdoors.

- in a clause acting as a subject or complement:

Whether you help with the outdoor or indoor work depends on you. (= subject)

What I'm not clear about is whether we can get a lift to the reserve. (= complement)

1.2 ▶21 Listen to Sahar and Claudio talking about their experiences of learning to drive. Which of the things in 1.1 were particular problems for them?

1.3 ▶21 Listen again.

- In what order does Sahar mention these advantages of being taught by a professional instructor?
 - he passed on useful tips _____
 - he was always encouraging _____
 - he used a dual-control car 1
 - he could tell when she was ready to take her test _____
- In what order does Claudio mention these advantages of being taught by his mother?
 - she was calm most of the time _____
 - he got lots of time to practise _____
 - she knew a quiet place to practise _____
 - he didn't have to pay for lessons _____

1.4 What words or phrases are used to connect these ideas?

- I stalled in the middle of a busy road + my instructor stayed completely cool

 - I had the mirror positioned + I just couldn't judge where the back of the car was _____
 - it was disappointing to have replacement instructors + the replacements were patient and helpful

 - it's expensive to have driving lessons + I would recommend it _____
 - my mum doesn't have a professional qualification + she has lots of experience _____
 - I didn't do anything stupid + she stayed calm _____
- 1 Even if I did something incredibly stupid like stalling in the middle of a busy road, he'd stay completely cool.

Grammar

2.1 Sentence connectors and conjunctions: general

START POINT

My mum used to come and collect me from college in the car and I'd drive home. What's more, she'd let me drive when we went shopping.

A sentence connector (e.g. what's more) links one sentence with another.

My mum taught me to drive because I couldn't afford to pay for driving lessons.

A conjunction (e.g. because) links clauses within a single sentence.

To link two clauses, we use only one conjunction, not two:

Although it's expensive having driving lessons, I'd really recommend it.* (not Although it's expensive having driving lessons, but I'd really recommend it.)

We usually put a comma between clauses linked by a conjunction:

As long as I didn't do anything stupid, she stayed pretty calm.*

However, when because or while (referring to time) begin the second clause in a sentence, we don't need a comma.

Sentence connectors usually come at the beginning of a sentence and less often at the end or in another position. The only ones that can't come at the beginning are too and as well:

You can spend a lot more time practising, as well.

We usually put a comma after a sentence connector at the beginning or end of a sentence:

My mum thought I was ready to take my driving test. However, I failed first time.

When a sentence connector comes elsewhere in a sentence, punctuation is more variable.

There are lots of advantages in having your parents teach you. There's the cost, for instance ...

Sentence connectors can be used to link clauses in a sentence if the clauses are joined with and, but, or, so, or a semi-colon (;), colon (:) or dash (-):

My instructor was very experienced and, as a result, he had lots of useful tips to pass on.

Having a professional teach you to drive is best; however, it can be very expensive.

2.2 Conjunctions: before, until

Sometimes we can use either before or until with little difference in meaning:

She wouldn't let me drive on busy roads before/until I could control the car well.

We use until, not before, when an action continues to a particular time and then stops:

I just carried on having lessons until my instructor said I was ready to take the driving test.

2.3 Conjunctions: hardly, no sooner, scarcely

After hardly and scarcely the second clause usually begins with when or before; after no sooner it begins with than or when:

We'd hardly driven out of our road before we were shouting at each other.

I'd no sooner passed my test than/when my friends started asking me for lifts.

We often use the past perfect in a clause with hardly, no sooner or scarcely and a past simple in the other clause. (See Unit 21, 2.3 for word order in sentences with hardly, no sooner and scarcely.)

2.4 Sentence connectors: first(ly), at first; last(ly), at last

We use first or firstly to label the first point in a list and last or lastly to label the final point. We use at first to indicate that there is a contrast between two past situations, and at last to show that something happened later than hoped or expected:

Firstly, cars like the one I learnt in have dual controls.

At first, I couldn't get the hang of this at all.

I passed my driving test at last, after taking it five times.

We don't use at last to label the last point in a list:

First, I had to practise starting on a hill ... Finally/Lastly, the instructor made me reverse around a corner.

(not At last, the instructor made me reverse ...)

2.5 However

However is often a sentence connector, but can also be used:

- as an adverb when it is followed by an adjective, adverb or much/many:
My instructor never got annoyed, however badly I was driving. (= despite how badly)
- as a conjunction when it means 'in whatever way':
However I had the mirror positioned, I just couldn't judge where the back of the car was.

2.6 Even so (sentence connector), even though (conjunction)

Even so has a meaning similar to however. We use it to introduce a fact that is surprising given what has just been said:

He was great and I didn't want to be taught by anyone else. Even so, I always found the replacements very patient and helpful.

We use even though to say that a fact doesn't make the rest of the sentence untrue:

Even though she doesn't have a professional qualification, she's got lots of experience to pass on.

2.7 Sentence connectors: on the other hand, on the contrary

We use on the other hand when we compare or contrast two statements. We sometimes introduce the first statement with on the one hand:

It may be that the quality of the tuition is better with a professional driving instructor. On the other hand, it's cheaper if your parents teach you. or On the one hand, it may be that the quality of the tuition is better with a professional driving instructor. On the other (hand), it's cheaper if your parents teach you.

On the contrary emphasises that we reject the first statement and accept the second:

Some people say that it's more expensive to be taught by a driving instructor than a friend or relative. On the contrary, it works out cheaper.

2.8 Prepositions commonly confused with conjunctions and connectors

These are prepositions, and can't be used as conjunctions or sentence connectors:

As well as being calm and patient, he was always very encouraging. (not As well as he was calm ...)

Apart from the cost of insurance, I think it's much better to be taught by your parents. (not Apart from the insurance costs were high ...)

I think there's a lot of other good things about having your parents teach you, besides saving money. (not ... besides you can save money.)

I'd recommend professional driving lessons despite / in spite of the expense. (not ... despite / in spite of they are expensive.)

The lesson was cancelled due to the heavy rain. (not ... due to it was raining heavily.)

We used to stop driving at some point during the lesson, and he would ask me how I felt I'd improved. (not ... at some point during we were having the lesson ...)

Reading and Use of English Part 6

You are going to read four reviews from a website in which different writers give their views on a book about what the Earth would be like if people disappeared from it. For questions 1 – 4, choose from the reviews A – D. The reviews may be chosen more than once.

The World Without Us

Four reviewers comment on author Alan Weisman's book called The World Without Us.

A

Alan Weisman imagines what the Earth would be like if humans were suddenly and completely wiped out. This starting point ignores the fact that nothing is likely to kill us off completely, at least not without taking a large part of the rest of life with us. Even if a virus appeared with a 99.99 percent kill rate, it would still leave more than enough naturally immune survivors to repopulate the Earth to current levels in 50,000 years. This said, Weisman's book is fascinating, readable and thought-provoking. The mass of scientific evidence of human impact that he compiles is mind-boggling. I did not know, for instance, that there are one billion annual bird deaths from flying into glass in the United States alone; or that graphic designers have been called in to imagine what warnings against approaching nuclear waste containers will be comprehensible 10,000 or more years from now. His solution is a mandatory one-child limit for all families worldwide. Radical, but undoubtedly necessary, as he convincingly argues.

B

Alan Weisman's 'thought experiment' in The World Without Us is to imagine what the world would be like if every human vanished tomorrow. But he offers no real context for the book, no rationale for exploring this fantasy other than his unsubstantiated belief that people find it fascinating. Perhaps they do, and we might guess their reasons. But none emerges in any compelling way to explain why it is important to know, for instance, that the Great Wall of China will crumble in a few centuries. Much of the book comprises revelations of this kind, but there is little information here that is all that new. If you follow environmental issues, nothing in The World Without Us is likely to shock or astound you. The way to avoid the apocalypse, so Weisman believes, is to limit to one child every human female on Earth. However, his draconian solution is only briefly described and comes much too late in the book to be convincing.

C

What Alan Weisman does is imagine what would happen to the world if we were all wiped out. And it is quite understandable, as we learn during the course of this book, to take this as a realistic prospect as we are very, very bad for our own environment. What starts out with promise continues disappointingly. For those well versed in the science of environmental degradation, the book provides numerous anecdotes about our appalling impact on the Earth that sound all too familiar. Personally, I found Weisman's journalistic style increasingly irritating as the book progressed. Is it really necessary to know that his interviewees include a 'curly-haired young director' or someone 'trim and youthful in their early fifties'? His most extreme solution, to limit families to one child, is unrealistic. Although readers might agree that there are too many of us, few will share Weisman's certainty that to trade a child for more birdsong is a good bargain.

D

What would the Earth be like if everyone was killed off by an astronomical event or disease? Such thought experiments are the stuff of Alan Weisman's new book The World Without Us. Weisman's argument would be an interesting read if it weren't for the nagging suspicion that there is something rather ludicrous about its very premise: that a world without human beings could possibly matter to us. The themes in Weisman's interviews with people from around the world are familiar. Over-harvesting, over-farming and over-industrialisation are destroying the planet. Unless we change our ways, we are doomed. But there isn't much new evidence to throw into the debate. The book is saved, however, by Weisman's writing. His engaging journalism makes for a gripping fantasy that will make most readers hope that at least some of us can stick around long enough to see how the journey of the human race on our planet turns out.

Which reviewer

has a different opinion from the others on how relevant Weisman's imagined situation is?

supports reviewer A's opinion on Weisman's writing style?

has a different view from the others on the originality of Weisman's evidence?

takes a similar view to reviewer C on Weisman's proposed solution?

1.1 You are going to hear an interview with a government minister talking about crime statistics. Before you listen, look at these newspaper headlines and match them with the crimes they refer to.

- burglary _____
- firearm offences _____
- street crime _____
- car crime _____
- vandalism _____

a STREET ART SPRAYED IN CAPITAL

b More kids attacked in mobile thefts

c GUN CONTROLS FAILING, SAYS POLICE CHIEF

d Gang linked to 500 break-ins

e VEHICLE THEFT
COST £800M

1.2 22 Listen to the interview. Which crimes are mentioned?

1.3 22 Listen again. According to the minister, are these statements true (T) or false (F)?

- The chance of being a victim of crime has fallen by 40% in the last ten years. T
- Peter Miles appointed a new head of the police service. _____
- The government has spent a lot of money on CCTV. _____
- The government copied the Make Amends scheme from another country. _____
- More people get mugged now than ten years ago. _____
- More people sell drugs now than ten years ago. _____
- The figures in the report are completely accurate. _____
- Violent crime is on the increase. _____

1.4 22 Listen again and complete these extracts with the exact words used in the recording. Are the verbs you have written in an active form or a passive form?

- Yes, indeed, I was delighted when I _____ the figures.
- This has meant that a much higher proportion of offenders _____ during the last ten years than ever before.
- People _____ less graffiti in city centres, for example.
- These _____ a particular target for street robbers.
- Well, it's certainly true that more people _____ selling drugs.
- If I can give a personal example, my house _____ only last week.

Grammar

2.1 Using the passive

START POINT

The government has published a report today. (active: focus on the government)

A report has been published by the government today. (passive: focus on a report)

We often use passive verbs:

- when the agent (the person or thing that performs the action) is not known: My house was broken into only last week.
- when the agent is 'people in general': The details can be found at the back of the report. (= anyone can find these details)
- when the agent is unimportant, or is obvious: A much higher proportion of offenders have been arrested. (= the agent is clearly the police)
- when we don't want to say who the agent is: It may be that some minor mistakes were made in collecting the figures. (= she might not want to say who was responsible for the mistakes)
- to describe procedures or processes, focusing on what was done rather than who did it: The figures were collected over a ten-year period.
- to avoid repeating the agent in a description or narrative: The police have made good use of CCTV. It's been introduced into many city centres. rather than The police have made good use of CCTV. The police have introduced it into many city centres.

In informal contexts we often use active sentences with a subject such as people, somebody/someone, something, we, they or you even when we do not know who the agent is. In more formal contexts we often use a passive to avoid mentioning an agent:

People are seeing less graffiti in city centres. or more formally Less graffiti is being seen ...

Some verbs describing states (e.g. have, become, seem) are not usually made passive:

Other countries have a similar policy. (not ~~A similar policy is had by other countries.~~)

However, other verbs describing states can be passive (e.g. intend, know, own):

Our latest poster campaign is intended to reassure people.

2.2 Active and passive verb forms

Compare these passive forms of active verb patterns.

Active	Passive
They started to keep records ten years ago.	Records started to be kept only ten years ago.
This figure is expected to fall as they start using new technology to trace stolen phones.	This figure is expected to fall rapidly as new technology starts being used to trace stolen mobiles.
They made them repair the damage.	People found guilty of vandalism are made to repair the damage they've caused.
The police caught them selling drugs.	More people were caught selling drugs.
We expect the figure to fall rapidly. We want the crime rate to fall still further.	This figure is expected to fall rapidly. Some verbs in this pattern have no passive: (not The crime rate is wanted to fall still further.)

The passive

Perfect passive forms are also possible: More people claim to have been the victims of crime. More people have been caught selling drugs this year than ever before. This figure is expected to have fallen by next year.

Most passives with modal verbs are formed with modal + be + past participle or modal + have been + past participle:

The reason for this can be found in the huge increase in the number of mobile phones.

Some of the fall might have been caused by lower rates of reporting. (past)

2.3 Passive forms of verbs with two objects

START POINT

I was delighted when our crime statistics department gave me the figures. (active)

I was delighted when I was given the figures by our Crime Statistics Department. (passive) or

I was delighted when the figures were given (to) me by our Crime Statistics Department. (passive)

(See Unit 9, 2.1 for more on verbs with two objects.)

Verbs followed by object + complement in the active have one passive form:

Attitudes have changed significantly since Peter Miles was appointed head of the police service.

2.4 Get + past participle; get/have + object + past participle

START POINT

It's true that more people get mugged today than they did ten years ago. or ... are mugged ...

People think more carefully about committing a crime if they know they might get caught. or ... might be caught.

Particularly in speech, we can use get + past participle instead of be + past participle.

Get + past participle is most commonly used to talk about unwelcome events (e.g. get mugged), but we can also use it with positive events: When we got elected ten years ago ...

We don't use get + past participle with verbs describing states:

He was known to be a highly effective senior police officer. (not ~~He got known to be~~ ...)

We can use either have + object + past participle or (more informally) get + object + past participle:

- to say that someone arranges for someone else to do something for them:
Virtually every person in my road has had/got a burglar alarm fitted recently.
- to say that something unexpected, and usually unpleasant, happens to someone:
I had my TV and stereo taken. or very informally I got my TV and stereo taken.

We use a reflexive pronoun with get to suggest that the subject is responsible for their actions.

People will think more carefully if they know they're going to get themselves arrested.

Reading and Use of English Part 7

You are going to read a newspaper article. Six paragraphs have been removed from the article. Choose from the paragraphs A – G the one which fits each gap (1 – 6). There is one extra paragraph which you do not need to use.

Alexander McCall Smith: Terrible Orchestra?

Bestselling author Alexander McCall Smith explains why he started a band for useless musicians.

There are two emotions a parent can feel when watching the school orchestra perform. One is pride – the most common emotion in the circumstances – and the other is envy. Wouldn't it have been great fun to be in an orchestra and now ... it's too late. Or is it?

These musical islands are full of amateur orchestras, but most of these are really rather good. We wanted something that would cater for those who really were very weak players, those who might have got as far as Grade 4 on their instruments and hovered around that level for years. So we formed the Really Terrible Orchestra in Edinburgh, a city known for having a number of fine amateur orchestras. The name was carefully chosen: what it said was what you would get.

Those who joined generally lived up to the name. Some, though, stood out for their musical weakness. One cello player some years ago even had the notes played by the open strings written in pencil on the bridge of the instrument. Another – a clarinetist – had had only three or four lessons and could not go above the middle B flat. He played only the bottom notes, and not very well.

Our heads turned, we decided to hold a concert at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe. The important thing about the Fringe is that anybody can perform, with the result that there are always a certain number of appalling performances which attract tiny audiences.

The fortunes of the orchestra continued to improve, even if its playing did not. We presumed to make two CDs, which somehow got into the hands of radio stations abroad. We have now been played more than once by the Australian Broadcasting Corporation, by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and by National Public Radio in the United States.

Even if the orchestra never gets to New York, that will be enough. Of course New York was where the famous Florence Foster Jenkins would appear, at the Carnegie Hall, and torture her audience with her terrible singing. Perhaps it's ready for an orchestra that will live up to her.

Which makes one wonder: what is it that makes people want to listen to a group of extremely bad musicians torturing a piece that most of them cannot play? Is there something about failure and its cheerful acceptance? Whatever it is, there's certainly something quintessentially British about it. And the orchestra does a very fine 'Land of Hope and Glory' – a semitone flat.

- A The response was overwhelming, particularly from clarinetists. I suspect that a very high proportion of the population is exposed to the clarinet at some stage and that British attics are crammed full of forgotten clarinet cases. Many of these were dusted off for the first meeting of the Really Terrible Orchestra, as were various other instruments. We appointed a professional conductor, Richard Neville Towle, a well-known Edinburgh musician and founder of the ensemble Ludus Baroque, and we began to rehearse. The result was cacophony.
- B The Really Terrible Orchestra, however, was an immediate hit. The concert sold out well in advance, as it has done every year since, attracting an audience of more than 500 people, some not actually related to the players.
- C 'We are pretty awful,' admitted one of the bassoonists. There is a very wide range of playing abilities, she added, noting that she herself had only passed Grade 3, the examination normally taken by 11-year-old British schoolchildren.
- D Eight years ago my wife and I decided that we would do something about never having played in the school orchestra. We are both very challenged musicians: at the time she played the flute – hesitantly – and I played the bassoon – extremely incompetently.
- E Now what has become the world's most famous amateur orchestra is about to perform in London. The Cadogan Hall is the site of this imminent musical disaster, and all 800 tickets vanished in a trice.
- F An orchestra needs to perform, and we decided to hold a concert. Wisely, we took the view that the audience should be given a glass of juice, or even more than a glass, before the concert. This assisted their enjoyment and understanding of our idiosyncratic performance. Virtually every piece we played was greeted with shouts of applause and a standing ovation.
- G The orchestra's fame spread. Earlier this year the New York Times, for a mention in which many professional musicians would sell their souls, devoted a quarter of a page to an article about the Really Terrible Orchestra. A few days after the appearance of the article the orchestra's chairman, Peter Stevenson, received an approach from the same New York impresario who had first taken the Beatles to the US.

1.3 ▶ 23 Listen again and complete these extracts with the words you hear.

- They told us that the expansion would create around 2,000 jobs directly.
- They _____ a growing number of people in the local area supported the expansion.
- They _____ us informed about future developments.
- They _____ there and look at the plans in detail.
- She _____ the airport authorities were not telling the truth.
- She _____ to our local politicians with our objections.
- She also suggested inviting the Minister for Transport to hear our complaints. I _____ to her.

1.4 Put the past tense verbs you have written in one of the columns according to the pattern that follows them. Which one of the verbs can also be followed by one of the other patterns?

verb + that -clause	verb + to -infinitive	verb + object + that -clause	verb + object + to -infinitive told

GrammarSTART POINT

We often report in our own words what people think or what they have said: 'There will be a public enquiry.'

Reporting clause with reporting verb Mr Kelly announced that there would a public enquiry. Reported clause

2.1 Structures in the reported clause: that-clause

Reporting verbs can be followed by a number of structures in the reported clause. The most important ones with that-clauses are given below:

- verb + that
Sue reckoned that the expansion would damage tourism.
- verb + object + that
He convinced me that noise wouldn't be a problem for us. (not ~~He convinced that~~ ...)
- verb + (object) + that
She warned (us) that the airport authorities were not telling the truth.
Compare the use of tell and say in the reported clause:
They told us that the expansion would create around 2,000 jobs. (tell + object + that)
They said (to us) that it might increase tourism in the region. (say + (to + object) + that)
- verb + that + verb or verb + object + to-infinitive
I found that his reassurances were quite convincing. or more formally I found his reassurances to be quite convincing.
- verb + (to/with + object) + that
They admitted (to us) that they're not sure exactly how many people it will attract.
I agree (with the anti-expansion group) that the plans will change the area.

We often leave out that in informal contexts, particularly with the most common reporting verbs (e.g. reckon, say, tell, think). However, we don't usually leave it out if the that-clause doesn't immediately follow the verb:

Sue reckoned (that) the expansion would actually damage tourism.
I agree with the anti-expansion group that the plans will change the area.

2.2 Structures in the reported clause: to-infinitive and -ing

These are the most important structures with a to-infinitive or -ing form in the reported clause:

- verb + to-infinitive
I've decided to wait and see what happens next.
- verb + object + to-infinitive
They encouraged us to go to the village hall.
- verb + (object) + to-infinitive
I expected them to be confrontational. or I expected to hear more objections.
- verb + to-infinitive or verb + that
They promised to keep us informed. or They promised that they would keep us informed.
- verb + object + to-infinitive or verb + object + that
She advised us to write to our local politicians with our objections. or She advised us that we should write to our local politicians with our objections.
- verb + -ing or verb + that
She suggested inviting the Minister for Transport to hear our complaints. or She suggested that we should invite the Minister for Transport (not ~~She suggested to invite~~ ...)

2.3 Verb tenses in reporting

START POINT

When reporting, we often change the tense that was in the original.

'The airport authorities are not telling the truth.' → She warned that the airport authorities were not telling the truth.

'We carried out the trial flights last month.' → Mr Kelly said that they had carried out the trial flights last month. or Mr Kelly said that they carried out ...

We don't usually change a past perfect verb:

'We had hoped for more support.' → He said they had hoped for more support.

We can use a present tense verb for a situation that still exists when we report it:

Magnus said he's worried about the nuclear power station on the coast. or ... said he was worried ...

We usually use a past tense in the reporting clause. However, we can use the present simple to report current news or views, what is always said, or what many people say:

I hear that Boeing 737s will be landing there.

Everyone I've spoken to thinks it's awful.

2.4 Modal verbs in reporting

A modal verb in the original sometimes changes in the report.

- will changes to would, can to could, and may usually changes to might:

'It may increase tourism in the area.' → They said it might increase tourism in the region.

However, if the situation we are reporting still exists or is in the future, modals don't change if there is a present tense verb in the reporting clause:

'We'll be displaying copies of the plans in the village hall.' → They say they'll be putting copies of the plans in the village hall.

We can use either form if there is a past tense verb in the reporting clause:

'The expansion will create 2,000 jobs.' → They told us that the expansion will/would create around 2,000 jobs.

- shall changes to would to talk about the future, and to should to report suggestions, recommendations and requests for advice:

'I shall decide later.' → He said he would decide later.

'What shall we do next?' → He asked what they should do next.

- must doesn't change or changes to had to when it is used to say it is necessary to do something:

'You must look at the plans before making any decisions.' → He said I must / had to look at the plans before making any decisions. (Had to is more natural in speech.)

- could, should, would, might, ought to and used to don't usually change in the report:

'We ought to write to our local politicians.' → She suggested we ought to write ...

2.5 Reporting questions

START POINT

'What are your views on this?' → They asked what our views were. or They asked (for) our views.

'Have you got any more questions?' → They wanted to know if/whether we had any more questions.

(See Unit 16, 2.3 for more on the choice between whether and if.)

The usual word order in the reported wh-, if- or whether- clause is the one we would use in a statement, and we don't use a question mark or the do auxiliary:

'How exactly will it boost tourism?' → I asked how exactly it would boost tourism.

'Where did you get your figures from?' → She asked where they had got their figures from.

We can use a negative form of do to report a negative question:

'Why don't you want the airport to expand?' → He asked why I didn't want the airport to expand.

If the original question begins what, which or who, followed by be + complement, we can put the complement before or after be in the report:

'Who's Sue Ray?' → He asked who Sue Ray was. or He asked who was Sue Ray.

To report a question with should asking for advice or information, we can use a to-infinitive:

'What should we do to protest?' → Someone asked Sue what to do to protest. or ... what we should do to protest.

We don't use a to-infinitive to report a why question:

'Why should we believe them?' → She wanted to know why we should believe them. (not ~~She wanted to know why to believe them.~~)

| plastic trainers | <input type="checkbox"/> | a sleeping bag | <input type="checkbox"/> | a snorkel | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| a sun hat | <input type="checkbox"/> | a tent | <input type="checkbox"/> | | |

1.3 ▶25 Listen again. Change these sentences to show exactly what Alison or Ben said.

one

- I went for the ~~adventure holiday~~ based in Brisbane.
- One of the local organisers met me at the airport.
- They should provide all the equipment.
- But you don't have to be a very good swimmer.
- Preferably plastic trainers.
- By the end of the holiday I was exhausted, but I was very fit!
- You'll certainly need some insect repellent.
- I don't imagine you'll need to take a tent and cooking things.

Grammar2.1 Substitution: one/ones*START POINT

They do diving holidays in quite a few places. I went for the one based in Brisbane. (one = diving holiday; one replaces a singular countable noun or a noun phrase)

Take a couple of pairs of old trainers – preferably plastic ones. (ones = trainers; ones replaces a plural noun)

We don't usually use one/ones:

- to replace an uncountable noun. Instead we use some:
Don't forget insect repellent. You'll certainly need some. (not... need ~~one~~.)
- to talk about a specific item. Compare:
Do you know anyone who's got a sleeping bag? I was hoping to borrow one.
Have you still got your sleeping bag? Can I borrow it? (= a particular sleeping bag)
- after the, unless it follows an adjective:
'Are these your trainers?' 'No, the leather ones are mine.'
or unless there is a descriptive phrase after one/ones:
They had a number of adventure holidays on offer, and I chose the one that was cheapest.
I went for the one based in Brisbane.
- after a possessive adjective (e.g. my). Instead we prefer a possessive pronoun (e.g. mine) or a phrase with an adjective:
You can borrow mine. or You can borrow my old one. rather than You can borrow my one.
However, one/ones is sometimes used after a possessive adjective in informal speech.

We don't usually use ones on its own to replace a noun phrase. Compare:

'You'll need trainers.' 'Okay, I'll bring some.' or 'I'll bring some old ones.' (not ~~I'll bring ones.~~)

We can either include or leave out one/ones after which, whichever; superlatives; either, neither, another, each (but not every); the first/second/last; the other; this, that, these, those; and often after colour adjectives:

'I can't decide whether to go on the adventure holiday to Thailand or Australia.' 'I'm sure you'll enjoy whichever (one) you go on.'

Get your own face mask. Buy the best (one) you can afford.

I've had three holidays with TransWorld Adventures, but the first (one) was the best.

I've got these two sleeping bags, but this (one) is rather dirty. (these ones and those ones are only used in informal speech)

We had two small boats to practise sailing in. One was green and the other (one) was red. I used to sail in the green (one).

2.2 Substitution: so + auxiliary verb + subject; neither, nor, not ... either

START POINT

'Was diving as difficult as you expected?' 'Perhaps even more so.' (so = difficult; replaces an adjective)
 TransWorld Adventures provides all the equipment – at least I presume so. (so = TransWorld Adventures provides all the equipment; replaces a clause)

We can use so instead of a clause after certain verbs to do with opinions (e.g. expect, suppose, think), but not after others (e.g. accept, know, be sure, hear):

'Will I be met at the airport?' 'I expect so.'

'The mozzies are really bad at that time of year.' 'I've heard that, too.' (not ~~I've heard so, too.~~)

Some verbs are commonly used before not or in not ... so in short, negative replies:

'You won't need a sleeping bag if it's really hot.' 'I suppose not.' or 'No, I don't suppose so.'

Other verbs like this include: appear, seem; believe, expect, imagine, think. (With the last four verbs we prefer not ... so in informal contexts):

'Do you think I'll need to take a tent?' 'I don't imagine so.' or formally 'I imagine not.'

Before not we can use be afraid (= showing regret), assume, guess, hope, presume, suspect:

'Do they offer any holidays in Africa?' 'I'm afraid not.' (not ~~I'm not afraid so.~~)

We can use so + auxiliary verb + subject to say that a second person does the same thing as a person already mentioned. In the negative we use neither, nor or not ... either:

'I'd like to go to Tasmania.' 'So would I.'

'I'm not really a very good swimmer.' 'No, neither am I.' or 'Nor am I.' or 'I'm not either.' or 'I'm not a very good swimmer either.'

2.3 Substitution: do so

We can use a form of do so to replace a verb and the word or phrase that follows it to complete its meaning:

When asked whether they intended to offer holidays in Africa, TransWorld Adventures said they had no plans to do so. (do so = offer holidays in Africa)

He planned to go to Australia this year, but now that he has lost his job he has little chance of doing so. (doing so = going to Australia)

We can use do so where the verb describes an action, but avoid it with verbs that describe states and habitual actions:

We went down the river by boat, and saw a lot of wildlife while doing so.

Some people didn't enjoy the hard work, but I did. (not ~~but I did so ...~~)

Less formally, we use do it or do that with a similar meaning:

We put up our tents by the side of the river. We did that at about four o'clock every afternoon. or formally

We did so ...

We use do (rather than do so) in informal English, especially after modals or perfect tenses (but note that we can often leave it out):

'Do they provide all the equipment?' 'They should (do).'

'Could you have gone to Thailand instead?' 'Yes, I could have (done).'

2.4 Ellipsis: leaving out words after auxiliary verbs and after to

START POINT

'Have you decided yet?' 'Yes, I have.' (= Yes, I have decided.)

A lot of people go to the Great Barrier Reef when they're in Australia. Were you able to? (= Were you able to go to the Great Barrier Reef?)

We often leave out or change verbs to avoid repeating them.

We can sometimes use to instead of a clause beginning with a to-infinitive when it is clear what we are talking about:

I'd certainly like to go back to Australia. I hope to next year. (= to go back to Australia)

We can use to or leave it out:

- after certain verbs (e.g. agree, promise, start):
I want to read a lot about Australia before I go. I've started (to) already.
- after most nouns (e.g. idea, opportunity) and adjectives (e.g. frightened, willing) that can be followed by a to-infinitive clause:
I've always wanted to go, but I've never had the chance (to) before.
I hope they don't ask us to swim if there are sharks around. I'd be afraid (to).
- after want and would like in if-clauses and wh-clauses:
We must talk about it more. You can come over whenever you'd like (to).
We don't use to after like:
You can come over whenever you like.

We have to use to:

- after verbs (e.g. expect, mean, need) which must have a complement:
You can borrow mine if you need to.
- after a negative:
You don't have to sail on your own if you don't want to.

When have (got) is a main verb in the first clause or sentence, we can often use either have (got) or do to avoid repetition in the following clause or sentence:

Have you got a sleeping bag? I'm sure you have. (= I'm sure you have got a sleeping bag.) or I'm sure you do.
(= I'm sure you do have a sleeping bag.)

When have is followed by a noun to describe an action (e.g. have a shower, have a shave, have a good time) we usually use do:

I wasn't really expecting to have a good time, but I did.

- 6 Have you seen the car keys? I can't find the car keys anywhere.
- 7 That mirror is like the mirror my parents have got in their sitting room.
- 8 This glass has got a crack in it. Have you got another glass?
- 9 I dropped my brother's mobile phone and had to buy him a new mobile phone.
- 10 We've got chocolate biscuits or these biscuits. Which biscuits would you prefer?

3.3 Complete the sentences where possible with so, do, do so or so do, using an appropriate form of do. If it is not possible, suggest an alternative.

- 1 She stood up slowly, and was obviously in pain as she did so.
- 2 A: Miller played really badly, didn't he?
B: But _____ the rest of the team.
- 3 A: Are you going to Spain again for your holidays?
B: I might _____. I haven't decided yet.
- 4 Louise will be meeting us at the airport. At least, I hope _____.
- 5 A: Apparently, Harun's dropped out of college.
B: Yes, I'd heard _____ too.
- 6 We do more or less the same job, but he earns much more than I _____.
- 7 A: We can take a shortcut if we wade across the stream.
B: What's the point of _____? The bridge isn't far.
- 8 He has yet to win a tournament, but he came close to _____ in Monaco.
- 9 A: Do you really think she'll lend you the money?
B: I'm sure _____.
- 10 Megan loves horse riding, and _____ Victor.

3.4 Improve this email by editing the underlined parts to avoid repetition.

Hi Chris,

I tried phoning you earlier, but you must have been out. But I just have to tell somebody about the terrible day I've had : - (!

It started badly and got worse! When I got up the kitchen was flooded – I'd left the freezer door open! I've never (1) left the freezer door open before. By the time I'd finished mopping up all the water it was getting late. I was going to take my big handbag to work, but I was so rushed I picked up my (2) small handbag by mistake, leaving my purse behind so I didn't have any money. Luckily, I bumped into Bob at the station and he was able to lend me (3) some money. My office key was also still at home, so when I got to work I had borrow (4) an office key.

Then I had to get to an important meeting. Our company is hoping to do some business with a Japanese firm. My boss thinks we have a good chance of signing a deal soon, but I don't think (5) we have a good chance of signing a deal soon. I thought the meeting was on the fourth floor – in fact, I was certain (6) it was on the fourth floor. But it had been rearranged and nobody had bothered to tell me. So I was 20 minutes late. I wasn't very happy, and (7) my boss wasn't very happy either. To make matters worse, I'd been hoping to run through my presentation over breakfast, but I'd had no (8) time to run through my presentation over breakfast. So my talk went really badly. Afterwards, my boss said she was disappointed with the way the meeting went. But (9) I was disappointed with the way the meeting went, too.

After such a dreadful day, I was hoping I'd have a quiet evening, but I (10) didn't have a quiet evening. When I got home I found that my cat had knocked over some glasses – you remember the beautiful old Swedish (11) glasses that my parents gave me? I wonder if I'll be able to replace them? I (12) don't expect I'll be able to replace them.

The only good thing is that it's the weekend. Come over whenever you (13) want to come over. In fact, are you able to come over tomorrow? If you (14) 're not able to come over tomorrow how about Sunday? Or are you still too busy decorating the house? I (15) hope you're not too busy decorating the house. But give me a call and let me know.

Love,
Beth x

Listening Part 3

▶ 26 You will hear part of a radio interview in which David Evans, a chef in a British school, is talking about his work. For questions 1 – 6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which fits best according to what you hear.

- 1 What was the students' initial reaction to the food they were served?
 - A They didn't like being the subjects of an experiment.
 - B They would rather have eaten traditional British food.
 - C They were not sure whether it was good or bad.
 - D They felt that it was an adventure for them.

- 2 According to David, why do some students have difficulty in accepting the 'restaurant system'?
 - A They are uncomfortable eating meals with adults.
 - B They are not used to having meals with others.
 - C They don't like talking about food.
 - D They have to wait too long to be served.

- 3 What main role do the staff play in the school restaurant?
 - A They check that students are eating their meals.
 - B They find out about the students' home lives.
 - C They deal with students' complaints about the food.
 - D They help students find out about a balanced diet.

- 4 According to David, where does most of the food served in the restaurant come from?
 - A anywhere that can provide fresh ingredients
 - B the school grounds
 - C all over the world
 - D suppliers close to the school

- 5 In David's view, which of his previous jobs prepared him best for his work as a school chef?
 - A teacher
 - B manager
 - C waiter
 - D cook

- 6 Why does David think that his approach could be difficult to introduce in other schools?
 - A Students tend to be resistant to change.
 - B Not all students see healthy eating as important.
 - C Other schools don't see healthy eating as a priority.
 - D Parents would be unwilling to accept it.

1.1 Which of these qualities and characteristics might people use in describing you?

commitment	confidence	dedication	enthusiasm	loyalty	modesty
determined	efficient	energetic	patient	persuasive	reliable

1.2 ▶ 27 Listen to this speech made in honour of Maria Adams, a music teacher. Which of the qualities and characteristics in 1.1 does the speaker use to describe her?

1.3 ▶ 27 Listen again and say whether these sentences are true (T) or false (F). If a sentence is false, say why.

- Maria was a violinist before she became a conductor. T
- In the Music in Schools project the council gives children musical instruments. _____
- Musicians are not paid to take part in the Music in Schools project. _____
- Children in city schools now have to pay for their music lessons. _____
- Maria helps children go to other countries to play music. _____

1.4 ▶ 27 These ideas are expressed in a different way by the speaker. Listen again and write down exactly what he said.

- We first met in the mid-1990s.
It was in the mid-1990's that we first met.
- She sees making music as a fundamental part of a child's development.

- The way she calmly and clearly argued her case impressed us most.

- I have rarely met anyone with such passion for their beliefs.

- The council has tried to make changes to the Music in Schools project a number of times in order to save money.

- The council backed down only after Maria threatened to withdraw her support from the project.

1.5 What difference do you notice between the sentences given and the ones you have written in 1.4?

Grammar2.1 Fronting

We can emphasise a particular part of a sentence by moving it to the front of the sentence, changing the usual word order:

She sees making music as a fundamental part of a child's development. → Making music she sees as a fundamental part of a child's development.* (fronting of object)

She resisted this. → This she resisted.* (fronting of object)

Maria had been writing to me for some weeks. → For some weeks Maria had been writing to me.* (fronting of adverbial)

2.2 Cleft sentencesSTART POINT

It's among children from poorer backgrounds that the Music in Schools project has had most impact.

(emphasising among children from poorer backgrounds)

What impressed us most was the way she calmly and clearly argued her case. (emphasising the way she calmly and clearly argued her case)

An it-cleft has the structure it + is/was + emphasised part + relative clause. The relative pronoun can be that, which, who or no relative pronoun. When and where are used only in informal English:

It was in the mid-1990s that we first met. or informally ... when we first met.

A sentence with a wh-cleft usually has the structure what-clause + is/was + emphasised part. Sometimes we use all instead of what:

What she was suggesting was that members of the YCO would volunteer their services.

All she ever wanted to do as she was growing up was play the violin. (= the only thing she ever wanted to do)

After the what-clause we usually use a singular form of be (is or was). However, informally, a plural form (are or were) is sometimes used before a plural noun:

What she hopes to see is/are children who enjoy a wide range of musical styles.

We can sometimes put a wh-cleft at the end of a sentence:

The way she calmly and clearly argued her case was what impressed us most.

The Music in Schools project is what came out of our meeting.

To emphasise an action we can use a wh-cleft with what + subject + form of do + form of be + (to) + infinitive:

What she did was (to) convince us of the value of a musical education.

2.3 InversionSTART POINT

In front of the committee sat Maria.

(= verb + subject)

Seldom did she raise her voice.

(= do + subject + verb)

Never have I heard such a persuasive speaker.

(= auxiliary + subject + verb)

} = inversion of normal word order

Word order is inverted after certain words and phrases when these are put at the beginning of a sentence or clause in order to emphasise them. This kind of inversion is found mainly in formal speech and writing.

Inversion occurs after words and phrases with a 'negative' meaning:

- the negative adverbs never (before), rarely, seldom; barely/hardly/scarcely ... when/before; no sooner ... than; nowhere; neither, nor:
Rarely have I met anyone with such enthusiasm.
No sooner had Maria walked through the door than she started to talk about her proposal.
I hadn't met Maria before, and nor had the other members of the committee.
(See also Unit 17, 2.3 for more on hardly, no sooner and scarcely.)
- only* + a time expression (e.g. after, later, then) or a prepositional phrase:
Only after Maria threatened to withdraw her support did the council back down.
- the prepositional phrases at no time, on no account, under/in no circumstances; in no way (or no way in informal language):
At no time has she ever accepted payment for her educational work.
She argued that under no circumstances should children from poorer backgrounds be made to pay for music lessons.
- expressions with not: not only, not until, not since, not for one moment, not once, not a + noun:
Not only has she persuaded YCO members to give up their time, but she has also encouraged visiting musicians to give free concerts in schools.
- little* with a negative meaning:
Little did she realise when she set up the project that it would be so influential.

Inversion also occurs after:

- time sequence adverbs such as first, next, now, then with be or come:
And then came an invitation to be a special adviser to the government on music education.
If there is a comma (,) or an intonation break in speech after the adverb, normal word order is used:
Then, an invitation came from the government. (not ~~Then, came an invitation~~ ...)
- so* + adjective ... that, emphasising the adjective:
So successful has Music in Schools been that those involved in music education around the world have visited the city to see the project in action.
- such* + be ... that, emphasising the extent or degree of something:
Such was her understanding of music education that the government wanted to draw on her expertise.
(= Her understanding of music education was such that ...)

2.4 Inversion in conditional sentences

In formal or literary English, we can use clauses beginning were, should and had, with inversion of subject and verb, instead of a hypothetical conditional:

Were she ever to leave the orchestra, ... (= If she left ... or If she were to leave ...)

Were he here tonight, ... (= If he was/were here tonight ...)

Should you need any more information about Music in Schools, ... (= If you need ...)

Had Maria not been around, ... (= If she had not been around ...)

In negative clauses with inversion, we don't use contracted forms:

Had Maria not set up the Music in Schools project ... (not ~~Hadn't Maria set up~~ ...)

Grammar exercises

3.1 Write a new sentence with a similar meaning to the original. Emphasise the information underlined using an it-cleft or a wh-cleft at the beginning of the sentence. Sometimes both are possible.

- I want you to hold the cat tightly while I put on this collar.
- She announced she was going to join the air force at her 18th birthday party.
- A: So how did you get the car out of the mud?
B: We asked a farmer to pull us out with his tractor.
- A: What do you think's wrong with the car?
B: The battery could be flat.
- This huge bunch of flowers arrived for me this morning. I don't know who sent them.
- My parents must have given Wei my telephone number.
- The research shows a link between salt intake and rates of heart disease.
- His nervous laugh made me think he was lying.

3.4 Rewrite the underlined parts of the conversation, emphasising the word(s) in italics. In each case use fronting, a cleft sentence or inversion.

A: I hear you and Anna didn't have a great holiday on the island.

B: No, not really, although (1) we liked the island a lot. (2) The hotel was the real problem.

A: Why? What was wrong with it?

B: Our room was just awful. The shower only had cold water and the air conditioning didn't work.

A: Didn't you complain?

B: Oh yes. Anna was pretty annoyed and went down to reception to complain. But they told her she was just being fussy and (3) she got really furious about that. She insisted on seeing the manager, and demanded that something should be done.

A: And was it?

B: Well, we had a steady stream of workers coming into the room after that. (4) An electrician came first and then the next day a plumber. But neither of the problems got fixed. (5) It took them three days to decide that we needed another room.

A: You must have been fed up with the hotel by that time.

B: I think (6) the attitude of the staff annoyed me most – they really just didn't care. (7) I have never seen such a total lack of interest from people who are supposed to be providing a service. (8) No one apologised once the whole time we were there ...

Context listening

1.1 You are going to listen to a radio news report. Look at the photos. What do you think the report is about?

1.2 ▶ 28 Listen and check whether you were right. As you listen, number these events in the order the reporter mentions them.

- a Two power stations were built close to Lake Taal. _____
- b People were evacuated from around Lake Taal. _____
- c The Taal volcano erupted and around a hundred people were killed. _____
- d Scientists found that the temperature of Lake Taal was increasing. _____
- e The Taal Emergency Strategy was introduced. _____
- f A state of high alert was declared. _____
- g The Taal volcano erupted and over a thousand people were killed. 1

1.3 ▶ 28 Listen again. Complete each extract from the news report with a noun in the first space and a preposition in the second.

- 1 The breakdown in communication cost at least a hundred lives.
- 2 There has been an _____ the number of people living close to the lake.
- 3 The _____ the power stations would leave thousands of homes and businesses without electricity.
- 4 There was also a dramatic _____ the level of radon gas in the soil.
- 5 Their concerns increased with the _____ thousands of dead fish.
- 6 Two days ago the _____ around 30,000 people began.

1.4 Write new sentences with similar meanings to those in 1.3. In each case, use a verb related to the noun in the first space.

- 1 Communication broke down and this cost at least a hundred lives.

Grammar

2.1 Nominalisation

START POINT

There has been an increase in the number of people living close to the lake. or The number of people living close to the lake has increased.

The danger of the situation made it necessary to bring in the army to oversee operations. or The situation was so dangerous that it was necessary to bring in the army to oversee operations.

We can sometimes use a noun or noun phrase for an idea usually expressed by a verb or adjective. This process is referred to as nominalisation. It is especially common in formal styles of writing.

An adverb modifying a verb changes to an adjective in a nominalised form:

Scientists noticed a sudden rise in the temperature of the lake. or Scientists noticed that the temperature of the lake had risen suddenly.

The main noun in a noun phrase is often followed by one or more prepositional phrases:

The industrial development of the area has increased the number of people living near the lake.

There was also a dramatic rise in the level of radon gas in the soil.

We use nominalisation for a number of reasons:

- to avoid mentioning the agent (the person or thing that performs the action); for example, if we want to be impersonal or to make the agent less important. Compare:

Two days ago the authorities began to evacuate 30,000 people. (agent = the authorities)

Two days ago the evacuation of around 30,000 people began. (no agent mentioned)

- to express two clauses more concisely as one clause:

The building of two power stations just a few kilometres away was strongly criticised by environmentalists.* or

Two power stations were built just a few kilometres away. This was strongly criticised by environmentalists.*

- to give a different focus to the sentence. Compare:

The provision of temporary shelter in a safe location for those displaced is the army's top priority.* (New, important information is usually placed at the end of the sentence or clause. The focus here is on the army's top priority.)

Temporary shelter in a safe location for those displaced is being provided, and this is the army's top priority.

(No particular focus: is being provided and the army's top priority are both in 'new information' position in their clause.)

2.2 Do, give, have, make, take + noun

We can sometimes use a form with do/give/have/make/take + noun instead of a verb:

The authorities took immediate action. or The authorities acted immediately.

The decision was made to evacuate the area. or It was decided to evacuate the area.

Often, the do/give/have/make/take + noun patterns are less formal than using a verb alone:

When my mother was ill, I had to cook for the family. (more formal)

I had to do all the cooking last week because Mum was away. (less formal)

Reading and Use of English Part 8

You are going to read four reviews of popular science books. For questions 1 – 10, choose from the reviews (A – D). The reviews may be chosen more than once.

Which review mentions a recent technological development that has become important for many people?

an ability to think in general terms?

the unexpected effects of scientific developments?

a scientist who began an area of scientific investigation important today?

an author's view that some people are likely to disagree with?

someone whose most influential work was done in the early part of their life?

a book aimed both at people who approve of technology and those who don't?

scientific investigations whose value was only later understood?

an author who combines practical experience with an ability to write well?

a skill that people are born with rather than learn?

A A Monk and Two Peas by Robin Marantz Henig

The work of an Augustinian monk from Brno laid the foundations of the science of genetics. Gregor Mendel was born in what is now the Czech Republic in 1822 and entered the monastery at the age of nineteen.

In the mid-1840s he began to conduct a series of experiments with pea plants grown in the monastery garden and he continued these for twenty years. Over this period, by crossing pea plants which had clear differentiations in height, colour, etc and by carefully logging the results, Mendel was able to formulate the basic principles behind heredity. Mendel's work was only published in obscure journals, he was eventually led away from science by administrative duties at the monastery and it was only some years after his death that the significance of his work was appreciated.

Mendel's life was a quiet one, but a very important one to the science of the twentieth century. A Monk and Two Peas tells the story very well, explaining clearly Mendel's experiments and drawing out their significance.

B The Maths Gene by Keith Devlin

For those who are mathematically challenged it's an attractive notion that everybody possesses a latent talent for maths and that it is just a question of finding the right key to access it. Devlin, despite the title of his book, is not suggesting that there is a gene for maths that the Human Genome project might identify but he is saying that we have a natural ability to do maths, that it exists in everybody and there are sound evolutionary reasons why this is the case. The ability to do maths, clearly, means an ability to handle abstract ideas and relationships and this provides advantages in evolutionary terms. As human language emerged, so also did a new capacity for abstraction and this formed the foundations on which mathematical thought has been built. Some readers might find Devlin's account of the evolution of language debatable but his ideas about the nature of our mathematical powers and his practical suggestions about how to improve them are constantly stimulating.

C Why Things Bite Back by Edward Tenner

Subtitled 'Technology and the Revenge of Unintended Consequences', Tenner's book is an entertaining look at the myriad ways in which advances in science and technology seem to recoil against us. What we gain on the roundabouts we lose on the swings. Antibiotics promise release from the perils of major diseases and end up encouraging microorganisms to develop resistance to them. Widespread use of air conditioning results in an increase in the temperature outdoors, thus requiring further cooling systems. American Football safety helmets become more efficient but this heralds an increase in more violent play and injuries actually rise. Tenner mounts up the evidence in a book designed to appeal to technophile and technophobe alike. And remember, the disaster at Chernobyl was triggered during a safety test. Ironies like that just aren't funny.

D A Brief History of the Future by John Naughton

So rapidly has the Internet become an integral part of many people's lives that it is easy to forget that only a few years ago it was known to the general public, if at all, as a playground for nerdy academics and that it is one of the most astonishing of all man's inventions. John Naughton, fellow of Churchill College, Cambridge and regular journalist on The Observer and other newspapers, has been on the net for many years himself and is the ideal person to write a history of what he calls this 'force of unimaginable power'. Starting with three little-known visionaries at MIT in the 1930s, Naughton traces the story through the engineers like Tim Berners-Lee who realised their vision, and on into what the future may hold. Written with the skill one might expect from a fine journalist and informed with the knowledge of an engineering professor, this is among the first histories of the net but is likely to remain among the best for some time to come.

Grammar

2.1 Introductory it as subject

START POINT

Mother: It struck me that the Canley apartment might be quite noisy with that busy road nearby.

Liz: But it's in such a lovely location. (it refers back to the noun phrase the Canley apartment)

If it's possible, I'd like to go back and look at the Canley apartment again. (it refers forward to going back and looking at the Canley apartment again)

It's going to be hard to choose between them. (introductory it as grammatical subject)

Living in town would make it so much easier to get to work. (introductory it as grammatical object)

Introductory it as grammatical subject is commonly used:

- to talk about weather, time, distance and to describe situations:
It's raining again. It's five o'clock. It's quiet in this part of town.
It's about 15 kilometres from the Canley apartment into the centre.
- as an alternative to a that-, wh-, -ing or to-infinitive clause as the subject of the sentence:
It's a pity that the town apartment is so small, rather than That the town apartment is so small is a pity.
It's obvious why they've been having problems selling it, rather than Why they've been having problems selling it is obvious.
It's certainly an advantage being able to walk to work, rather than Being able to walk to work is certainly an advantage.
It really shocked me to see how bad it was, rather than To see how bad it was really shocked me.

It is more usual to use introductory it in these contexts, although in formal language the alternative with a that-, wh-, -ing or to-infinitive clause as subject is often used.

In writing, we don't usually use introductory it as an alternative to a noun as subject:

The town apartment is more expensive. (not ~~It is more expensive, the town apartment.~~)

However, this is quite common in informal speech in order to clarify what is being talked about:

It'd be good to live near work, but it's more expensive, the town apartment.

We often follow introductory it with be + adjective/noun, but other patterns are possible:

- it* + verb + to-infinitive clause: It might help to run through the pros and cons.
- it* + verb + object + to-infinitive clause: It shocked me to see how bad it was.
- it* + verb + that-clause: It appears that they're having trouble selling the apartment.
- it* + verb + object + that-clause: It struck me that the Canley apartment might be quite noisy.

In formal contexts, a common way of reporting what is said by an unspecified group of people is to use it + passive verb + that-clause or it + passive verb + wh-clause:

It is said that the cost of accommodation in the town centre will rise. or less formally They say that the cost of accommodation in the town centre is going to go up.

It was explained how difficult it is to prevent flooding in the area. or less formally They explained how difficult it is to prevent flooding in the area.

2.2 Introductory it as object

We can use it as the object of a verb in a number of patterns:

- verb + it + that-/if-/wh-clause
I wouldn't like it if I had to get up at 6 o'clock.
I couldn't believe it when the agent said the decoration was 'in good condition'.

- would appreciate + it + if-clause
I would appreciate it if you could send me further details of the apartment.
- verb + (it) + that-clause
We've just got to accept that neither of the apartments is perfect. or informally We've just got to accept it that neither of the apartments is perfect.
- verb + it + adjective + that-/wh-/to-infinitive clause
The owner didn't make it clear whether they were included in the price.
I think it's highly unlikely ... (informal) I think it highly unlikely that the seller will reduce the price. (formal)
- leave/owe + it + to somebody + to-infinitive
I think we should leave it to the estate agent to talk to the owner about whether curtains are included.
- verb + it + as + adjective + that-/if-/wh-clause
I see it as essential that there should be somewhere to park.

2.3 ThereSTART POINT

There's a bus stop just outside the apartment block.

There are lots of new apartments being built in the city centre.

There + be is used to introduce new information, saying that a person or thing exists, happens, or is found in a particular place.

Because we use there to introduce topics, the noun after there + be often has an indefinite meaning, so we often use a/an, no article, any(one) + noun or some(thing), no(body):

There's a car park behind the Canley apartment block (not ~~There's the car park~~ ...)

There's something about parking in the information the estate agent gave us.

We use there, not it:

- to say or ask if people or things exist or are found in a particular place:
There's nowhere to park. (not ~~It's nowhere to park.~~)
Was there a dishwasher in the kitchen? (not ~~Was it a dishwasher in the kitchen?~~)
- to introduce information about quantities and amounts:
There's a big grassy area at the back of the block. There wasn't much space in the bathroom.

There + be is often followed by:

- noun + that-/wh-/ing-/to-infinitive clause
There's a chance (that) he might include carpets and curtains.
There are plans to build new apartments not far from the one we looked at.
- bound/certain/(un)likely/supposed/sure + to be
There's bound to be a regular bus service from there.

There is also often followed by is, are, was or were. However, also common are:

- there + auxiliary/modal verb + be
There must be someone we know who would redecorate it.
- there + seem/appear + to be
There seem to be good and bad aspects of each apartment.
- there + passive reporting verb + to be
There is expected to be a lot of interest in the property.
Other reporting verbs commonly used in this pattern are estimate, find, reckon, report, say, think.
- verb + there + to be
I wouldn't expect there to be many people interested in buying the apartment. or I wouldn't expect many people to be interested ...

If the noun after there is singular or uncountable, the verb is singular; if the noun is plural, the verb is usually plural (although there's is often used in informal speech):

There's a supermarket within walking distance.

There are so many things to think about. or informally There's so many things ...

If a noun phrase after there consists of two or more nouns in a list, we use a singular verb if the first noun is singular or uncountable, and a plural verb if the first noun is plural:

There was just a bed, a small wardrobe and some bookshelves.

There were just some bookshelves, a bed and a small wardrobe. or informally There was just some bookshelves ...

2.4 Common expressions with it's no and there's no

Common expressions with it's no include: it's no secret that, it's no surprise that, it's no use/good + -ing, it's no coincidence/accident that, it's no longer necessary to, it's no bad thing to, it's no doubt true that, it's no doubt the case that, it's no exaggeration to say that.

It's no wonder they've been having problems selling the apartment.

Common expressions with there's no include: there's no doubt that, there's no chance/denying that, there's no choice/alternative but to, there's no chance/hope of + -ing, there's no need to, there's no point in + -ing, there's no question of + -ing, there's no reason to, there's no harm in + -ing.

There's no hurry to decide.

- 7 Relax on Thursday morning and walk _____ [1] _____ [1].

1.4 In which of the extracts can you reverse the order of the words in the first space and the words in the second space?

Grammar

2.1 Complex prepositions

Prepositions can be either simple (one word) or complex (two or more words):

I'm really, really sorry about this. (simple)

The bus will only take you as far as the main square. (complex)

Common examples of complex prepositions include: in accordance with, as against, along with, with effect from, in the event of, in exchange for, irrespective of, on the part of, in place of, for the sake of, thanks to, by way of.

Some complex prepositions have a meaning similar to a simple preposition:

I wasn't able to reschedule the meeting, in spite of my efforts. (= despite)

All the people in front of me had been queuing for a long time. (= before)

2.2 Verb + preposition: common patterns

START POINT

Don't forget to bring your camera with you.

I insist on paying your hotel bill.

After some verbs a preposition is needed to link the verb to what follows. If the preposition is followed by a second verb, the verb must be an -ing form.

- verb + object + prepositional phrase:
I tried to reschedule the meeting for next week, but it's just impossible.
- verb + preposition + object + preposition + object:
She complained to the company about the unreliability of their bus service.
- verb + preposition + -ing:
Don't worry about getting lost.
- verb + object + preposition + -ing:
I'd advise you against catching the bus.
- verb + preposition + object + -ing:
You can depend on the train running on time.

2.3 Phrasal verbs: word order

START POINT

I've booked you into a hotel not far from the station. Book into is a transitive, two-word phrasal verb. The object here is you and the particle is into.

While you're strolling around, look out for Café Mathis. Look out for is a transitive, three-word phrasal verb. The object here is Café Mathis and the particles are out and for.

Something's come up at work. Come up is an intransitive phrasal verb. There is no object.

Some phrasal verbs can be used transitively or intransitively with the same meaning:

Feel free to call me back if there's anything that's not clear about tomorrow.

Call back later.*

Others have different meanings when they are used transitively and intransitively:

I've looked up the online timetable. (transitive verb = I've found the information)

The weather seems to be looking up now. (intransitive verb = improving)

With most phrasal verbs, the object can go before or after the particle:

I'll sort out the bill when I pick you up on Thursday morning, or I'll sort the bill out when I pick you up on Thursday morning.

With these verbs we tend to put the object after the particle if the object is long:

You might want to take down some of the information I'm going to give to you, rather than You might want to take some of the information I'm going to give to you down.

and we always put the object before the particle if the object is a pronoun:

I won't be able to pick you up at the airport after all. (not ~~I won't be able to pick up you at the airport after all.~~)

If the object consists of two or more items connected with and, it can occur before or after the particle even if one or both of the items is a pronoun:

When I'm next in London I'll look you and your wife up, or ... I'll look up you and your wife. (look up = go and see them)

With some phrasal verbs, the object must go after the particle(s):

When you've checked into the hotel, I suggest you get a meal there. (not ~~When you've checked the hotel into ...~~)

With a few phrasal verbs the object must go between the verb and the particle:

Although she was the youngest in the class, she used to order the other children about. (not ... ~~she used to order about the other children.~~)

A few three-word phrasal verbs have two objects, one after the verb and the other after the particles:

I'll take you up on your offer to buy me a meal. (verb = take up on; objects = you and your offer)

Grammar exercises

3.1 Complete the sentences using the notes in brackets. Use an appropriate tense for the verb. If two word orders are possible, give them both.

- Sam sings really well. He takes after his father (take / his father / after).
- I decided it was time to _____ (throw / some of my old exercise books from school / away).
- Sofia got really angry during the meeting, and eventually she _____ (gather / her papers / up) and stormed out.

- 1 influenced (verb - no preposition) + 10 influence on

Grammar

START POINT

I felt that there was a big demand for an online newspaper.

It was difficult to generate business at first.

Many nouns and adjectives are typically followed by particular prepositions.

2.1 Noun + preposition: related verbs and adjectives

Many nouns are followed by the same prepositions as their related verb or adjective:

We used to get quite a lot of complaints about our news coverage. OR People used to complain a lot about our news coverage.

I wanted to increase young people's awareness of current affairs. OR I wanted to make young people more aware of current affairs.

A few are followed by different prepositions from their related adjective:

We take pride in the design of our website. OR We are proud of the design of our website.

Some take a preposition where their related verb does not:

Young people may be able to have an influence on government policies. OR Young people may be able to influence government policies.

2.2 Noun + preposition + -ing or noun + preposition + noun

Most noun + preposition combinations can be followed either by an -ing form or a noun:

There have been protests about locating a new nuclear power station on the east coast. OR There have been protests about the location of a new nuclear power station on the east coast.

Some noun + preposition combinations are more often followed by a noun than an -ing form:

I felt there was a demand for the publication of an online newspaper. rather than I felt there was a demand for publishing an online newspaper.

2.3 Noun + of + -ing or noun + to-infinitive

Some nouns can be followed by either of + -ing or a to-infinitive with little difference in meaning:

The idea of setting up some kind of newspaper for young people came from that time. OR The idea to set up ... I had the opportunity to do a course on website design. OR I had the opportunity of doing a course on website design.

Some nouns have more than one meaning and are followed by either of + -ing or to-infinitive depending on which meaning is used:

Young people get the chance to contribute in various ways. (chance = opportunity)

The banks thought there was little chance of making it a commercial success. (chance = likelihood)

Some nouns can be followed by of + -ing, but not a to-infinitive:

The difficulty of persuading the banks to lend us money meant that we had to borrow money from our parents. (not The difficulty to persuade the banks ...)

Some nouns can be followed by a to-infinitive, but not of + -ing:

We took the decision to work on it for six months. (not We took the decision of working on it ...)

25

Prepositions after nouns and adjectives

2.4 Noun + in or noun + of

We use increase/decrease/rise/fall + in when we talk about what is increasing or decreasing, and increase/decrease/rise/fall + of to talk about the amount of an increase or decrease:

The recent increase in hits on the website means that we can charge more for advertising space. (not ~~The recent increase of hits~~ ...)

We've had an increase of about 50% (not ~~We've had an increase in about 50%~~ ...)

Other nouns like this include: cut, decline, downturn, drop; gain, growth, jump, leap.

2.5 Adjective + preposition: expressing feelings

Many adjectives which refer to feelings or opinions are followed by particular prepositions:

Young people seem generally very enthusiastic about the site.

They were very wary of advertising on the site.

2.6 Adjective + preposition: different meanings

Some adjectives are followed by different prepositions, depending on meaning:

I knew they were concerned about what was going on. (concerned about = worried about)

We have a reviews section, which is concerned with films, CDs ... (concerned with = to do with)

Reading and Use of English Part 5

You are going to read a magazine article. For questions 1 – 6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

Exam tip

There are often questions which relate to the main idea of the text as well as questions about detail. In this practice task, question 1 relates to the main idea.

Rome: ancient life in a modern city

Sigmund Freud once compared the human mind to the city of Rome. He was talking about its intriguing layers. Just as the mind has a build-up of memories, Rome has a history that goes deeper and deeper: every modern building is on top of a renaissance one, and under that you find the medieval buildings, and then ancient Rome itself. Freud might also have said that – just as with the mind – as you go deeper into the city you find the unpleasant parts like the slums as well as the clean, splendidly ‘proper’ parts.

Ancient Rome was home to a million people and was, in its time, the biggest city in Europe. Most of that million, from the dockworkers to the hairdressers, didn’t live in spacious marble villas. They were packed into tower blocks that lined narrow streets, with hardly any public services. It must have been a tough place to survive in.

So where can you still find signs of these ordinary ‘high-rise Romans’? Amazingly, the answer is ‘all over the city’. You only need to know where to look, and keep your eyes open. My favourite remnant of ordinary ancient Roman life is still standing in the heart of tourist Rome. It’s part of a tower block, still surviving to five storeys in a modern square – just underneath the Victor Emmanuel monument. Most of these blocks have fallen down, but this one was lucky: it survived because it was turned into a church.

It’s easy to work out the basic organisation of the block. At street level, there are shops and workshops. The principle was ‘the higher you went, the worse it got’. On the first floor you can see some spacious family flats; and above that, bedsits. The question is, how many people were squashed into these rooms? If they were for one person, then this was very “tight living”. But if they were single rooms without bathroom or cooking facilities, designed for whole families, they must have been really dreadful conditions.

And in ancient Rome – as this particular high-rise block reminds us – rich and poor lived and worked side by side. There weren’t many zones given over exclusively either to the rich or the poor. In fact, if you look hard enough, you can find traces of ordinary people inside the most luxurious and ceremonial buildings of the city.

A visit to the ancient Roman Forum can be a disappointment. This was once the centre of Roman public life, where the senate met. It is now a rather mysterious set of ruins, with just a few standing landmarks: two splendid triumphal arches and the three vast columns of the Temple of Castor. The Forum becomes far more interesting if you also look down for the evidence of the ordinary men and women who shared this space with the great and the good – and who had their own things to do there, from a bit of gambling to basic dentistry.

Running along its south side are the now decidedly unimpressive ruins of what was once the splendid Basilica Julia, home of one of Rome’s law courts, plus some government offices. Not much survives beyond the floor and the steps leading up to it. A barrier now prevents visitors from walking inside; but actually you don’t need to. Look over the barrier on to the steps, and you will see the clear traces cut into the stone of scores of ‘gaming boards’. We haven’t a clue about the exact rules of the games, but never mind. It’s clear that the Basilica Julia wasn’t just a place for busy lawyers; go back 2,000 years and you would find the place littered with men with time on their hands, betting on some ancient equivalent of backgammon.

Next door to the basilica is the great Temple of Castor. Here you have to take your eyes off the columns, and look more carefully at the high platform on which they stand. Built into this is a series of little shops and storage units right underneath this grand monument. One of the corner units was a primitive dentist's surgery. Among the most memorable moments for me was going to see the almost 100 teeth discovered a few years ago in its drains, each one expertly extracted and rotten to the core. Each one a witness to human agony, I thought.

- The main point the writer is making about ancient Rome is that
 - it is completely hidden by modern buildings.
 - traces of it can be seen everywhere.
 - it was very similar to modern cities.
 - it has had a long and fascinating history.
- One of the tall buildings of ancient Rome has been preserved because
 - it is still inhabited by ordinary people.
 - it is used as tourist accommodation.
 - it has been rebuilt.
 - it was used for a different purpose.
- When she uses the phrase "tight living" in line 17, the writer is pointing out that - people lived in very small spaces.
 - people did not have many possessions.
 - people tended to live alone.
 - people did not need much living space.
- According to the article, the citizens of ancient Rome
 - lived with people of a similar economic status.
 - lived on the top floor of tall buildings if they were rich.
 - were not all housed according to how wealthy they were.
 - tended to live in large stone houses.
- What unofficial activities does the writer claim took place in Basilica Julia?
 - sculpture and other visual arts
 - athletics and other sports
 - games that involved gambling
 - the giving of legal advice
- Where were the little shops in relation to the Temple of Castor?
 - at the same height
 - below
 - above
 - alongside official records _____ older relatives _____ old family photo albums _____ websites _____ family diaries _____ local newspaper archives _____

1.2 Read the introduction to a talk about investigating your family history. Choose the best words to complete the text.

There is nothing more exciting than (1) opening / unlocking the mysteries of your own past. With each additional clue, your (2) ancestors / associates will become more than just names or dates on a (3) genealogical / geological form. In this (4) process / progress you will realise that most of them were ordinary people, just like you and me.

In genealogy you always start from the present and work (5) backwards / forwards. You should approach the search as if you were a detective (6) conducting / concluding an investigation; looking for clues, interviewing (7) resources / sources and carefully (8) documenting / disclosing your facts. This is important because you need to be able to prove that your line of (9) ascent / descent is correct. Anyone can claim that they are a (10) descendant / successor of George Washington, but proving it is another thing altogether.

1.3 ▶ 34 Listen to the talk and answer these questions.

- Who is this advice aimed at? _____
- What does the speaker warn listeners about?

Error warning

Information is an uncountable noun and cannot be made plural: I'd like some information about my family. (not I'd like some informations...)

1.4 ▶ 34 Listen to the talk again. Find words and phrases which match these definitions. The number of words you should write in each space is given in the square brackets. Use the recording script to help you.

- check your information is correct _____ verify your facts _____ [3]
- enjoy talking about memories _____ [1]
- the most difficult problem to overcome _____ [3]
- a small proportion of correct information _____ [4]
- shocking personal secrets from the past _____ [4]
- set a limit for something _____ [3]
- separate line of your ancestry _____ [4]
- collect a lot of data _____ [5]

1.5 WORD BUILDING Complete the table with words which have related meanings.

- Historians have accused a new 'biographical' film about the king's personal life of being wildly _____.
- There's an animal living in the woods that makes a sound strangely _____ of a crying baby.

1.7 When we talk about secrets we often use the idea that there is something unseen or hidden, e.g. skeletons in the cupboard. Underline the language of secrets in these sentences.

- A recently published history of the local area exposes long-buried secrets of the family and their influence.
- It's not fair to keep residents in the dark about development plans for the local area.
- Journalists shouldn't spend their time digging up dirt on celebrities. It's not in the public interest.
- The government seem to think that they can just sweep recent statistics on inner-city crime under the carpet.
- Although he had tried hard to cover his tracks, all investigators had to do was follow the money.
- The councillor tried to muddy the waters over the scrapped housing development when he raised the issue of anti-social behaviour.

1.8 Match the expressions you underlined in 1.7 with their definitions.

- investigate to find unpleasant or damaging information _____
- make evidence more difficult or impossible to find _____
- confuse an issue under discussion _____
- not share information with people who are interested _____
- make information public which was unknown for many years _____

Joan Bakewell

Autobiography is a curiously naked business. It requires intimacy with your own (1) feelings which you might have been avoiding for years. You have to (2) _____ your guilt and fears, dredging from deep down things you might rather (3) _____. Then you must weigh up whether they are (4) _____ in any objective sense, or simply memories formulated from family (5) _____.

Any life as long as mine has left a multitude of (6) _____. The most valuable proved to be those nearest home. Ever since I was a child, I have (7) _____ scraps of paper, childish sketches, soppy poems, notes from girls in my class at school, exam papers, school (8) _____ and boxes and boxes of letters.

Then there are the diaries: the daily record of events and (9) _____. The casual entries in numerous little pocket diaries, thrown casually into a big box at each New Year, allowed me to pinpoint, though only roughly – there are many (10) _____ pages – what I was doing in any particular year of my life.

2.3 Which of these words are possible replacements for the words in italics in 2.2?

Word in 2.2	Possible replacements
1 weigh up	consider decide regard think about
2 formulated	created originating put together prepared
3 a multitude of	a crowd of countless many numerous

- Authors often write about past behaviour that still makes them feel _____. GUILT
- Authors who are _____ may not include important past events. FORGET

Writing Part 1 An essay

You must answer this question. Write your answer in 220 – 260 words in an appropriate style.

Exam tip

Make sure that you read the question and notes carefully, so that you know exactly what you have to do. When you answer the question, remember to deal with the three methods listed. If you want to make use of any of the opinions expressed, use your own words. It is always a good idea to start by making a brief paragraph plan so that you cover all the points in the question.

Look at the exam task and answer these questions.

- 1 How many of the ways listed in the notes do you have to refer to in your essay?
- 2 In what way is expressing an opinion not enough?
- 3 If you express one of the opinions listed, what should you do?

Your class has attended a panel discussion on ways in which historical information relating to your neighbourhood can be collected and recorded for future generations. You have made the notes below.

Ways in which information relating to your neighbourhood can be collected and recorded for future generations:

- consult written records
- record personal interviews
- collect old photographs

Some opinions expressed in the discussion:

“Written records can provide facts but not personal opinions or feelings.”

“Old people’s memories can be unreliable.”

“Photographs may be in poor condition and therefore difficult to interpret.”

Write an essay discussing two of the ways to collect and record information in your notes. You should explain which way you think would be more effective for collecting and recording information for future generations, giving reasons in support of your answer.

You may, if you wish, make use of the opinions expressed in the discussion, but you should use your own words as far as possible.

Arts events

1.1 Which of these events would you enjoy? Which would you choose not to go to? Put a (✓) or a (X).

- 1 an exhibition of work by a contemporary sculptor _____

1.3 Add your own words to these lists.

visual arts	sculpture,
styles of music	soul,
types of literature	novel,
genres of film	thriller,
artists	composer, performer,

Error warning

In 1.1 there are two adjectives which are often confused with similar words.

classical/classic classical = traditional in style or form; of the ancient civilisations of Greece and Rome: Classical literature usually makes heavy reading.

classic = established over time as popular, the best or most typical of its kind: The little black dress is a classic look.

historical/historic historical = connected with or based on past times: It's a historical novel about the Tudors.

historic = very important in history: These historic events will shape the nation's future.

V Vocabulary note

Notice that we use the definite article the with the names of most entertainment venues: the Sydney Opera House, the British Museum, the O2 Arena, the Odeon cinema.

(See Unit 5, 2.4 for more on the use of the definite article.)

1.4 COLLOCATION Match each list of verbs with a noun.

- | | |

- They're gaining a devoted _____ .
- I've never been _____ stand-up.
- He had the whole audience _____ .
- I'm not even sure 'exhibition' _____ .
- The shapes are all perfectly formed, but they were made entirely _____ .

2.3 Match these reviews with two of the events in 1.1.

- 1 Playing some of his better-known back-catalogue, the now 79-year-old free-jazz saxophonist Ornette Coleman proved to a capacity audience what a lasting genius he is. What was chaotic and painful to listen to in the 1960s sounds melodic 40 years on. The mood of the music alternates between euphoric and melancholic, but it is always exciting and often surprising.
- 2 Speaking an estimated forty percent of the lines in the play, Jude Law, as Hamlet, gives an exhilarating performance. He incorporates physicality throughout, and infuses a breathtaking amount of energy into the part. He also knows what he's talking about. There is no recitation or learning by rote here. It's plain that after the year he was given to prepare for this role, and after the three months of performance in London, Law has an intimate understanding of his character, the language and the play as a whole.

2.4 Find words and phrases in the reviews which match these definitions.

- 1 past recordings of a musician _____ 4 words an actor has to say _____
- 2 largest crowd a venue can hold _____ 5 role played by an actor _____
- 3 pleasantly musical _____ 6 repeat in order to remember _____

2.5 Write the nouns related to these adjectives from the reviews in 2.3.

- 1 chaotic _____ 4 melodic _____
- 2 melancholic _____ 5 intimate _____
- 3 exhilarating _____ 6 euphoric _____

2.6 Read these sentences. The words in italics have similar meanings. Underline the word in each pair which is more positive.

- 1 The portrait, which hangs in the National Gallery, is one of his more difficult / challenging works.
- 2 The band draws heavily on 1960s influences, giving this latest album a classic / dated sound.
- 3 His prose is understated / bland and his use of narrative device is weak / subtle.
- 4 They played in a cramped / an intimate venue to a boisterous / raucous crowd.

Exam tip

Start by reading the whole text to get a general idea of what it is about.

When choosing options, look for language clues in the text such as collocations and prepositions, as well as considering meaning.

Narrow your choice by eliminating options which are obviously incorrect.

Departures

V Vocabulary note

The prefixes en- and em- add the meaning 'put into', 'cause to be' or 'provide with' to verbs.

So endanger means 'to put in danger'. Other common verbs starting with en- include: encase, encircle, engulf, enable, enlarge, enliven, enrich, enclose

The prefix em- is used before words which begin with b or p: embed, embitter, embody, empower

1.1 Complete the text with words or phrases from the box.

asylum seekers contract workers expatriates illegal immigrants professionals refugees Settlers

(1) Settlers are people who intend to live permanently in a new country. Most head for just a few main countries, for example, the USA.

Some will succeed in their aims and gain status as legal residents of the country they have moved to. These people are technically called

(2) _____ although this term is most commonly used by people from English-speaking nations to describe people from more developed nations living permanently abroad.

Migrants who leave their homes to escape danger or persecution may also be looking for a permanent new home. Until their claims are dealt with they are known as (3) _____, and if their claims are accepted they will be classified as (4) _____. In some cases of mass flight, when thousands of people escape across a border, they are immediately granted this status.

Looking for a job, a better income or perhaps just an experience, other migrants are admitted to countries as (5) _____. They are allowed to stay in their destination country on the understanding that it is for a specific period. Some are seasonal employees. Others will stay in the new country for a year or more. These include employees of multinational corporations who are moved around from country to country. These people are often (6) _____, with specialist knowledge in their field.

Some migrants overstay their visas or work whilst in the country on tourist visas. When this happens they become (7) _____ in the eyes of the officials. They may also try to enter an 'immigration country', often endangering their own lives, by being smuggled in by people they have paid for this service.

1.2 Answer these questions.

- Which types of migrants come to your country? Which countries do they come from?
- Which types of migrants leave your country? Which countries do they go to?

1.3 Match these words with their definitions.

- | | |
|-----------------------------|--|
| 1 multinational corporation | a take things or people to or from a country illegally or secretly |
| 2 smuggle | b worker whose employment is related to a time of the year |
| 3 seasonal employee | c company that operates in more than one country |
| 4 overstay | d remain beyond a specific time limit |
| 5 persecution | e cruel or unfair treatment of someone or a group of people |

1.4 WORD BUILDING Complete the table with words which have related meanings.

Personal stories

2.1 ▶ 36 You will hear the first part of a radio programme about emigration. Listen and complete this summary. Write no more than two words for each gap.

Many people imagine that their life in a new country will be more exciting than the (1) _____ of home. But in fact, although their new (2) _____ are better, they often pine for aspects of their old life. Jane Foreman has experienced painful (3) _____. Her husband David's job (4) _____ them to Kuala Lumpur in Malaysia 18 months ago. Now all she wants to do is (5) _____ to Northumberland.

2.2 ▶ 37 Now listen to the radio programme and answer these questions.

- 1 What positive aspects of life in Kuala Lumpur does Jane mention?
- 2 What has happened to make Louisa feel happier in Canada?

Error warning

Many is commonly used in affirmative sentences in writing: Many people these days prefer to shop online.

However, many is very formal in spoken, affirmative sentences. We prefer to use a lot of or lots of more informally: 'I know many a lot of people like her.' 'She has many lots of good friends.'

Many is used in questions and negative sentences whatever the level of formality. (See Unit 6, 2.2 for more on the use of many and a lot of / lots of.)

2.3 Match these definitions with words from the recordings.

- | | | | |
|---|---|---|------------|
| 1 | needing or wanting something very much | a | pine for |
| 2 | miss something very much | b | insecure |
| 3 | having strong, supportive relationships | c | grieve |
| 4 | feel deeply sad because of a death | d | familiar |
| 5 | anxious, not confident | e | close-knit |
| 6 | well known and easily recognised | f | desperate |

2.4 The adjective prefix multi- means 'many'. Complete the sentences with an adjective starting with multi-.

- The city is home to people from many different cultures. It's a multicultural city.
- Many different languages are spoken in our country. It's a _____ society.
- HSBC is a bank which operates in many different nations. It's a _____ company.
- The fabric is printed with many contrasting colours. It's _____ fabric.
- My printer has many different functions. It's a _____ printer.

2.5 Complete these sentences with phrases from the box.

sense of belonging sense of duty sense of humour sense of responsibility sense of urgency sense of loss

- We're leaving in half an hour and he hasn't finished packing yet. He has no sense of urgency.
- I have a real _____ even though I've only lived here for six months.
- Nothing makes you laugh. You have absolutely no _____.
- He didn't really want to see his parents. He only visited them out of a _____.
- She has looked after her brothers and sisters since they arrived in the country. She has an amazing _____.

2.6 Answer these questions. The idioms in italics can all be found in the recording scripts.

- If you dream of pastures new, what do you want to do?
- If you say 'my heart is' somewhere, do you want to be in that place or not?
- If you find your feet, do you feel more or less comfortable in a situation?
- If you do something like a shot, do you do it slowly or quickly?
- If you go off the beaten track, do you travel to popular tourist destinations or not?
- If a rug was pulled out from under you, would you feel more or less confident?
- If things are looking up, is your situation getting easier or more difficult?
- If something you planned to do is off the menu, can you do that thing as planned?

Listening Part 2

▶ 38 You will hear Lindsey Jones, a recent graduate, talking to a group of students about travelling abroad to find work. For questions 1 – 8, complete the sentences with a word or short phrase.

According to Lindsey, Germany and Singapore are two of the more unusual (1) _____ for young people looking for work in other countries.

Lindsey thinks that the British jobs she could apply for are not the right level for a (2) _____ like her.

Lindsey believes she has a better chance of finding a job at home if she has experience of working in a healthier (3) _____.

Food and (4) _____ are more expensive in New Zealand than in Britain.

A friend (5) _____ Lindsey not to expect to find work easily in New Zealand.

Some young people like to use (6) _____ to help them organise their visits.

Working as a waitress in Sydney made Lucy feel like a (7) _____ of the city and part of the community.

Lucy's (8) _____ has increased as a result of working in Australia.

Extreme sports

1.1 Match the pictures with the sports.

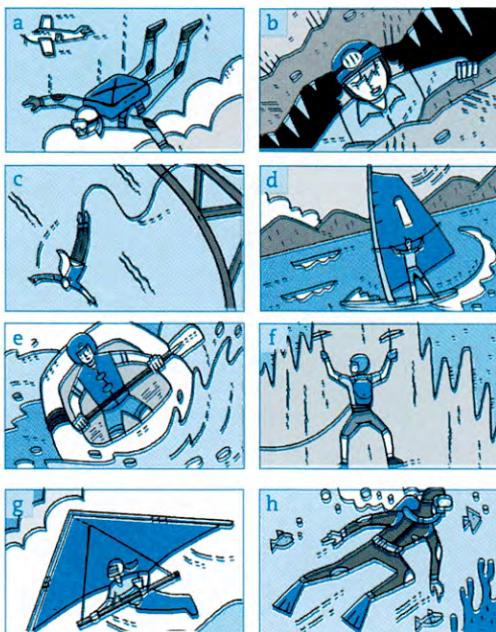

- | | |
|---------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1 bungee jumping c | 5 scuba diving ____ |
| 2 hang-gliding ____ | 6 skydiving ____ |
| 3 ice climbing ____ | 7 white-water rafting ____ |
| 4 potholing ____ | 8 windsurfing ____ |

1.2 Which of these sports have you done? Which would you try?

Vocabulary note

The compound nouns for these sporting activities are formed using the -ing form. Some are written as two separate words, some have a hyphen (-) and others are one word.

(See Unit 5, 2.1 for more on compound nouns.)

1.3 Choose the best words to complete the text.

A defining feature of extreme sports for many people is their alleged capacity to (1) induce / install an adrenaline rush in (2) participants / patients. However, the medical view is that the 'rush' or 'high' (3) associated / imparted with an activity is not due to adrenaline being (4) resumed / released as a response to (5) flight / fear. Medical professionals now claim it is due to increased (6) levels / channels of dopamine, endorphins and serotonin resulting from extreme physical (7) exhibition / exertion. Furthermore, a recent study suggests that the link between adrenaline and 'true' extreme sports is (8) tentative / understated. The study defined 'true' extreme sports as leisure or (9) recreational / residential activities where the most likely outcome of a mismanaged (10) adventure / accident or mistake was death. This definition was designed to separate the marketing hype from the (11) action / activity itself. Another characteristic of these activities is that they tend to be (12) individual / lonely rather than team sports. Extreme sports can include both competitive and non-competitive activities.

1.4 Match these words and phrases from the text with their definitions. Use a dictionary to help you.

- | | |
|---------------------|--|
| 1 marketing hype | a result |
| 2 physical exertion | b exaggerated descriptions used in sales |
| 3 outcome | c poorly controlled or organised |
| 4 mismanaged | d movement of the body which raises the heart rate |
| 5 characteristic | e typical or noticeable quality |

1.5 COLLOCATION We take risks and make mistakes.

 Match the words in the box with take and make. Use a dictionary to help you.

 action advice care a chance a choice a decision a difference effect an effort exercise part precautions

 TAKE: action

 MAKE: a choice
Error warning

 The verb take part is followed by the preposition in: He's hoping to take part in the next Olympic Games. (not He's hoping to take part of/at the next Olympic Games.)

1.6 Complete these sentences with one of the collocations from 1.5.

- I've only just started, but my ski instructor says I am making good progress.
- If you want to _____ in any sporting activity, you should _____ from those who are more experienced than yourself.
- It's important that participants in extreme sports _____ full _____ for their own actions.
- Some sports are extremely dangerous even if you do _____ the proper _____.
- I think you have to _____ about the level of risk you find acceptable.

Risk-taking
2.1 39 You are going to hear a news report which says that certain groups of people are more likely to take risks than others. Choose the statement you think is correct (1–3). Listen and check.

- Women are more likely to take risks than men.
- Teenagers are more likely to take risks than children or adults.
- People from difficult social backgrounds are most likely to take risks.

2.2 39 Listen again and complete these sentences with words or phrases used by the speaker. Write up to three words.

- One option in the study was safer, but would result in a _____.
- The second option resulted in a two-thirds chance of _____ coins.
- Gender was a _____ predictor of a preference to avoid risk.
- Older generations tend to _____ when assessing risk..

2.3 What does the speaker mean by the onset of adolescence? Choose the best meaning.

V Vocabulary note

 The speaker in 2.1 uses formal language in the report, e.g.
 conclusion = decision determine = find out display = show engage in = take part in foresee = predict onset = beginning response = reaction, reply

- 1 The difficulties experienced by teenagers as they develop into adults.
- 2 The beginning of the stage that turns someone into an adult.
- 3 The attitude and behaviour of adolescents as compared with adults.

1 adolescent	teenager youth sibling teen
2 satisfied	content amused happy pleased
3 foreseeing	predicting anticipating analysing
4 thrill	excitement enthusiasm buzz kick

3.1 Choose the correct words to complete the text. Use a dictionary to help you.

How to assess the risks in your workplace

Don't overcomplicate the process. In many organisations, the risks are well known and the necessary control (1) measures / ways are easy to apply. You probably already know whether, for example, you have (2) employees / employers who move heavy loads and so could harm their backs, or the places where people are most likely to slip or trip. If so, check that you have taken (3) rational / reasonable precautions to (4) prohibit / avoid injury. If you run a small organisation and you are confident you understand what's involved, you can do the assessment yourself. You don't have to be a health and safety (5) expert / leader. If you work in a larger organisation, you could ask a safety adviser to help you. If you are not confident, get help from someone who is (6) competent / talented. In all cases, you should make sure that you involve your staff or their (7) agents / representatives in the process. But remember, you are (8) responsible / responsive for seeing that the assessment is carried out properly. When thinking about your risk assessment, remember: a hazard is anything that may cause harm, such as chemicals, electricity, working from ladders, etc. The risk is the (9) chance / opportunity, high or low, that somebody could be harmed by these and other hazards, together with an indication of how (10) sensible / serious the harm could be.

3.2 Answer these questions about a place you know well.

- 1 What are the most hazardous areas and objects?
- 2 What are the riskiest activities carried out on the premises?
- 3 Who might be harmed by these hazards?
- 4 What precautions could be taken to prevent people being harmed?

Vocabulary note

trip = to lose your balance after hitting your foot on something: I tripped while I was running for my train and fell flat on my face.

slip = to slide unintentionally on something wet or smooth, so that you lose your balance: Several people slipped on the icy pavements and two were admitted to hospital with suspected fractures.

stumble = to put a foot down awkwardly and because of this begin to fall: Running along the beach, she stumbled and fell on to the sand.

Reading and Use of English Part 7

You are going to read an extract from a magazine article about cycling safely. Six paragraphs have been removed from the extract. Choose from the paragraphs A – G the one which fits each gap (1 – 6). There is one extra paragraph which you do not need to use.

Should cyclists be forced to wear helmets?

A recent attempt in the UK to make cycling helmets compulsory failed. Now, after a serious crash that put one rider into a brain injury unit, the idea is back on the table. But how much protection do helmets offer?

When I was 13, with my helmet hanging from my handlebars, I wobbled out into the road and was hit by a car. Later that day I remember being told how lucky I was to be wearing it. I said nothing.

So if they can help reduce injury, shouldn't they be compulsory, just like motorbike helmets? Australia tried it in the early 90s and the result was a 15 to 20 per cent drop in the number of hospital admissions for head injuries.

A recent study has shown that cycling has a positive health impact far greater than the potential for injury. Essentially, there's a small chance that you'll have an accident, but a very large chance that you'll reduce your chances of suffering mental illness and heart disease.

A British cycling organisation has long argued against compulsory helmet laws for a similar reason.

It claims they would make cycling seem more dangerous than it actually is, and put people off. The evidence for this is complex and contradictory, providing as much support for those who are deeply sceptical of helmets as for those in favour of them.

There's even evidence that wearing a helmet can put you at more risk. A study by Dr Ian Walker from the University of Bath found that drivers passed closer to cyclists who were wearing helmets when overtaking than they did to those without them. The driver's subconscious obviously sees them as less vulnerable. Dr Walker, an enthusiastic cyclist, says: "It would be sensible, and would genuinely save a lot of lives, if everybody wore a helmet all of the time; but to suggest they are more necessary for cycling than a range of other activities – including walking down the street and driving a car – is misguided."

Personally, I believe that wearing a helmet has more pros than cons, even though cycling is not as risky as many suggest. But there are those out there who would rather not ride than be made to wear a helmet, and for that reason the idea is a non-starter.

Exam practice

- A It's undeniable that compulsory safety devices such as seatbelts in cars have been significant lifesavers. But neither had the same potential for harmful side-effects: dissuade motorcyclists from riding and they'll buy a car, which is actually far safer.
- B Cycling should be promoted as an essentially safe, normal and enjoyable transport and leisure activity, which anyone can do in whatever clothes they prefer to wear, with or without helmets.
- C In addition to this, there's the problem of enforcing new laws. In the first year after the Australian State of Victoria made helmets compulsory, nearly 20,000 fines were issued. Do we want to tie up that much police time on a crime which has no negative impact on a third party?
- D Last year, however, I had a nasty fall and cut my face. If it wasn't for my helmet, I'm sure it could have been worse. So, personally, I now almost never ride without a helmet. I'd rather have it and not need it, than need it and not have it. Studies disagree on the benefits, but some suggest that most head injuries could be prevented in this way.
- E Most people would rather not wear a helmet, especially in hot weather. It's a practical decision: ride long and often enough and one day all those years of unnecessary sweaty-hat hair could pay off.
- F That means laws can actually be counterproductive; they may reduce cycling injuries, but only by reducing the number of cyclists, and those people then become more likely to come to some other kind of less-dramatic harm.
- G That would have been great, but it also reduced the number of cyclists by around 35 per cent. The annoyance and, for teenagers, embarrassment of wearing one steered people away from bikes and towards public transport and cars.

Gender issues

Language, gender in sport

Language

1.1 Which of these job titles tell you the gender of the person? Write M (male), F (female) or N (neutral).

actor ___	midwife ___	teacher ___
cameraman ___	nurse ___	waitress ___
doctor ___	police officer ___	fireman ___
firefighter ___	solicitor ___	policewoman ___
headmistress ___	surgeon ___

1.2 Two of these phrases are definitions of the term gender-neutral language. Which ones?

- language which does not specify gender
- language which clarifies gender
- language which is inclusive of both sexes

1.3 Complete the text with words from the box.

biased categorise connotations neutral sexes stereotypes

English words with sexist (1) connotations lead those who speak the language to subconsciously (2) _____ people by their gender. Human language is deeply rooted in the subconscious and it is said that the language of a culture is clear evidence of the values and beliefs of that culture. Many gender-(3) _____ words exist in the English language. It follows that our choice of language has had an impact on our society and culture. Does sexist language contribute to how we think of both (4) _____ today? Is it possible to impose a gender-(5) _____ language on today's society? It is my view that our society should be concerned about perpetuating gender (6) _____ through language.

1.4 Replace the gender-biased words in italics with neutral words. Use a dictionary to help you.

- The English-language requirements for stewardesses at some airlines are very high.
- I can't wear clothes containing man-made fibres. They make me itch!
- Transport will be provided to and from the venue for conference delegates and their wives.

Vocabulary note

When using a gender-neutral noun, for example student or doctor, we have a choice of pronouns.

If we know that the student or doctor is a man or a woman we can refer to them as he or she.

If we do not know, or do not want to specify the gender of the person, we can use they, them, their, themselves:
If a student fails their exams, they will usually get a chance to resit.

Vocabulary note

These relationship words refer to people of both genders: partner, spouse, colleague, relative, cousin, parent, friend, sibling spouse = husband or wife (formal, legal); sibling = brother or sister (formal)

RESEARCH

Exam practice

Reading and Use of English Part 6

You are going to read four reviews of a book about bringing up children. For questions 1 – 4, choose from the reviews A – D. The reviews may be chosen more than once.

How children succeed

*Four reviewers comment on a book called *Helping Children to Succeed

A
I expected this book to enlighten me about why some children succeed at school and find work, while others drop out of education early, fail to find employment and continue living with their parents well into adulthood. I had hoped that Helping Children to Succeed would provide me with well-researched answers to my concerns, and maybe suggest ways in which all children can be helped to achieve success. However, the author chose to concentrate on the future of students from poor families and gave no indication that he felt such children's chances of future success might be improved. There was an interesting focus on the significance of taking students' personality into account as well as their academic test scores when predicting future success, but this is not new information. The same case has been established before, based on wider research.

B
I found Helping Children to Succeed to be a fascinating and inspiring book. What was most interesting to me was the research finding that children from wealthy families are no more prepared for a successful independent future than children from poorer families. The author demonstrates convincingly that children from all backgrounds need to learn how to work hard but also how to deal with failure without falling to pieces. The book shows convincingly how poor children as well as middle class children and those from wealthier homes are capable of learning these skills necessary for future success. This has made me feel very optimistic that no child needs to fail because of their family background and that something can be done to increase the life chances of poor children.

C
For me the most interesting aspect of Helping Children to Succeed is the amount of evidence which shows that children's characters as well as their academic performance play a crucial part in their future success. This seems to be especially true in the case of children from disadvantaged families. The author's central argument is that, even though children from poor backgrounds are less likely to succeed, determination and hard work can overcome inherited disadvantages. This is not a novel idea, but I found it interesting to hear it restated with reference to today's situation. Where I disagree with the author is his assertion that our education system requires fundamental reorganisation if we are to help children from poor families. He seems to ignore completely the excellent work being done by dedicated teachers in today's schools.

D
I enjoyed Helping Children to Succeed, but in many ways I also found it disappointing. Having finished reading the book, my main criticism is that the title itself is misleading because it focuses primarily on children who fail. Most research studies quoted by the author illustrate how difficult it is for children from poor, disadvantaged homes to succeed or indeed to escape from a cycle of failure. I bought the book for the library where I work, thinking it might offer parents strategies for bringing up children to be successful. In practice, the main strategies recommended by the author are the following: avoid becoming poor and don't expect your child to succeed at everything. He also suggests that children should get used to occasional failure. In my opinion this is an unnecessarily negative outlook.

Which reviewer

shares reviewer C's view that academic performance is not the only measure of a child's success?

expresses a different view from the others about poor children's chances of future success?

shares with reviewer A the feeling that the book did not live up to their expectations?

agrees with reviewer A about the originality of the ideas in the book?

Exam tip

Read the four texts to make sure you understand the subject. Pay particular attention to opinions and attitudes expressed by the writers. Look out for any similarities or differences of opinion.

World health

1.1 Which of these health issues are problems in your country? Put a (✓).

access to healthcare ___ dementia ___ heart disease ___ injury ___ obesity ___ cancer ___ depression ___ influenza ___ malnutrition ___ waterborne disease ___

1.2 Explain the difference between the words in each pair. Use a dictionary to help you.

| 1 infectious / contagious | 4 transmit / contract |
| 2 starvation / malnutrition | 5 epidemic / pandemic |
| 3 treatment / medicine | 6 acute / preventable |

1.3 Complete the sentences using information from the text.

Despite incredible improvements in health since 1950, there are still a number of challenges which should have been easy to resolve. Consider the following:

- One billion people lack access to healthcare systems.
- Cardiovascular diseases (CVDs) are the biggest killer amongst diseases globally. An estimated 17.5 million people died from CVDs in 2005, that is 30% of all global deaths.
- In 2002, almost 11 million people died from infectious diseases alone, far more than the number killed in the natural or man-made catastrophes that make headlines.
- HIV has spread rapidly. UNAIDS, the joint United Nations programme on HIV/AIDS, estimates are roughly: 33.4 million living with HIV, 2.7 million new infections of HIV, two million deaths from AIDS.
- There are 8.8 million new cases of tuberculosis (TB) and 1.75 million deaths from TB each year.
- 1.6 million people still die from pneumococcal diseases every year, making it the number one vaccine-preventable cause of death worldwide. More than half of the victims are children.
- Malaria causes more than 300 million acute illnesses and at least a million deaths annually.
- Around 11 million children under five die from malnutrition and preventable diseases each year.
- More than half a million people, mostly children, died from measles in 2003 even though effective immunisation costs just 0.30 US dollars per person, and has been available for over 40 years.

- 1 Thirty percent of all _____.
- 2 In 2002, more people died of _____.
- 3 Pneumococcal diseases are preventable, yet _____.
- 4 In 2003 over 500,000 people _____.
- 5 It costs only thirty cents to _____.

1.4 WORD BUILDING Complete the table with words which have related meanings.

Noun	Verb	Adjective
immunization (process) _____ (state)	_____	_____ (state)
infection (problem) _____	_____	_____ (can spread) infected (problem)
_____	_____	medical (general) medicated (effect on person)
_____	_____	_____ (used to control) preventable (possible to control)
treatment	_____	_____ (possible to cure) untreated (no medical help)

2.1 43 Listen to a talk about the smallpox virus. Answer the following questions:

- 1 How many people are estimated to have had smallpox in the twentieth century? _____
- 2 When did the immunization program begin? _____
- 3 Who was Edward Jenner? _____
- 4 When was the decision made to try and prevent smallpox globally? _____

2.2 43 Listen again. Are these statements true (T) or false (F) according to the speaker? Correct the false statements.

- 1 Smallpox was spread easily from person to person. ___
- 2 The symptoms of smallpox included fever and skin problems. ___
- 3 Smallpox, although devastating, was not a fatal disease. ___
- 4 Factory workers provided the key to a vaccine for smallpox. ___
- 5 The smallpox vaccine was often given to children. ___
- 6 Smallpox is still a problem in some countries. ___

V Vocabulary note

As a verb, spread is both transitive and intransitive:
Mosquitoes spread diseases like malaria. (transitive)
Spots can spread across the entire body. (intransitive)
 (See Unit 9, 2.1 for more on transitive and intransitive verbs.)

2.3 The prefix mis- adds the meaning 'bad' or 'wrong' to a word. Complete the sentences with the correct words from the box.

misconduct misdiagnosis misfortune misinformation mismanagement misrepresentation

- 1 While he was getting out of the taxi, he had the misfortune to fall over and break his leg.
- 2 The director is being accused of gross _____ of the hospital.
- 3 The psychiatrist was found guilty of professional _____.
- 4 The doctor's _____ meant that the patient nearly died.
- 5 The drug company's advertising campaign was based on _____ and has now been banned.
- 6 The documentary on poor hospital hygiene was a _____ of the truth.

Water and health

3.1 Read the text about water and choose the best summary (a–d).

- a Drinking more water substantially reduces your metabolic rate.
- b Drinking enough water allows increased carbohydrate storage.
- c Water aids the consumption of excess energy.
- d Drinking water is by far the best way to lose weight.

The benefits of drinking water are numerous, and recent studies suggest that you need to drink water to lose weight.

Drink more water to re-hydrate and detoxify your body.

Water is not only essential for health, but increases the rate at which the body burns calories, as well as being a natural appetite suppressant.

Water also plays an important role in metabolising food.

While we know that water is critical to the healthy functioning of the human body, studies suggest that water promotes the lowering of an individual's total energy intake and alters metabolism. Most people who are on a diet do not drink enough water.

To metabolise food, the body needs water.

For every gram of carbohydrate, the body requires three grams of fluid. So, drinking sufficient water can help your body burn up carbohydrates instead of storing them. Additionally, proper hydration while you are on a diet is vital for health, because you are more prone to water retention as your body starts losing fluid along with the weight. If you are dehydrated, your body will slow down its calorie-burning processes. So drink water to lose weight.

3.2 Find words and phrases in the text which match these definitions.

- 1 remove poisonous substances from your body _____
- 2 something which prevents hunger _____
- 3 the overall amount of energy consumed _____
- 4 change eating habits to reduce body fat _____
- 5 liquid substance _____
- 6 be likely to have a particular problem _____
- 7 have insufficient water in your body _____

3.3 Complete these sentences using the correct prepositions. There are similar sentences in the text.

- 1 Regular meals are vital _____ healthy living, especially if people do physical activities.
- 2 Although we should not eat too much of it, fat is essential _____ our health.
- 3 You're more prone _____ illness when you're tired or run down.
- 4 Exercise plays an important role _____ keeping fit.
- 5 The rate _____ which you lose weight depends on the number of calories you burn.
- 6 To remain healthy, a balanced diet is important, along _____ regular exercise.
- 7 We live in an age where the public health infrastructure, its growth and its development are critical _____ our collective health.

Writing Part 2 A report

You see the following notice in your local health centre.

An International Health Development Agency is collecting information about attitudes to public health campaigns in countries around the world. Please help by writing a report on attitudes where you live.

Your report should outline some of the main current health concerns in your country, describe people's attitudes to any recent campaigns aimed at promoting healthy lifestyles and recommend ways in which you think people could be persuaded to take healthy living more seriously.

Write your report in 220 – 260 words in an appropriate style.

Exam tip

Decide who will read the report and how formal/informal your language should be.

Your report should include factual information followed by suggestions or recommendations.

Give your report a title and organise your ideas into sections, each with its own heading. Start by outlining the purpose of your report. Use your own words rather than repeating the words in the question. Explain the reasons for any recommendations you make.

Private journeys

1.1 Complete the questions with travel, journey(s) or trip(s). Answer them about yourself.

- How do you entertain yourself on a long train journey ?
- How long does your round _____ to school or work take?
- How often do you _____ by taxi?
- Where did you use to go on school _____ ?
- What are the benefits of air _____ ?
- Where would you like to go on your next _____ abroad?

1.2 COLLOCATION Match the phrases (1–8) to the type of transport (a–h).

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|-----------|
| 1 board a packed, commuter | a dinghy |
| 2 catch a sightseeing, tourist | b cab |
| 3 fly in a light, twin-engine | c ship |
| 4 book a cabin on a roll-on, roll-off | d plane |
| 5 pedal a three-speed, folding | e ferry |
| 6 hail an empty, black | f train |
| 7 sail on a large, cargo | g bus |
| 8 row a leaky, inflatable | h bicycle |

1.3  44 Listen to a talk about three bicycle-friendly cities. Match the features (1–7) with each city; A (Amsterdam), P (Portland) or C (Copenhagen).

- Local authorities supply bicycles to workers with less money. _____
- There is a scheme to stop bicycles from being stolen. _____
- Almost a third of workers here travel to work by bicycle. _____
- Cars are banned from part of this city. _____
- Here cyclists have their own traffic signals. _____
- Around half of all journeys here are by bicycle. _____
- Many more people here cycle than ever before. _____

Error warning

Don't confuse travel as a noun with journey or trip.

Travel is an uncountable noun which refers to the general activity: Air travel is much cheaper than it was in the past.

Trip refers to an occasion when you go somewhere and come back: I can't afford to take another trip abroad this year.

Journey refers to an act of travelling from one place to another, especially in a vehicle: It's a two-hour train journey from London to York.

Travel is commonly used as a verb: I travel to work by bus.

Journey is only used as a verb in literary, descriptive writing. Trip has a different meaning as a verb (see page 198).

1.4  44 Listen again and complete these sentences with words and phrases used by the speaker.

- 1 People refer to Amsterdam as the _____ of the world.
- 2 There is an _____ of safe and fast cycle lanes in Amsterdam.
- 3 There is also an effective scheme designed to prevent the _____ of bicycles in the city.
- 4 It is possible for people who live in Amsterdam or visitors to _____ bicycles.
- 5 The creation of cycle paths in Portland has resulted in a _____ in the use of bicycles in the city.
- 6 Portland was the first city in America to provide adults on _____ with commuter bicycles.
- 7 The bicycles are all _____ everything needed to use them.
- 8 The world's most successful community cycling _____ can be found in Copenhagen.
- 9 In Copenhagen the majority of bicycle paths are separated from the main _____.
- 10 There is a 20 kroner _____ when you use one of Copenhagen's public bicycles.

Public transport2.1 Complete the text with the correct words from the box.

eco-friendly fossil fuels get around carbon-emissions private cars self-driving vehicles

Dubai recently opened its first Metro network in a bid to reduce the number of people using their cars and cut (1) carbon emissions. The $7.42 billion project has so far been hailed as a success as thousands of people have opted to use it to (2) _____ the city, as opposed to their cars. It raises the question that, if governments are so enthusiastic about citizens relinquishing their (3) _____ to save the environment, what other alternatives are there? How else are people going to get to work conveniently, do their shopping or generally travel with ease and relative cheapness?

Currently, the majority of public transport runs on (4) _____ which creates pollution and is reliant on finite resources. However, many alternatives, such as (5) _____, are being researched. Some of them may seem like preposterous ideas drawn from science fiction, but the drive to find (6) _____ forms of transport is on.

V Vocabulary note

get around = travel to different places:
More and more people are getting around by bicycle, especially in big cities.

get away with = escape without punishment for something you have done wrong: They attacked the old man in the park, but nobody saw them, so they got away with their crime.

get by = to cope in a difficult situation: I couldn't speak the language, but I got by with gestures.

get out of = avoid doing something: He tried to get out of going on the school trip, but in the end he had no choice.

get round to = do something after a long delay: I've had her DVD for weeks, but yesterday I eventually got round to giving it back.

2.2 Answer these questions using appropriate phrasal verbs from the Vocabulary note.

- 1 If you were in an unfamiliar city, how would you travel from place to place?
- 2 If you were abroad and couldn't speak the language, how would you cope?
- 3 How do you avoid doing things you don't want to do?

2.3 Read about some possible new forms of public transport and answer these questions.

- 1 Which of the forms of transport would you like to use? Why?
- 2 Which do you think would be sensible transport solutions for your local area? Why?
- 3 Which ideas are unrealistic? Why?

Driverless pods

These vehicles seat four people and run along guideways like miniature trams. The service will not be timetabled, and will resemble a taxi service as a means of getting from A to B. Users will have the advantage of avoiding congested roads and will be able to travel at speeds of up to 32 km/h. Energy consumption per passenger is one quarter that of a car.

Zeppelins

A greener alternative to planes, these flying machines are finally making a comeback. Environmentalists praise the fact that they fly at lower altitudes than planes and use a fraction of the fuel. Another key advantage is that zeppelins do not need a runway to take off.

Backpack helicopter

Strap on a motor attached to a rotor and take to the skies with your very own backpack helicopter. Popular use of this personal flying machine would require individuals to undergo significant training in navigation and safety. Jet-packs, as seen in science-fiction films, seem an even less realistic prospect.

Segway

Powered by electricity, these clean-running, two-wheeled machines allow individuals to travel at speeds of up to 20 km/h. However, they cannot currently be used on most roads. Confined to pavements, users' speeds are restricted.

Slidewalks

Keep moving even while you're standing still when slidewalks replace conventional pavements. In tests, these devices allowed walkers to move at speeds of up to 9 km/h. Airports have long used similar systems in the form of travelators. However, equipping our city streets with slidewalks would be a costly business.

Maglev Trains

These trains use the force of magnetism to drive them, slashing CO₂ emissions and significantly reducing noise pollution in the process. They're even faster than conventional trains, with a potential top speed of 6,400 km/h. The only downside is that maglev trains are incompatible with the existent rail tracks and these would have to be replaced.

2.4 Complete these sentences with the correct prepositions. There are similar sentences in the texts.

- 1 In most countries, cars are not allowed to drive to / at speeds of over 110 km/h.
- 2 Cycling is a greener alternative to / from other forms of transport.
- 3 New drivers are not allowed to go in / on fast roads like motorways.
- 4 Drivers caught speeding have to have training in / about speed awareness or face a heavy fine.
- 5 The pedestrian zone is confined about / to a very small central area.
- 6 Make sure you get the right fuel! Diesel is incompatible with / to petrol engines.

Vocabulary note

means = method or way of doing something. Means can be both singular and plural:

The tram is a cheap means of getting around.

There are several means of transport we can use.

We will get there by any means possible.

Listening Part 1

 45 You will hear three different extracts. For questions 1 – 6, choose the answer (A, B or C) which fits best according to what you hear. There are two questions for each extract.

Extract One

You hear a woman asking her friend about a change in his transport habits.

- 1 On what occasions does he say he used to travel by taxi?
A when he couldn't get a lift
B when he was on a short journey
C when he missed the last bus or train
- 2 What is the main reason he started walking more?
A He was spending too much money on taxis.
B He became tired of waiting for taxis.
C He realised that walking was beneficial for him.

Extract Two

You hear two people talking about flying.

- 3 What did the woman think when the pilot started speaking?
A She was determined not to lose control of herself.
B She was afraid that the plane was in real danger.
C She thought the plane was going to turn back because of bad weather.
- 4 Which is the worst part of flying for the woman?
A the last few moments of the flight
B the time she spends waiting to board the plane
C when the plane is about to leave the ground

Extract Three

You hear part of an interview with a man who is talking about travelling on the London Underground.

- 5 How did he feel about travelling when he first used the Underground?
A He was terrified.
B He was overexcited.
C He found it very funny.
- 6 What does he think of the Underground as an adult?
A It doesn't inspire any particular feelings in him.
B It is surrounded by unnecessary marketing hype.
C It is an important part of London's cultural heritage.

Exam tip

For each question there is only one correct answer but you will hear vocabulary related to all of the options. Don't choose your answers too soon. Make sure that what you hear fully answers the question. Remember, you will hear the recording twice.

Attitudes

1.1 Choose the best words to complete these sentences. Which picture (A–E) do they relate to?

- 1 His eyes twisted / narrowed and he frowned / wrinkled deeply, sure signs that he was about to jump / fly off the handle.

- | | | |
|----------------------|-------------------------|--------------------|
| 1 angry anger | 5 confrontational _____ | 9 optimistic _____ |
| 2 anxious _____ | 6 contented _____ | 10 patient _____ |
| 3 apprehensive _____ | 7 furious _____ | 11 positive _____ |
| 4 calm _____ | 8 miserable _____ | 12 relaxed _____ |

1.5 Complete these sentences with verbs related to the adjectives in 1.4 above.

- Relax! It'll be okay. Nothing's going to go wrong, I promise. Just try to _____ down.
- The way to deal with bullies like that is simply to _____ them and say you're not going to put up with it any longer.
- The arrogance of the minister's remarks _____ the opposition leader, who angrily demanded an apology.

1.6 Match an extreme adjective from the box with a gradable adjective which is similar in meaning.

astonishing excruciating devastating hideous petrifying superb ravenous ludicrous

- | | |
|----------------------|--------------------|
| 1 good superb | 5 scary _____ |
| 2 hungry _____ | 6 silly _____ |
| 3 painful _____ | 7 surprising _____ |
| 4 sad _____ | 8 ugly _____ |

1.7 COLLOCATION Choose the words which collocate with the words in bold to complete the sentences.

- You're such an exaggerator! The injection wasn't absolutely devastating / excruciating. It was mildly / completely painful at worst.
- I had a particularly / totally good meal at the sushi place in town. The only problem is I'm still completely ravenous / hungry.
- It was utterly ludicrous / funny when the girl fled just because the man was a bit / absolutely ugly.
- I'm completely / rather petrified of spiders. They're totally hideous / ravenous.
- What totally devastating / petrifying news. You must both be bitterly / absolutely disappointed.

1.8 The words mood and attitude are used in many expressions. Match the sentences (1–5) with the expressions (a–e).

- | | |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| 1 He's very up and down. | a He's got a real attitude problem. |
| 2 I wouldn't go near him just now. | b He's not in the mood. |
| 3 He hates anyone with authority. | c He's in one of his moods. |
| 4 He's never put off by a challenge. | d He has terrible mood swings. |
| 5 He doesn't feel like going clubbing tonight. | e He's got a real can-do attitude. |

V Vocabulary note

Angry is a gradable adjective. We can make it stronger or weaker using adverbs, e.g. very; quite; extraordinarily; a bit; rather; mildly.

Furious are an example of an extreme adjective as it includes the idea 'very'. This means we cannot use very with furious (not very furious). To make extreme adjectives stronger we use adverbs meaning 100%, e.g. absolutely; completely; thoroughly; utterly; totally:
I was totally furious when my brother crashed my car.

Really can be used to make both gradable and extreme adjectives stronger.

There are many exceptions to these rules and it is useful to make a note of adverb + adjective collocations you see: faintly ludicrous, thoroughly miserable, bitterly disappointing, endlessly fascinating (See Unit 7, 2.4 for more on gradable adjectives.)

Memory

2.1 Think about your own memory and complete these sentences.

- I have a fantastic memory for _____.
- I'm terrible at remembering _____.
- A memorable event was _____.
- I find it easy to memorise _____.
- I always remember to _____.
- As a child, I remember _____.

Vocabulary note

Remember has a different meaning when followed by to-infinitive or the -ing form of a verb.

He remembered to phone work to say he was going to be late. (= It is a fact. He definitely did phone work.)

He remembers phoning work to say he was going to be late. (= It is a memory. He thinks he phoned work.)

(See Unit 10, 2.1 and 2.3 for more on verb + to-infinitive / -ing patterns.)

2.2 Complete the text with words from the box.

ear forgotten memories mind photographic recall retain short-term

As far as our (1) memories are concerned, my twin sister and I couldn't be more different. She only has to see or hear something once to remember it – it's what they call a (2) _____ memory. - My grandma loves that record. She says it brings back treasured memories of her youth. _____
- It's all so vague! I need something to jog my memory. _____

2.4 Answer these questions using the words in italics from 2.3.

- Which two adjectives are used to describe a very unpleasant memory? _____
- Which two words describe memories from when you were young? _____
- Which three expressions mean 'remind someone of something'? _____
- Which word could you use to describe a memory which is not clear? _____

Reading and Use of English Part 1

For questions 1 – 8, read the text below and decide which answer (A, B, C or D) best fits each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Exam tip

Study the spaces one by one, paying careful attention to the words before and after the gap. The four options you have to choose from will be similar in meaning but only one will fit correctly in the gap. The correct answer may also be the only word to fit grammatically.

Learning new words in a foreign language

Remembering words successfully is a chancy business, but over the last forty years psychologists have found three methods which consistently improve this important language learning (0) B. These are: creating a visual (1) _____ for the word you want to remember; forming word associations; and recalling the word by (2) _____ of a story. (3) _____ into attempts to remember lists of words has shown that these methods (4) _____ in memory improvements of ten percent over simply reading words once.

Now, new studies have shown solid (5) _____ for a fourth method which can be added to the other three; it's surprisingly simple. It only (6) _____ saying the word you want to remember to yourself. It doesn't even seem to matter if you don't say the word aloud – it only has to be mouthed. Across eight experiments in which (7) _____ were asked to read and remember lists of words, researchers found memory improvements sometimes in (8) _____ of ten percent.

Celebrity culture

1.1 Write the names of people you know that fit these descriptions.

- 1 a national sporting legend _____
- 2 a television personality _____
- 3 a big name in showbiz _____
- 4 a world-famous celebrity _____
- 5 someone who is famous for no particular reason _____

1.2 Choose the correct words to complete the first part of this text.

Celebrities have immense social capital: they have many social perks and get jobs that are (1) rarely / readily available to ordinary people. Long after they are at the peak of their career, celebrities can still get (2) expensive / lucrative work in areas unconnected to their (3) benefits / talents. A former footballer, for example, might be paid to attend a public (4) appearance / entrance and speak on a subject totally unrelated to their accomplishments. The mass (5) medium / media plays a key role in promoting the (6) exposure / exposé of celebrities and this has led to celebrity becoming a sought-after status. While many people aspire to achieve fame and envy celebrities, the lifestyle is not without its drawbacks. Some stars who have (7) attained / undergone celebrity often suffer from life in the public eye and the risk of being (8) stalked / obsessed by fans.

V

Vocabulary note

The word celebrity can be a countable or uncountable noun. Some envy celebrities and many aspire to celebrity.

a celebrity = a person who is famous

That magazine is full of photographs of international celebrities.

celebrity = the state or quality of being famous

Celebrity has become a sought-after status.

Reading and Use of English Part 2

For questions 1 – 8, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Exam tip

Look at the words before and after the gap in the text. This will help you to decide what type of word you need, such as a preposition, an article, a pronoun or an auxiliary verb. Missing words may be part of phrasal verbs or fixed phrases.

The Hollywood Star System

The star system was the method (0) of creating, promoting and exploiting movie stars of early twentieth-century Hollywood cinema. In the past, studios used (1) _____ select promising young male and female actors, then glamorise and create new personalities for (2) _____, often inventing new names and even new family and social backgrounds. Legendary actors (3) _____ were put through the star system include Cary Grant and Joan Crawford.

The star system put an emphasis (4) _____ the image rather than the acting skill.

(5) _____ was expected that women would behave like ladies at all times, and were never allowed to leave the house without stylish clothes and full make-up. Men always had to behave like gentlemen (6) _____ public.

Just (7) _____ studio executives, public relations staff and agents worked alongside the actor to create their star personality, so they would work together to cover (8) _____ any incidents that could damage the public image of the star. A star's personal problems, such as divorce, would be suppressed.

Families

1.1 Quickly read the article to find the answers to these questions.

- 1 The writer names five roles that grandparents have in family life. The first is adviser. What are the other four?
- 2 When was it easier than it is now to teach children about beliefs and values?
- 3 What phenomenon is responsible for the changes in children today, according to the writer?

The role of grandparents in children's upbringing

- (1) The word grandparents is descriptive of the unique dual parenting role that this generation assume. It emphasises the vital part they play in family life. With a wealth of old world experience behind them, and with the unique ability to metamorphose from advisers or mediators into listeners or friends, they can offer support and stability in an ever-changing world.
- (2) The underlying sense of responsibility that goes with this is tremendous. Grandparents perform a balancing act between the needs of their adult children and those of their grandchildren. This role is varied. It is imperial at times, muted at others. It goes underground whenever required, but it is solid and absolutely dependable.
- (3) Grandparents often bridge the gap between parents and their children. Rebellious, independent children who are trying to find their feet are almost always at loggerheads with their parents. The role of grandparents can be very important provided they act as impartial judges and are able to convey this feeling to both parties. Grandchildren prefer to listen to their grandparents rather than their parents, who often find themselves up against a brick wall.
- (4) One important thing, which seems to be missing in the lives of children today, is a sense of family, values, beliefs and principles. This is where the grandparents step in. However, instilling beliefs and values is not as easy as it was fifty or sixty years ago. Then, no questions were asked and there was an implicit sense of trust. With changing times and changing outlooks, children have started to question the validity of everything around them. Globalisation has eroded their sense of belonging and weakened identification with their roots. Science and technology force them to doubt every traditional belief.
- (5) Parents, who have so many demands on their time, are perhaps not in the best position to instil traditional values in their offspring. Children are very demanding and grandparents, without appearing to be pushy, have both the time and the experience to deal with tantrums. They can appease, soothe and impart values with tremendous ease. Our Indian culture is rich and varied, but how many children recognise this? Grandparents can teach them to appreciate cultural traditions and inform their moral development.

1.2 Match these expressions from paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 with their definitions.

- | | |
|------------------------------|--|
| 1 have a wealth of | a find it impossible to make progress |
| 2 perform a balancing act | b deal with different demands at the same time |
| 3 be at loggerheads | c provide a connection |
| 4 bridge a gap | d be unable to agree |
| 5 be up against a brick wall | e have a lot of |

1.3 Read the text again and find words which match these definitions.

- 1 a strong state which is unlikely to change or fail (paragraph 1)

- Stella warns employees against
 - constantly seeking advice from superiors.
 - asking colleagues for their views.
 - giving advice which was not asked for.
 - openly criticising other people's contributions.

Exam tip

Before you listen, read through the questions and underline the main idea in them. This will provide a focus for your listening. While listening, wait until the speaker has finished talking before you choose your answer. Listen for the idea expressed in the four possible answers rather than for specific words.

Holidays

1.1 Answer these questions from a holiday questionnaire.

- 1 What was your most recent holiday destination? 3 Why did you choose this destination?
2 How did you travel? 4 What kind of accommodation did you choose?

1.2 Complete the description of childhood holidays with words and phrases from the box.

destination entertainments international flights isolated beach local cuisine pack self-catering spectacular scenery tropical resorts two-week

When I was a child it was fairly unusual to go on a foreign holiday. The prices of (1) international flights were exorbitant compared to those offered by today's budget airlines. Package holidays to (2) _____ were pretty much unheard-of. Instead my parents would (3) _____ our aged car with the necessary belongings, and our family holiday would begin with a twelve-hour drive through the night. Our (4) _____ was always the same: exotic Scotland. Each year, my parents booked a different (5) _____ cottage, usually next to an (6) _____ and invariably with no mod cons whatsoever. The beds were always lumpy and damp. There wouldn't even be a washing machine, never mind a television.

No doubt we were surrounded by (7) _____, but this meant little to me or my sister. Plastic buckets and spades were the basis of all our holiday (8) _____. Armed with these and a towel, we would tear down to the beach every morning. We built extravagant castles, we buried my father alive, we saved the lives of stranded jellyfish, we collected jewels, and we dug to Australia. Summer holidays lasted at least a year back then.

I pity the kids today with their (9) _____ breaks in the sun. Who wants all-inclusive resorts boasting restaurants serving authentic (10) _____? Who needs artificial lagoons featuring wave machines and plastic waterfalls? Show me an eight-year-old girl on a Scottish beach with a bucket and spade and I'll show you what real holiday fun is all about.

China on a shoestring?

A

You can probably manage on less than 30 euros per day. To do this, you'll have to look for the lowest fares on buses or trains and stay in hostels or budget hotels, of which there are many in southwest China. Taking the train is the best way of getting from one big city to the next, but buses are more economical. There are buses you can sleep on for long journeys – but having said that, they're pretty uncomfortable. One thing I can't stress enough: you'll miss out on the real China if you fly. Getting off the beaten track is best done by other means. However, in rural areas the language barrier was a challenge for me. I'm only sorry I wasn't able to converse more effectively.

B

I'd always liked the thought of being a solo traveller, but I think I'd probably had a better time going on something organised. My travel and accommodation cost about a hundred pounds a week, then there was food and flights to China on top of that. Once I'd paid, I didn't have to worry about money or anything else and I had people to share the experience with. I'd really recommend this option if you are in the same position. Our guide was a native speaker but fluent in English. He accompanied us everywhere and made everything so easy for the group.

C

Beijing seems really expensive to start with, but you soon find out how to get by on a budget and still eat well – the restaurants near the station are a good place to start. If you're going to travel around China by train, I'd suggest that you buy your ticket in advance, especially if you want to travel on a public holiday. And if you choose the cheaper seats, you'll be sure to get acquainted with the real Chinese. I can guarantee that they'll be interested in you. I've heard that you can travel pretty cheaply by plane these days, but I don't feel like I missed out. I would not have come into contact with so many locals if I had prioritised my own comfort whilst travelling.

D

If you go all the way to China, make sure you do as much as possible, instead of constantly looking for the least expensive ways of doing things. Obviously organised trips cost a little more than doing everything yourself, but I think you have a better experience. The travel reps are very efficient and want to make sure you get a good impression of the places you visit. As everything's set up in advance, you avoid misunderstandings and difficulties which can arise if you're trying to make arrangements in an unknown language.

E

Compared with travel in Europe, the cost of public transport in Chinese cities is incredibly cheap. In the capital, Beijing, for example, it only costs the equivalent of 30 cents to travel by underground anywhere in the city. If you buy what they call a "pass", you can travel around the city, but it can also be used to pay for public phones, for taxi fares or even to buy things in supermarkets. In many cities, taxis are a real option for travellers on a tight budget. If you share with other tourists, it can be cheaper than taking the bus. If you intend to go out at night, there may be night buses, but taxis are the most likely choice of transport, although some private citizens offer a taxi service in their private cars. These are often cheaper than taxis, but if you use them, you may be in danger, and you should remember that taking a "black taxi" is actually forbidden in China.

News and information

1.1 Which of these sources of information are important to you? Put a (✓).

internet blogs _____ 24-hour TV news _____ in-depth news analysis _____

1.2 Complete the text with words and phrases from the box.

access to directly expert analyst media channels mobile devices reported stay-up-to-date subscribe to targeted information tuning in

Information sources of the future

The first and most dramatic change is the advent of social news. Social news is rapidly becoming the means by which we (1) stay up-to-date with what is going on in the world. News is no longer (2) _____ solely by journalists. News can now come from anyone – bypassing the traditional (3) _____. Instead of having an edited version of what a(n) (4) _____ is saying, we hear it straight from the source. Social news is about getting information (5) _____ and unfiltered.

A new wave of entertainment has also arrived, one dominated by games, video and audio streams. Instead of (6) _____ to a TV channel, we decide what to watch and when to watch it. We no longer have to (7) _____ channels on which other people choose what we see. We control everything ourselves.

And a new concept in the form of (8) _____ is slowly emerging. We are already seeing an increasing number of services on (9) _____ which provide information for the particular area that you are in. For example, there are so-called ‘geo-targeting services’ which provide you with a list of restaurants within reach of your location rather than showing you establishments worldwide.

The number of these services is going to explode in years to come. In a world where we have (10) _____ more information than we can consume, selecting that which is relevant will be a very important element of delivery. And this will expand far beyond the simple geo-targeting that we see today.

1.3 Find words and phrases in the text which match these definitions.

2.1 Read the text and underline the parts which give you the information in these sentences.

- 1 Paula found Ireland depressing.
- 2 Paula is not sorry she moved to New York.
- 3 Paula expected to find a good job in Ireland.
- 4 Paula was determined to be promoted.

Ireland's brain drain

Complete with a degree from a top Irish University and ready to join the world of work Paula McGrath struggled to find a job at home, so she decided to try her luck in the USA and escape the doom and gloom of the Irish economy. Now she can be found working in a restaurant in New York.

I graduated in Media Studies and came here to the US, which for many is the land of opportunity. I haven't landed the job of my dreams yet, but the excitement of living and working in a city like New York is like a dream come true in itself.

I always thought that I would stay in Ireland after I had graduated. The days when the country had a thriving economy were long gone, but there were still jobs for the more educated members of the workforce. At university I was aware that I couldn't wait for a job opportunity to spring up though, as there were plenty of people to fill gaps in the labour market when jobs were created.

At the same time Ireland was continuing to churn out more and more highly educated and highly motivated graduates, so I needed a plan to be able to compete. I decided that I would study as hard as I could and get the grades I needed to embark on a career.

I graduated with good grades and I was lucky enough to find a job in Dublin that had really good prospects. From my first day there I imagined myself climbing the corporate ladder and becoming an executive in the company. It was not to be though; after six months the company went bust and, all of a sudden, I found myself without a job.

I spent about six months trying to find a permanent job, but apart from some freelance work I couldn't find anything. I started to feel my work ethic disappear. It was at this point that I decided that it was time for a change. I came to the decision that I would try my luck in America. I applied for and got my visa and I haven't looked back since.

1.5 Complete the news article with words from the box.

finances income market non-essentials profits retailers spending stock

Low holiday spending due to economic worries

Americans won't be spending as much this holiday season due to continued worry about their (1) finances. New research found that 56% of Americans rated the economy as 'poor' and 46% believed the situation was getting worse.

This is bad news for (2) _____ trying to eke out their earnings this holiday season, especially since the survey showed that roughly 63% of respondents said they planned to spend less this holiday season. The figure is unchanged since last year, when retailers had one of the worst showings ever and had to slash prices even before Christmas to help move (3) _____.

Even the news that household (4) _____ inched up is a double-edged sword. People surveyed indicated they'd be spending more on items like gas and groceries, but they're making up for this increase by further cutting what they spend on (5) _____ like movies or restaurant meals.

Perhaps the most troubling part of the research shows that a rising number of Americans not only have no money left over after paying their bills, but expect their (6) _____ to fall even further in the coming months. Most people have already cut their spending to the bone, so it's not clear what lies ahead for average Americans trying to make ends meet. The stock (7) _____ may be rising and some big companies may be reporting (8) _____, but make no mistake: this data shows that we're certainly not out of the woods yet.

1.6 Find phrases in italics which match these definitions in the article.

- increase slowly inch up

Top tips for starting your own business

A _____

When seeking investment, make sure you put the time and effort into developing a solid business plan you can present to potential investors. The personal touch is also important, so try to build a good working relationship with your bank manager – it makes a big difference.

B _____

When setting up a business, there's often no need to spend large sums on offices, fancy logos and designer furniture. It is far more important to keep a low cost base at the start, and keep costs as variable as you can. Make sure you are not locked into long contracts, for example.

C _____

Small businesses often have advantages over their larger competitors. If you can respond quickly to customers and feedback and always maintain the personal touch, your business may thrive where larger competitors have to struggle to react in such a dynamic way.

D _____

Be a sponge, learn from others' mistakes, as well as your own, and proactively seek out mentors. The Internet and especially social networking make it easy to connect with other small business owners. It's important to be part of a buzzing business community.

Writing Part 1 An essay

You must answer this question. Write your answer in 220 – 260 words in an appropriate style.

You have listened to a radio discussion programme about the problem of young people not being prepared for employment. You have made the notes below.

Solutions to the problem of young people not being prepared for employment:

- school training programmes
- employers' programmes
- work experience

Some opinions expressed in the discussion:

"Employers should not be expected to train future employees in basic skills."

"It is the responsibility of schools to prepare students for the world of work."

"Young people should realise that starting work requires commitment and a readiness to learn new skills."

Write an essay discussing two of the solutions in your notes. You should explain which solution you think is more likely to be successful, giving reasons to support your opinion.

You may, if you wish, make use of the opinions expressed in the discussion, but you should use your own words as far as possible.

Exam tip

It is important that you make sure that what you write will make sense to the reader. This means presenting clear arguments in which the sentences and paragraphs are linked in a logical way. Remember to give reasons to support your ideas.

Reading and Use of English Part 2

For questions 1 – 8, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Bathwick Historical Centre

Have any of your relatives (0) ever lived or worked in Bathwick or in any of the surrounding areas? Do you have an interest (1) _____ finding out more about your family's past? Are you curious about your ancestors? You might want to know more about your roots, but (2) _____ not know where to start, or alternatively, you might want to piece together the story of a branch of your family (3) _____ a particular relative. If so, we can help.

We have a qualified local historian on our team who can assist you in your search for information on your ancestral roots. Additionally, we have built (4) _____ an extensive database, which goes back to the 1600s and contains information about local families, their genealogy, where they lived and what they did for a (5) _____. We can also access data (6) _____ numerous other sources such as electoral registers, national censuses, parish records and historical archives, including newspaper articles. (7) _____ our services (8) _____ be of interest to you, please do not hesitate to contact us.

1.1 Which of these issues have a negative effect on the environment where you live? Put a (✓).

coastal erosion ___ urban development ___ intensive agriculture ___ oil spills ___ overfishing ___ nuclear accidents ___ waste treatment ___ invasive species ___ deforestation ___ overgrazing ___

1.2 Read the article about environmental problems in Australia. Choose headings for paragraphs (1–6) from the expressions in 1.1.

1 _____

When large numbers of trees are cut down, the salinity of the soil can greatly increase. Salt water draining from such areas can affect downstream water quality.

2 _____

Pasture mismanagement is one of the main pressures on biodiversity. The unsustainable use of grazed pasture without giving plants time to recover has modified vast areas of grasslands. This kind of continued defoliation has led to desertification and erosion.

3 _____

Australia's fisheries are already close to collapse because of this activity, and the problem is getting worse. There are two major factors which account for the problem: slow regeneration of marine populations and depletion of fish stocks by commercial over-exploitation.

4 _____

It is estimated that Australia gains around 20 new pests each year. Examples include cane toads, willows and, more recently, red fire ants. Historically, feral cats and foxes have been a cause of local extinctions and reductions in range for native species through a combination of habitat modification and predation. Weeds are an equally significant pressure on ecosystems, with more than 2,500 species of introduced plants now thriving in the wild in Australia. They have invaded every part of the landscape.

5 _____

Bio-intensive farming is affecting Australia's coasts and oceans, particularly estuaries and environments near the shore. Estimates are that each year almost 19,000 tonnes of phosphorus and 141,000 tonnes of nitrogen are discharged into rivers flowing to the coast.

6 _____

Of continuing concern for Australia is population growth along the country's coastline. The formation of massive metropolitan centres with intensive population density on Australia's coasts could displace much valuable biodiversity and 'high-value' agricultural land.

1.3 Are these statements true (T) or false (F) according to the text? Explain your answers using the words in italics in the text in 1.2. Use a dictionary to help you.

- Deforestation leads to an increase in the level of salt in the soil. T - salinity of the soil can increase
- The range of organisms in the environment has not been affected by overgrazing. _____
- Overgrazing has gradually worn away fertile soil. _____
- Fish stocks have been able to renew themselves quickly. _____

Exam tip

For Reading and Use of English Part 3 tasks, read the whole text quickly first, thinking about what type of words are missing (for example, a noun or adjective). Then think about the exact form of each missing word. For example, if the word is a noun, should it be singular or plural? Think about whether the meaning of the word will add to the sentence as a whole. Does the word need a prefix, a suffix or both to make sense?

Discovery

1.1 Which three of these inventions or discoveries do you think are the most important? Put a (✓).

- | | | | |
|--------------------------------------|--------------------|----------------------|---------------------|
| radio _____ | television _____ | electricity _____ | the telephone _____ |
| the personal computer _____ | the Internet _____ | nuclear energy _____ | the microchip _____ |
| the aeroplane _____ | penicillin _____ | birth control _____ | sanitation _____ |
| the internal combustion engine _____ | | | |

1.2 ▶ 59 Listen to three people talking about the most important discoveries and inventions. Answer these questions for each speaker.

1 What does each speaker choose?

Speaker 1 _____

Speaker 2 _____

Speaker 3 _____

2 What are the reasons for these choices?

Speaker 1 _____

Speaker 2 _____

Speaker 3 _____

1.3 ▶ 59 Listen again and complete the sentences with words used by the speakers.

- Without electric lighting many _____ would have been more difficult.
- Many parts of _____ depend on electricity.
- The discovery of penicillin saved _____.
- Antibiotics have increased the average _____ in the developed world.
- Microchips are the brain, heart and _____ of digital devices.
- Since the early 1970s there have been more _____ than in any other period.

1.4 Match the branch of science (1–10) with the words lists (a–j).

- | | |
|----------------|--|
| 1 anatomy | a carnivore; invertebrate; mammal; prey; venom |
| 2 anthropology | b biodiversity; extinction; habitat; pollution; species |
| 3 archaeology | c asteroid; comet; galaxy; nebula; orbit |

| 8 psychology | h chromosome; heredity; mutation; organism; variation |
| 9 seismology | i ancestor; bone; dig; remains; settlement |
| 10 zoology | j behaviour; instinct; intelligence; memory; mind |

1.5 Complete each sentence with words from two of the lists in 1.4.

ANATOMY & ZOOLOGY

1 The common characteristic of invertebrates like insects is that they do not have a _____.

ANTHROPOLOGY & SEISMOLOGY

2 Local _____ hold the belief that the _____ is a god which erupts when it is angry.

ECOLOGY & GENETICS

3 Lack of genetic _____ in the population makes a _____ vulnerable to disease.

ASTRONOMY & METEOROLOGY

4 If a _____ were to enter the earth's _____, the results would be catastrophic.

1.6 Which of the words in each box cannot replace the word in italics in the sentence below it? Why?

1 hypothesised proved speculated suggested

Researchers have predicted that there is a possible relationship between the two phenomena.

4 carry out conduct experiment undertake

Only when we get the funding to do the research, can we begin to recruit our team.

2 ascertain contradict demonstrate determine

Only clinical trials can show whether or not the drug is truly effective.

5 caused affected set off triggered

It was observed that the introduction of the compound started an explosive chemical reaction.

3 advance breakthrough development drawback

This significant discovery contributes more to our knowledge than any past study.

6 conclusion finding outcome prediction

The unexpected result of the experiment may disprove earlier theories.

Solutions

2.1 How will science and technology be used to solve the world's problems? Make a prediction about each of the problems in the box.

climate change disappearance of fossil fuels food shortages disease water shortages

2.2 Read the first paragraph of an article about electric cars. According to the writer, what is the main problem associated with these cars?

I would love electric cars to work, but they have their problems and the biggest of these is battery technology. Portable electronic gadgets like laptops, mobiles and cameras have long suffered from the limitations of the humble battery. In fact, while the performance of electronics has increased by 10,000% in the past 35 years, battery technology has lagged behind with only a sixfold increase in a century. This imbalance has important implications for the electric car. Many drivers won't consider replacing their conventional petrol-powered car with an electric model until the differences in price and performance narrow dramatically.

2.3 Choose the correct words to complete the rest of the article from 2.2.

Batteries have to go a lot further before they can catch up with the combustion (1) engine / machine and their limitations are forcing car (2) creators / manufacturers into designing and making electric cars with the same (3) distance / range as vehicles made in 1910. As an example, a typical small family car can travel over 370 miles in mixed driving (4) conditions / circumstances and can easily (5) maintain / retain a speed of 70mph. For an electric car to manage that, its batteries would weigh over 1.5 tonnes and would be similar in size to the car itself. And unlike a (6) container / tank of petrol, a massive battery doesn't get any lighter with each mile covered.

There are three key problems that will be difficult for manufacturers to (7) overcome / overtake: firstly, their range calculations may be too optimistic: to get a reasonable (8) life / living from batteries they should not be run from full to empty and should be kept at 20–80% of their charge.

Secondly, charging time remains a major (9) obstacle / obstruction. Recharging an electric vehicle battery on a domestic power supply is likely to take around 13 hours.

Finally, with the majority of our electricity likely to come from non-renewable (10) resources / funds in the near future, electric vehicles could actually contribute more CO₂ to the environment than one of today's high-efficiency diesel (11) models / styles.

I'd like to see electric cars take off but we can't assume they will. Neither can we assume they will have any impact on carbon (12) discharges / emissions for quite some time.

Error warning

At last and finally are both used with the same meaning when something happens after a long period of waiting or effort.

At last I'm old enough to drive.

I've finally finished my essay.

We can use finally to introduce the last point in a piece of writing or a speech but we cannot use at last:

Finally, there can be no change without governmental support ... (not ~~At last~~, ~~there can be~~...)

Finally, I'd like to thank you all for coming this evening ... (not ~~At last~~, ~~I'd like to thank~~...)

(See also Unit 17, 2.4 for more on the use of at last and finally.)

2.4 Compound nouns can often be used to replace a longer phrase, which may include a preposition. For example, power supply is used instead of supply of power. Make two-word compound nouns from these phrases.

- | | | | |
|-------------------------------|-------|---------------------------|-------|
| 1 emissions of gas | _____ | 4 manufacturers of motors | _____ |
| 2 a tank for petrol | _____ | 5 resources of oil | _____ |
| 3 a car suitable for a family | _____ | 6 engines using diesel | _____ |

2.5 Choose the correct phrasal verb with take in these sentences.

- The mini-disk was a wonderful invention but it never really took off / took up commercially.
- I hear they're taking up / taking on a hundred new employees at the aircraft factory.
- A small IT firm in our town has been taken out / taken over by a large multinational corporation.
- When I started work in the laboratory, they took me round / took me through all the safety procedures.
- My brother has decided to take up / take to medicine as a career.
- The doctor has said I'm okay now, so he's taken me away / taken me off the tablets.
- I find it difficult to take up / take in what people are saying when I'm tired.

2.6 Write sentences using each of the take verbs you did not use in 2.5.

- I'd like to take you up on your offer of help.

Exam practice

Writing Part 2 A letter

Your local council is considering banning all private vehicles from the town centre between the hours of 8.00 am and 6.00 pm on working days. Outside these times and at weekends there will be no restrictions. Write a letter to the editor of your local newspaper expressing an opinion on this issue.

You may support or reject the idea. Give reasons for your position and state how this ban might affect you, the local economy and the environment.

Write your letter in 220 – 260 words in an appropriate style. You do not need to include postal addresses.

Exam tip

Before starting to write, think carefully about the purpose of the letter, who the reader will be and what this person will expect to read. Then, with this information in mind, decide how formal the language of your letter needs to be.
